I have been listening to PBS stations in my area and yuo know what I have been hearing? Bush started the Iraq war to boost his popularity among other things with a liberal slant. What a load of crap. Stupidest crap I have ever head. Bad as Airhead America. People that believe this kind of garbage deserve what they get. How do they expect me to keep listening to this kind of crapola at lunch time as it ruins my digestion.

Hello, All:

As my first post two years ago indicated that I bought an atomic clock in February, 2005, and it worked fine until July, 2005 when the clock started to display arbitrary Month, Date, Day, etc..

Michael Black suggested (in July, 2005) that I change the battery.
Well, I did not. I wanted to see how far it could go. After three or four or five days, it resumed normal.

And then in August, 2006 (as far as I can recall), the same thing happened again. I did not change the battery and the malfunctioning was gone after three or four days.

And it has since been normal. It is 2 years and 2 months since I bought it and I have never changed the battery.

Have you changed the battery? I can see the clock acting up because the battery is low, and then not getting proper reception to resync properly.

I still have the first set of batteries in mine (a cheap Radio Shack one I got for $20 Canadian when it was on sale), and I got it either in February 2005 or February 2004, I can't remember and don't have the bill handy.

Other than initially, when I needed to fiddle a bit to find a good spot, I've never noticed any problem with the time. Every time I check it, the little indicator is on that indicates it did receive okay that night (they just update once a day, usually in the wee hours of the morning).

I honestly did expect the batteries to be used up by now, and changing batteries would make a lot of sense if there was a problem.
(I've had remote controls that seem fine until suddenly you realize it's not working so well and when you change the batteries operation is so much better that you realize you should have changed the batteries before.)

There can be a lot of interference from electronic equipment in the vicinity, and likely especially junk signals that get into the power line and radiate that way. I can imagine something like that coming up, and causing problems for a few days.

I seem to recall people have spoke of false time being sent out, but I don't know whether this is real or imagined. Or maybe it was you who suggested this, when you posted last.

BAD,

[Reality Check] Christians are Not the Ones Going Around with Machine Guns, Grenades and Bombs on Fridays Attacking Islamic Mosques. But this is a regular 'happening' in many Islamic Countries for Muslims to Attack Christian Churches on Sundays. Especially in Pakistan and Indonesia. In Indonesia over 20 years 1000 Christian Churches were in-fact attacked. In these "ATTACKS" People were Murdered and buildings destroyed. Think Of It: That is one Attack a Week, Every Week for 20 Years. So is there a pattern here? Some reasonable people think so.

Handy Shortwave Chart
Bill McFadden
billmc@agora.rdrop.com

Band allocations and time zone conversions for the USA. Includes broadcast bands used outside the USA. For multi-use bands, primary usage is shown.
Some stations operate outside official bands. Information is from Oct 2005 FCC rules and Jan 2006 NTIA manual, see Chapter 4 of:
http://www.ntia.doc.gov/osmhome/redbook/redbook.html

Frequencies are in kHz. Usual spacing in shortwave broadcast bands is 5 kHz. Frequencies above 10000 kHz tend to propagate better during the day; frequencies below 10000 kHz tend to propagate better at night.

Please e-mail suggestions and corrections to billmc@agora.rdrop.com.

Phone line as SW antenna
Bill McFadden
billmc@agora.rdrop.com

Changes preceded by "|".

WARNINGS AND DISCLAIMERS

Connecting unapproved devices to phone lines may be illegal in your area.
Telephone lines present a potential shock hazard. Do not use this antenna for transmitting. Use at your own risk.

INTRODUCTION

This article describes how to use a phone line as a shortwave receiving antenna. Performance will vary depending on the kind of phone line you have. Overhead lines usually make okay antennas, while underground lines | usually don't. Phone lines carrying DSL service may be unsuitable because | DSL operates over a wide spectrum. A phone line antenna will generally pick up more power line noise than a dedicated antenna, so don't expect to | use it for DX work. Nevertheless, I found that it outperformed the | telescopic whip antennas built into many portables.

A reader sent in this suggestion: If you're concerned about connecting the phone line directly to the receiver, try wrapping the phone cord several times around the receiver's telescopic whip antenna instead.
Performance may not be as good as a direct connection, but it will probably be better than the whip antenna by itself.

Someone else wrote asking about lightning protection. I haven't thought much about it because thunderstorms are rare in my area. Most phone lines have lightning arrestors on them where they enter the house, but the lightning arrestors may pass enough energy during a lightning strike damage a receiver. My suggestion is to disconnect the antenna when not in use if you experience frequent thunderstorms.

HOW TO DO IT

The simplest connection is a single capacitor between the phone line and receiver. The capacitor eliminates all phone line voltages, including | ringing, so that they will not harm the receiver. The capacitor should
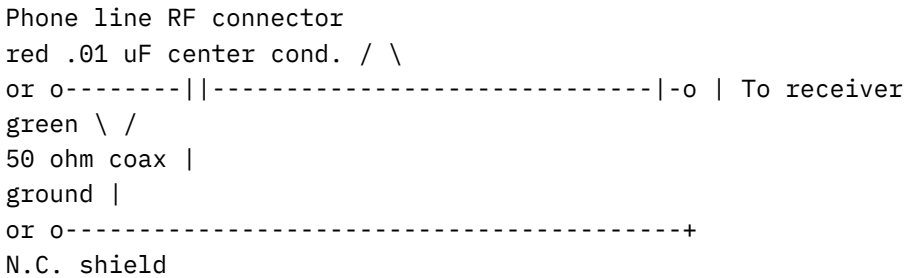
| be rated 250 volts or higher.



N.C. = no connect. I originally connected the phone line ground (yellow wire) to this terminal, but reception was better without it (if you do this, play it safe and put a .01 uF capacitor in series). If another ground is available, you can connect it to this terminal.

If you are picking up local AM or FM radio stations on the shortwave bands, it is likely that your receiver is overloaded. Inexpensive and portable receivers usually lack the filtering needed to eliminate this interference, but you can make your own filters. Filters can also be | purchased from shortwave dealers (see below for recommendations).

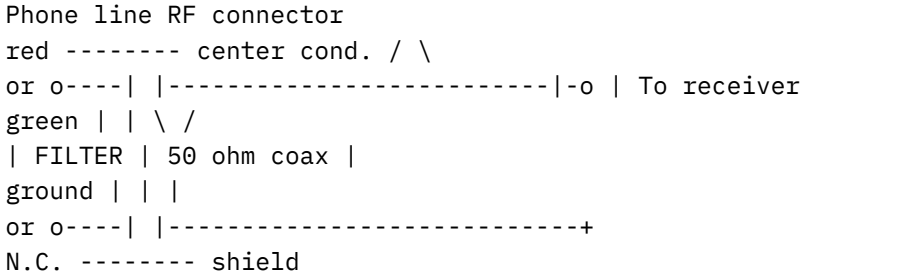
A high-pass filter can be used to remove signals below the shortwave bands. It rejects interference from local AM stations and presents a high impedance to the phone line at audio frequencies so that the phone line remains balanced.

A low-pass filter can be used to remove signals above the shortwave bands. It rejects interference from FM and TV stations, as well as VHF 2-way radio transmitters. If you use both filters, connect the output of the first filter to the input of the second (don't forget to connect their ground terminals together). It doesn't matter which filter is connected first.

These filters also work well with random wire antennas. Just connect the antenna in place of the phone line.

The filter(s) should be connected to the phone line in this manner:



| RECOMMENDED FILTERS
| If you don't want to make your own filters, the following have good | performance, are well-built and affordable:
| Model 400 BCB interference filter (3.5 MHz highpass)
| http://www.iceradioproducts.com/filtersrf.html#bcb

| Model 420 HF lowpass filter (30 MHz lowpass)
| http://www.iceradioproducts.com/filtersrf.html#3
| (scroll down a bit to see the model 420)
| If you have a random-wire antenna, the following unit will provide | impedance matching and lightning protection (connect antenna to 450-ohm | terminal):
| Model 182A beverage matching unit
| http://www.iceradioproducts.com/reconly.html#Beverage Matching

FILTER PLANS

The original credit for the high-pass and low-pass filters goes to Paul Blumstein and John Shalamskas, respectively. Edited versions of their articles are included here:

From: paulb@harley.TTI.COM (Paul Blumstein)
Subject: BC Band Hi-Pass Filter

The following ascii-schematic diagram is a high pass filter that will filter out Broadcast Band (MW) stations. I found it a great boon to my shortwave listening since local MW stations overload my ATS-803A front end & appear in SW, especially with a long antenna.

If you remember my antenna saga, I went from 50 feet to 150 feet & had overload problems causing me to cut back to 50 feet. (Even at 50 feet, I still have some MW interference). I took the advice of Gary Coffman and looked up filters in the ARRL Handbook. With the filter in place, I intend to try to increase my antenna length again.

Anywho, here is the filter, for interested parties.

--------||---+----||-----+----||-----------
} }
{ {
} }
-------------+-----------+-----------------

The outer capacitors are 1500 pf ceramic disks.
The inner capacitor is 820 pf ceramic disk.
The squiggly things are coils (two total). Each one is 2.7 uh.
(a close value will do).

Subject: Re: BC Band Hi-Pass Filter

I built the filter that Paul Blumstein posted recently and measured it on a gain-phase analyzer. Here are its characteristics:

100 kHz -120dB
500 kHz -68dB

1000 kHz -38dB
1600 kHz -15dB
2100 kHz -3dB

The source and load impedances were 50 ohms. Because the filter has five elements, the attenuation is 30dB per octave. The measurements confirmed this.

This filter seems to be a good compromise between interference attenuation and passband response. There is very little attenuation in the 120m band and above. It could use a little more attenuation at the upper end of MW, which could be done with more stages or a higher cutoff frequency. Alternatively, you could build two of these filters and put them in series. (Since two 1500pF capacitors in series are really 750pF, you could eliminate one cap.)

Just for fun, I put 470 ohms in series with the input to see how the filter performed with an antenna mismatch. The response was:

100 kHz -105dB
500 kHz -60dB
1000 kHz -35dB
1600 kHz -15dB
2300 kHz -3dB

These figures are normalized to the passband response of -15dB, which is due to the impedance mismatch between the source and load and would have been there without the filter. Hence, the filter works almost as well in spite of the mismatch, which is good news to those who use long-wire antennas.

Subject: Construction of filters for SW reception

Several people have asked for construction details of the filters I built for my DX-440.

The high-pass filter helped some, but in my location the VHF/UHF broadcasters are also causing problems. So, I dug out the ARRL handbook and chose a 7-element Chebyshev low-pass design that is -3 dB at 35 MHz, -20 dB at 43 MHz, and -50 dB at 64 MHz (all calculated; it works well in practice!)

LOW-PASS FILTER (Rejects FM, TV, etc.)

chassis ground

I had to do a little more improvising at this point. I used .33 uH instead of .36, and .66 uH instead of .42, but it works fine.

The 5-lug terminal strips were perfect for these circuits, since there are 4 lugs plus a grounded lug. All "ground" connections go to the lug that is mounted to the chassis, and the other 4 lugs are used for each of the connections on the signal line. One terminal strip is used per filter. Since both filters were necessary to clean up the hash, I am going to put them both into one box when I get the time.

The proper way to connect them is in series, i.e.

signal in ------- filter 1 -------- filter 2 -------- signal out

There is no difference between ends. They are "bilateral" which means you can't possibly hook them up backwards. (In the above schematics,

COIL WINDING

You can make the coils yourself using this formula:

L = 0.2 * B^2 * N^2 / (3B + 9A + 10C)

L is the inductance, in uH
A is the length of the coil, in inches
B is the mean diameter of the coil, in inches
C is the diameter of the wire, in inches
N is the number of turns

For small wire, you can assume C = 0.

O.K., here is how it is with me. I love pretty well all my radios. But for a radio in the $100.00 range? O.K. lets go a bit over and a bit under $100.00.
I like my Sony 7600, my Eton E5, my Kaito KA1102. These all have SSB, and dual conversion.

I also like my Kaito KA1101, Eton E100 and Degen DE11. None of these has SSB. But I still like them.
Of these three, only the KA1101 is dual conversion, and has wide/narrow filters. The other two are only single conversion but are really small, which I like for backpacking. There are times for me when I simply need something smaller then my Sony 7600, Eton E5 or Kaito KA1102. They are great radios, but when backpacking in the wilderness, when size and weight are extremely important, they stay home and one of the little ones, Eton E100, or Degen DE11 goes into my backpack for the canoe and trail. (with either a little wire extension antenna or one of the compact Degen active loops).

The cheapy Walgreen's "Lifelong" analog-tuned radio is about the same as the Bell & Howell model often seen in catalogs (a different radio but equivalent performance -- both bad). The problem with these junky radios is that they are so poor (worthless dial calibration, many image problems, practically impossible tuning) that they turn off a novice to the whole idea of SW listening.
Those of us who are experienced SWLs can play with these just for fun and compare them with our better radios, but someone without that background will think that all SW equipment is as hard to use and irritating in operation.

There's a Coby digital-readout model which is also pretty bad (it was actually reviewed and panned in Passport), but there IS one cheapy digital-readout model that is sold as the Electro-Brand 839 (if I'm remembering the number right) and the jWin JX-M14 that is actually usable as a radio -- here's a RadioIntel review:

http://www.radiointel.com/review-jwinjxm14.htm

I have the ElectroBrand version and bought a batch more to give as presents. They were available on the net for under $10 each with free shipping when I got them.

For an actually usable and enjoyable SW radio, you can't beat the Kaito/Degen 1103, and I got mine for about $80 in the Kaito version with an English manual and power supply & packaging, which is better in my opinion than trying to save a few bucks by going with the Chinese-language Degen. If you can find a deal on the Eton S350DL (some were being sold on Amazon last year for $35 and I kick myself for not buying several to give as presents!), even though it has image issues and is analog-tuned with no digital memory features, it is a reasonable radio for a novice. Fine sound, a decent-sized frequency readout good for people with poorer vision, fine local MW & FM performance. I use mine more for the latter than for SW, but it gets WBCQ well when I use it for that.

My wall-mount analog atomic clocks won't change for the standard/daylight time switch unless they have a fairly fresh battery in them, but my digital-radout desk model with a separate fat little antenna unit seems to keep working fine and updating as needed even if the "low battery" indicator is flashing. (I'm just leaving it go as an experiment to see when the display will finally dim out; I was using it as an alarm and that is what drained the battery down to "low".)

This is in St. Louis, MO, however that affects the signal strength from Ft. Collins, CO.

I have a quartz AQUATECH brand name wristwatch (Water 30 M Resitant Alarm Chronograph) I bought at the Wal Mart store about five years ago when they were on sale for about $14.95.It has four of them little push thingys sticking out on the sides of it) It still keeps excellent time on the same battery that was in the wristwatch when I bought it.It is an hour behind because I never did change it over to day light savings time.I quit wearing a wristwatch years and years ago.I own many,many old,old wind up and electric clocks. (and many old,old wristwatches too) The only clock I use is my old antique Ansonia wind up wall clock.It doesn't keep excellent time anymore,but I like it.

In the mid 1950s, we had 450,000 illegals overrunning this country. The then Eisenhower administration started arresting illegals, and the rest returned to Mexico immediately when they saw they woud be facing arrest.

Today, I say start arresting the business owners, managers, and individuals who hire illegals and again like in the 1950s, illegals will pack up and go home.

This would help poor whites, blacks, and Mexican Americans get jobs b/c they'll nolonger have illegals to compete against at below market wages that businesses want to pay.

Agree,

the Degen DE1105 (Very similar to the Degen DE11) is a good choice if you want a double reduction Shirt Pocket Sized Shortwave radio . ..

Performance is comparable to the Sangean 606A.

This is an excellent small shortwave radio, perfect for outdoor activities

(Hiking / Biking, trekking)

or just wandering around in the early A.M. getting a bit of excersize and picking up the odd signal bouncing down from above . .

God is not a swear word and you do not have to edit it out of fear of offending someone you weirdo.

If you have a problem with peoples race, morals, truth, or religion do not project your inadequacies onto other people.

I hope instead of choking you wise up instead.

The Christians also seem to be quite capable of inflicting revenge when

Well, it's good to know that US troops in Iraq aren't killing US citizens ;-). Maybe that's why the troops were sent to Iraq in the first place? ;-)

You might want to try and put a little pressure on the people and companies that hire illegal aliens. Quashing the demand should help a good part of the supply to dry up.

Although this might be viable, I'm not one to eagerly attach a line that has 70+volts AC coming across it on a regular basis.

More likely around 100V. Varies according to region.

You got a problem with sending your radio into the shop for a fresh set

My radio looks for a signal every evening and if it finds one an

Start confiscating all property of people that get caught renting or sheltering illegals

Then we can just go heard em out from under every bridge and ship em out!

Federal Immigration and Nationality Act
Section 8 USC 1324(a)(1)(A)(iv)(b)(iii)

"Any person who . . . encourages or induces an alien to . . . reside . . . knowing or in reckless disregard of the fact that such . . . residence is . . . in violation of law, shall be punished as provided . . . for each alien in respect to whom such a violation occurs . . . fined under title 18 . . . imprisoned not more than 5 years, or both."

Section 274 felonies under the federal Immigration and Nationality Act, INA 274A(a)(1)(A):

A person (including a group of persons, business, organization, or local government) commits a federal felony when she or he:

* assists an alien s/he should reasonably know is illegally in the U.S. or who lacks employment authorization, by transporting, sheltering, or assisting him or her to obtain employment, or

* encourages that alien to remain in the U.S. by referring him or her to an employer or by acting as employer or agent for an employer in any way, or

* knowingly assists illegal aliens due to personal convictions.

Penalties upon conviction include criminal fines, imprisonment, and forfeiture of vehicles and real property used to commit the crime. Anyone employing or contracting with an illegal alien without verifying his or her work authorization status is guilty of a misdemeanor. Aliens and employers violating immigration laws are subject to arrest, detention, and seizure of their vehicles or property. In addition, individuals or entities who engage in racketeering enterprises that commit (or conspire to commit) immigration-related felonies are subject to private civil suits for treble damages and injunctive relief.

Recruitment and Employment of Illegal Aliens

It is unlawful to hire an alien, to recruit an alien, or to refer an alien for a fee, knowing the alien is unauthorized to work in the United States. It is equally unlawful to continue to employ an alien knowing that the alien is unauthorized to work. Employers may give preference in recruitment and hiring to a U.S. citizen over an alien with work authorization only where the U.S. citizen is equally or better qualified. It is unlawful to hire an individual for employment in the United States without complying with employment eligibility verification requirements. Requirements include examination of identity documents and completion of Form I-9 for every employee hired. Employers must retain all I-9s, and, with three days' advance notice, the forms must be made available for inspection. Employment includes any service or labor performed for any type of remuneration within the United States, with the exception of sporadic domestic service by an individual in a private home. Day laborers or other casual workers engaged in any compensated activity (with the above exception) are employees for purposes of immigration law. An employer includes an agent or anyone acting directly or indirectly in the interest of the employer. For purposes of verfication of authorization to work, employer also means an independent contractor, or a contractor other than the person using the alien labor. The use of temporary or short-term contracts cannot be used to circumvent the employment authorization verification requirements. If employment is to be for less than the usual three days allowed for completing the I-9 Form requirement, the form must be completed immediately at the time of hire.

An employer has constructive knowledge that an employee is an illegal unauthorized worker if a reasonable person would infer it from the facts. Constructive knowledge constituting a violation of federal law has been found where (1) the I-9 employment eligibility form has not been properly completed, including supporting documentation, (2) the employer has learned from other individuals, media reports, or any source of information available to the employer that the alien is unauthorized to work, or (3) the employer acts with reckless disregard for the legal consequences of permitting a third party to provide or introduce an illegal alien into the employer's work force. Knowledge cannot be inferred solely on the basis of an individual's accent or foreign appearance.

Actual specific knowledge is not required. For example, a newspaper article stating that ballrooms depend on an illegal alien work force of dance hostesses was held by the courts to be a reasonable ground for suspicion that unlawful conduct had occurred.

IT IS ILLEGAL FOR NONPROFIT OR RELIGIOUS ORGANIZATIONS to knowingly assist an employer to violate employment sanctions, REGARDLESS OF CLAIMS THAT THEIR CONVICTIONS REQUIRE THEM TO ASSIST ALIENS. Harboring or aiding illegal aliens is not protected by the First Amendment. It is a felony to establish a commercial enterprise for the purpose of evading any provision of federal immigration law. Violators may be fined or imprisoned for up to five years.

Encouraging and Harboring Illegal Aliens

It is a violation of law for any person to conceal, harbor, or shield from detection in any place, including any building or means of transportation, any alien who is in the United States in violation of law. HARBORING MEANS ANY CONDUCT THAT TENDS TO SUBSTANTIALLY FACILITATE AN ALIEN TO REMAIN IN THE U.S. ILLEGALLY. The sheltering need not be clandestine, and harboring covers aliens arrested outdoors, as well as in a building. This provision includes harboring an alien who entered the U.S. legally but has since lost his legal status.

An employer can be convicted of the felony of harboring illegal aliens who are his employees if he takes actions in reckless disregard of their illegal status, such as ordering them to obtain false documents, altering records, obstructing INS inspections, or taking other actions that facilitate the alien's illegal employment. Any person who within any 12-month period hires ten or more individuals with actual knowledge that they are illegal aliens or unauthorized workers is guilty of felony harboring. It is also a felony to encourage or induce an alien to come to or reside in the U.S. knowing or recklessly disregarding the fact that the alien's entry or residence is in violation of the law. This crime applies to any person, rather than just employers of illegal aliens. Courts have ruled that "encouraging" includes counseling illegal aliens to continue working in the U.S. or assisting them to complete applications with false statements or obvious errors. The fact that the alien is a refugee fleeing persecution is not a defense to this felony, since U.S. law and the UN Protocol on Refugees both require that a refugee must report to immigration authorities without delay upon entry to the U.S.

The penalty for felony harboring is a fine and imprisonment for up to five years. The penalty for felony alien smuggling is a fine and up to ten years' imprisonment. Where the crime causes serious bodily injury or places the life of any person in jeopardy, the penalty is a fine and up to twenty years' imprisonment. If the criminal smuggling or harboring results in the death of any person, the penalty can include life imprisonment. Convictions for aiding, abetting, or conspiracy to commit alien smuggling or harboring, carry the same penalties. Courts can impose consecutive prison sentences for each alien smuggled or harbored. A court may order a convicted smuggler to pay restitution if the alien smuggled qualifies as a victim under the Victim and Witness Protection Act. Conspiracy to commit crimes of sheltering, harboring, or employing illegal aliens is a separate federal offense punishable by a fine of up to $10,000 or five years' imprisonment.

Enforcement

A person or entity having knowledge of a violation or potential violation of employer sanctions provisions may submit a signed written complaint to the INS office with jurisdiction over the business or residence of the potential violator, whether an employer, employee, or agent. The complaint must include the names and addresses of both the complainant and the violator, and detailed factual allegations, including date, time, and place of the potential violation, and the specific conduct alleged to be a violation of employer sanctions. By regulation, the INS will only investigate third-party complaints that have a reasonable probability of validity. Designated INS officers and employees, and all other officers whose duty it is to enforce criminal laws, may make an arrest for violation of smuggling or harboring illegal aliens.

State and local law enforcement officials have the general power to investigate and arrest violators of federal immigration statutes without prior INS knowledge or approval, as long as they are authorized to do so by state law. There is no extant federal limitation on this authority. The 1996 immigration control legislation passed by Congress was intended to encourage states and local agencies to participate in the process of enforcing federal immigration laws. Immigration officers and local law enforcement officers may detain an individual for a brief warrantless interrogation where circumstances create a reasonable suspicion that the individual is illegally present in the U.S. Specific facts constituting a reasonable suspicion include evasive, nervous, or erratic behavior; dress or speech indicating foreign citizenship; and presence in an area known to contain a concentration of illegal aliens. Hispanic appearance alone is not sufficient. Immigration officers and police must have a valid warrant or valid employer's consent to enter workplaces or residences. Any vehicle used to transport or harbor illegal aliens, or used as a substantial part of an activity that encourages illegal aliens to come to or reside in the U.S. may be seized by an immigration officer and is subject to forfeiture. The forfeiture power covers any conveyances used within the U.S.

RICO -- Citizen Recourse

Private persons and entities may initiate civil suits to obtain injunctions and treble damages against enterprises that conspire to or actually violate federal alien smuggling, harboring, or document fraud statutes, under the Racketeer-Influenced and Corrupt Organizations (RICO). The pattern of racketeering activity is defined as commission of two or more of the listed crimes. A RICO enterprise can be any individual legal entity, or a group of individuals who are not a legal entity but are associated in fact, AND CAN INCLUDE NONPROFIT ASSOCIATIONS.

Tax Crimes

Employers who aid or abet the preparation of false tax returns by failing to pay income or Social Security taxes for illegal alien employees, or who knowingly make payments using false names or Social Security numbers, are subject to IRS criminal and civil sanctions. U.S. nationals who have suffered intentional discrimination because of citizenship or national origin by an employer with more than three employees may file a complaint within 180 days of the discriminatory act with the Special Counsel for Immigration-Related Unfair Employment Practices, U.S. Department of Justice. In additon to the federal statutes summarized, state laws and local ordinances controlling fair labor practices, workers compensation, zoning, safe housing and rental property, nuisance, licensing, street vending, and solicitations by contractors may also apply to activities that involve illegal aliens.

Six years ago, in the heart of Europe, about 8,000 men and boys were murdered in a small place over a period of 10 days. They had been captured by the Bosnian Serb army as they were trying to escape from the enclave of Srebrenica on the border between Serbia and Bosnia.

The enclave, which had been declared a "safe area" under United Nations protection in April 1993, was taken by the Serbs on July 11th 1995.

At first the killings were sporadic, with men, women and children being beaten, stoned and stabbed to death. Soon, the massacre became systematic.

The men and boys aged 13 and upwards were separated from the women.

Near the village of Meces, 150 Bosnian Muslim men were forced to dig their own graves and then executed. By the next day, the army had brought in excavators to dig the graves, making the process more efficient.

That war cost 58 thousand US lives and hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese lives. That war too was based on lies from Washington..

But not until 1965, after Congress had approved the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, did Washington begin its massive escalation of the war effort. With a huge influx of soldiers, casualties in Vietnam soared to 1,926 in 1965 and peaked at 16,869 in 1968, the year of the Tet Offensive, data show.

In a major revision of U.S. military history in 1995, former Defense Secretary Robert McNamara said he believed the Gulf of Tonkin torpedo attack never occurred.

More than 58,000 U.S. military personnel died in Vietnam before the war ended in the mid-1970s.

Over the years of the war in 'Nam about 50,000 Canuck boys went down and signed up with the U.S. forces and fought over in 'Nam. Some of those names on that memorial in Washington are Canadians. We have a Canadian Vietnam Veterans association. http://www.canadianvietnamveterans.ca/

It took about thirty years for the Canadian government to give them at least a little bit of recognition as veterens.

And during the American Civil War, again, about 50,000 Canucks went down to the States, and signed up and fought. Most with the North, but ya, some signed up and fought for the South under Lee.
Ya, that's right. Another 50,000 dumbass Canucks. Who ever gave

>From Cato, just a dumbass Canuck, (according to some people)

A small group in Michigan U.S.A. called M.A.C.V. (Michigan Association of Concerned Veterans), felt that their Canadian brothers and sisters, who gave their lives for the lives of others deserved to be recognized and accounted for, at home in Canada. This small group of Veterans proceeded to make this dream a reality, They fought through the many hardships that comes with caring, they designed, built, and donated the memorial to be placed on Canadian soil, making this Memorial very special to the families of those who gave their lives for the freedom of others.

HUMAN FACTOR

More important than the money and supplies, however, is the human factor. From the time the United States officially entered the Vietnam war in 1959, at least 40,000 Canadians enlisted with the U.S. armed forces.

In order to enlist Canadians had to give a U.S. city or town as their place of residence. After the war this created a major problem as there were no records of Canadians who had served in Vietnam. Through extensive research some, but not all, volunteers were identified.

Because of this the number of Candians who volunteered is believed to have been closer to 80,000.

The Canadian government considered Vietnam to be a "friendly state". Under the Foreign Enlistment Act it was illegal for Canadian nationals to accept any commission or engagement in the armed forces of any foreign state at war with any friendly state. Most Canadians who enlisted were not aware that they were, in fact, breaking Canadian law.

WHY VOLUNTEER

Why did Canadians volunteer to go to Vietnam and fight in a war not sanctioned by their country?

For John G. Radcliffe, it was "the right thing to do." The idealistic young man from Winnipeg, Manitoba enlisted in January 1969 at the age of 21.

Prior to enlisting Radcliffe dropped out of university where he had been studying mathematics and physics. After spending almost a year in England he returned to Canada with the plan to enlist in the U.S. military. He wanted to join the Special Forces because "if you are putting your life on the line, you want to be with the best."

"I felt it was time for people such as myself to stand up and be counted.," said Radcliffe. "Being born after the end of WW II, I grew up in the midst of confrontation after confrontation, between the west and the communists. It started with Korea, of course, but I do not remember anything about that war except, perhaps, the things that were picked up after the fact, either on TV or comic books. I remember my parents stockpiling canned goods as advised by the Canadian government in anticipation of possible nuclear war. I also participated in air raid drills at school."

After enlisting at a recruitment centre in Fargo, North Dakota, Radcliffe was deployed to Vietnam in August 1969. Instead of Special Forces, he ended up as a U.S. army-combat Still Photographer, assigned to the 221st Signal Company, 40th Signal Battalion. He was initially based in Long Binh, III Corps, and subsequently went to Phu Bai and then Da Nang in I Corps.

During 14 months in Vietnam Radcliffe's belief that this was the right thing to do never waivered.

"We were still fighting against an authoritarian regime which was attempting to impose its will on a group of people who were not and did not want to be communist."

COMING HOME

After serving their tours of duty Canadian Vietnam veterans were all but ignored by their country. Not considered war veterans by their government, they were forced to seek medical treatments in the United States for any illnesses relating to their time in Vietnam. Many vets disabled in the war did not realize they were eligible for benefits. Only through dogged determination by veterans on behalf of their fellow vets were those who needed aid able to receive it. Some never did receive help and have been forced to deal with their issues completely alone.

When Radcliffe returned home he "found it difficult to sleep for about five years without bolting upright at the slightest sound." He did not seek professional help for this because "no one had heard of Post Traumatic Stress Disorder then."

No official recognition has ever been paid to Canadians who volunteered to fight in Vietnam. Canada's Department of Veteran's Affairs would not even accept deceased Canadian Vietnam veteran's because they fought for the U.S. military in Vietnam. The government's position: Vietnam was not a war.

There is no official war memorial commemorating Canadians who sacrificed their lives in Vietnam. Former Public Works Minister David Dingwall was once quoted in a letter stating: "No federal site will be provided for such a monument because the Vietnam conflict was not a Canadian war."

Radcliffe views Dingwall's response as "typical of politicians -- hypocritical. They pretend to not know that Canadians did volunteer to go to Vietnam, and they conveniently forget that Canada quietly provided logistical support for the war effort under NORAD."

A war memorial was erected by a small group of Michigan veterans to recognize those Canadians who served in Vietnam. Dubbed the North Wall, it sits in Assumption Park in Windsor, Ontario overlooking the Detroit River. On the wall are 103 names of known Canadians who died in Vietnam, as well as the names of seven people listed as missing in action.

On the Vietnam War Memorial in Washington 104 Canadians are among the 58,206 names inscribed on the wall.

That Canada has countrymen who volunteered to go to Vietnam often comes as a surprise to the majority of Canadians. This is due, in part, to the fact that most Canadian Vietnam veterans are very reluctant to talk about their experiences. All but ignored by their government, and treated with indifference by the media, they believe that no one really wants to know or understand why they volunteered their services to this cause.

Their experiences are part of Canadian history and deserve to be recognized. These Canadians believed in freedom and saw in South Vietnam the need to protect that freedom from the threat of communism. Yet their commitment, bravery and sacrifice has been ignored.

Today Radcliffe, who holds a B.A. (Honours) First Class from the University of Manitoba, an M.A. from Queen's University (Kingston), and a Ph.D. from the University of Edinburg (Scotland), is a lecturer at the University of Toronto. He still believes he was right in going to Vietnam.

"I learned a lot about myself and what I was capable of doing. I still believe it was the right thing to do and have seen nothing since then to confirm that I am wrong."

They can't believe I would put a new extra heavy duty truck battery in a wooden box under my desk for my shortwave & scanner radios.

These people won't put a new battery in their car. They are not sure what a shortwave radio is or what it does and I think after I hooked battery, charger and radios together they are waiting for the radios to start-up and drive off.

Ya cuhulin. Growing up, I traveled the eastern States so often with my mom and dad that I felt just as much at home down there as I do here. Went to Florida about twelve times. My mom and dad bought a nice piece of property down there with one of those large mobile homes on it and palm trees in the yard. Drove down every time. First down the eastcoast for a few years before they put I-75 through. We would sometimes go through the Great Smokey Mountains, and go off the beaten track to really see the people. Visited Gettysburg. I remember the Biltmore Estate. It made quite an impression on me at that young age. Been to Mammoth Caves a few times in Kentucky. Loved it. Went through the south back in the early sixties. Some history happening down there at the time. Visited Mobile, Alabama, toured the U.S.S. Alabama, (BB-60). Wow, what a ship. Its sixteen inch shells were as tall as me. You could get lost inside that ship. What a lot of firepower.

I always thought it was a more picturesque drive then down I-75. (Except when I was older and drove with some friends and my car broke down in Kentucky on I-75. We ended up taking a bus to Tampa airport and I used one of my dad's credit cards to rent a car for two weeks. (I had his permission). (Picked up my car on the way back home.) Went down to Morehead City, North Carolina when I was seventeen to help restore a small sailboat, and put a little diesel engine in it. Spent a few weeks there, and, funny thing, I somehow started talking with a southern accent. It just sort of came on natural from working with southern people I guess. Hitch-hiked back to Canada carring a suitcase, and dufflebag. Some folks that gave me a ride, when they asked where I was going, I said "Canada". They said, "I guess you got your notice huh?" The Vietnam War was still going strong. They thought I was an American, got my draft notice, and was headed for Canada.
Some folks in the mountains took me to their home in a wild looking area, and treated me to a beautiful home-cooked meal with the whole family. I think it was in West Virginia, can't really remember now. Stayed and visited for a few hours, and met the wife and kids. The husband/father of the house showed me his hobbies, and we discussed the U.S. and Canada. He told me he wanted to take the family to Canada for a tour sometime. And then they gave me a ride to the main highway.
After they dropped me off, they asked if I could use a few extra bucks. I couldn't believe it. Treated me with real hospitality. Fantastic people.
Traveled more up and down east of the Mississippi over the years. Always found Americans to be great folks. Except maybe for three or four certain people. But that is the same all over the world. People are people, and there are always a few to spoil the good times, wherever you go. We have those kind of people up here too.

I-75 is a lot faster and is quite a bit further west of the east coast, but I never made it west of the Mississippi. That's still something I have to do someday. My mom and dad went to California some years back before my dad died. We have some distant relatives in Santa Rosa. I've never been there. All my snow skiing growing up was in western New York and Pennsylvania. Holiday Valley, and Kissing Bridge are just a short run over the border south of Buffalo.
Ya, so here's a Canuck whos ancestors came from the U.S. and feels right at home in the U.S.A. Over the years, I have spent a good portion of my life down there. Be good. Be strong. Be free.
Sorry to be so off topic.

There are communities of Canadians and Americans in Mexico too. In gated communities away from average Mexican parts of the cities. I imagine you will find Canadians all along the Gulf of Mexico coastline. Friends of ours have a sister and her family that live just north of New Orleans. They lost the roof of their house to Katrina. Everyone was just happy that they were o.k. Scary time.

The Radio St. Helena QSL's seem to have shown up in the UK after the trip from Ascension:

 SAINT HELENA. Radio St Helena QSL arrived this morning, along with a letter from the Station Manager, Laura Lawrence. It came bearing a pretty 30p stamp featuring a flower that I don't recognise. Well worth waiting for! They are planning another HF broadcast, though the letter doesn't say when this will be, and advises to check the website http://www.news.co.sh (Mark Palmer, UK, May 1, BDXC-UK via DXLD)

So... they should be making their way to the rest of the world. Watch your mailbox.

R. Rebelde comes in like a local here. I can hear them all day long, even clearer than their medium wave stations that can be heard all over the band here. Just curious has anyone outside of Florida heard VSI8 Turks and Caicos? I varified them years ago. They had some very beautiful stamps! Received a separate letter from the station manager telling me the name of the music program was "Rolling Home."

Guadalahara,(spelling) Mexico has a big enclave of Americans (probally some Canadians too) who live there,I have read about it before.I have been to Kentucky a few times before.Two months ammo school at Fort Knox,Kentucky in 1963.

Back around 1973 or 1974,a buddy of mine went to Bloomington,Indiana with me,to check out a Ford Model T car I was interested in buying.At the time,I owned a 1962 Ford Falcon car.It was night time somewhere in Kentucky,my car's engine stopped running just as though I had turned to key to off.Up with the hood,we discovered the air filter was all clogged up.I sailed that old air filter way off into the woods.It looked just like one of Art Bell's and George Noory's little space alien space ships.Then my car was running like a champ.

I own both the Kaito KA1101 and KA1103. Both are excellent. If you live anywhere near an AM transmitter site the 1103 is the better choice unless you don't care about the AM band. The wide filter on the 1101 is a little bit too wide. I paid $50 for the 1101 (a demo) and $80 for the 1103, which just arrived yesterday. The 1101 is smaller. Both are very hot off the whip. It doesn't do SSB but the 1103 does and a lot better than I expected. Both work well with the windup SW antennas (23 feet long) available or the short wire antennas that come with the radio.

I also have the Sony ICF-SW7600GR but it's around $150 right now. It has synchronous detection, which minimizes fade distortion and improves selectivity. The Radio Shack DX-398 can be a good choice but it's been discontinued; it's identical to the Sangean ATS-909. The two main down sides to it is that it's pretty deaf off the whip and the ferrite bar. Outboard antennas (I use a passive loop for AM) are needed before it comes to life and it becomes a real radio. It goes through batteries like crazy. They pop up on eBay once in awhile. If you travel the DX-398 is probably not a good choice because of the need for external antennas to get good results.

Happy hunting.

Thing about those cheap wind up radios (and similar gadgets) is the cheap wind up springs might fail when you need to use the radio in emergency situations.A set of quality Alkaline batteries www.rayovac.com should hold their charge while sitting in storage for about a year.Then you can use those batteries in storage in something else and put another fresh set of batteries in storage.

Hello,

I have found a couple of SW radio models that I like, that are purely for portably temporary use. I am aware of their limitations, however I was looking to see if anybody on the group had any similar products that may suffice.

I am considering the FR250 and FR350 manufactured by Eton (linked with Grundig now).

I have ordered the 350 online, and have bought the 250, so have had a chance to play with the 250 for now. SW reception is mediumly-okay considering the size of the unit, and cheap components. The 'light', siren, and built-in phone charger are gimmicky, but useful when I may require them in the wilderness.

I find the FR250 a bit bulky, and although the FR350 has not arrived at my door yet, I'm expecting it to be more comfortable, but with foibles. Lack of intricute tuning for starters, coupled with no carrying strap, 'flash light' button in a stupid place (cranking could make it go on for example). However, the actual position of the light makes it good for a torch, but then you can't see illuminate the dial I'm guessing, argh!

These things aren't great, but I feel are pretty acceptable considering it's a wind-up radio primarily after all. I want FM/AM/SW and ideally (living in the UK) LW Longwave too.

I can't find a unit that has that and is acceptable in size and price! The only one I can see is the 'freeplay summit' (www.freeplayenergy.com), and it's just too bulky, which is a shame.

Any recommendations? Smaller is better, but cranking is a necessity.

Thanks for reading, not the best bed-time read I imagine...

The expat community is at Lake Chapala, not Guadalajara. It is about an hour outside of the very big city of Guadalajara, and it is that city's airport one would fly in to.

When in Saigon, I mostly ate at one of the BOQ messes; where I spent the most time was the Hoa Trang on the beach in Nha Trang -- that was our team hangout. There was also a great fancy French restaurant in Nha Trang but I don't recall the name. What was neatest about it was the teak-framed window screens, divided into separate screen squares. Each square had its resident lizard that kept the flies & other flying insects' population down... :-)

Thanks for the response.

It's certainly not for emergency use, I'll be using it a few times a week or so. I expect to purchase more rechargable battery packs for the units which is trivial, as they're only $5 or so each.

Once I've got both with me, I'll see which ones work best.

Incidentally, take a look at this; it looks pretty good. Seems like the same as I got already but with 'porsche' written on it, and a nicer design:-

http://www.etoncorp.com/inthenewsarticle/?p_NewsId=135838

I'd buy it if it weren't £100. Hopefully the dollar will mark up more against us here in GB, so I can get a bit cheaper ;)

I really like the "Freeplay" brand of wind-up radios; their spring design seems sturdier than any of the others. The original models ran on spring power driving a generator only, so there were no NiMH batteries to charge/discharge and eventually wear out like the later ones have (& I think all the competitors). The very first one marketed here had an SW band, but there were also AM/FM only models; I have some and have given some as presents, in addition to later-generation Freeplay models. Some of those have solar cells and can operate in bright light without winding.

There is one digital-readout wind-up AM/FM/SW model that I bought a sample of to try and want to caution people against -- the Kaito KA-008. It just doesn't work worth diddly. The digital display eats up too much power for that usage -- it has a clock, which of course constantly loses the time. The AM (MW) band performance is pathetic -- absolutely no selectivity and strong stations cover many many kHz swaths, making the advantages of digital readout worthless. Even installing alkaline batteries, they're drained quickly even if the radio is off. I was able to get a few strong SW stations but no better than one of the little "toy" cheapies.

It has an analog readout twin, the Kaito KA-009 -- I was wondering if anyone has one of these and can offer comments on it.

I have an FR200. I bought it in 2003 when we thought Iraq would be sending us missles with chemical and biological weapons.

A wonderful portable radio it is not. It is a decent performer for an emergency situation. As long as you keep the battery in good shape then you will have no problems with it. Mine is on it's third battery. They die from lack of use.

The FR-200 took a commonly available cordless phone battery. However the cordless phones I have bought in the last few years took AAA NiMH batteries which don't fit.

That's an interesting question. Why are you taking it into the wilderness? Is this for camping in the U.K., or are you going somewhere else? I am confused as I read ahead and see you want LW recpetion. The U.K. is one of the few places in the world that uses LW. I think there was a station or two in continental Europe (Holland and Germany), but I also think they are long gone.

When I moved here in 1996 there was an Arabic station on 208kHz (not a relection) but has been gone for a long time. I occasionaly scan around on long wave and hear nothing but noise.

> I find the FR250 a bit bulky, and although the FR350 has not arrived at my > door yet, I'm expecting it to be more comfortable, but with foibles.

A crank radio, unlike the Bayliss design needs some bulk. The Bayliss design uses a clockwork mechanism and can be as small as a watch and still be easily wound. The FR-200 and so on use a crank running a generator. If the crank is too small you won't get the tourque needed and if the radio is too small, it will turn instead of the generator.

> However, the actual position of the light makes it good for a torch, but > then you can't see illuminate the dial I'm guessing, argh!

I always thought that was a problem, but in an emergency you would be listening for stations, in casual usage you would want to see them.

HOWEVER, in the dark the flashlight is next to useless for tuning the radio, even if it did face the radio. The reason is it is an incandescent bulb.

One second of looking at it will require a long recovery time to get your night vision back. A red or green LED flashlight will last almost forever and not harm your night vision. I use a red darkroom lamp in my bedroom to make sure I don't lay down on a sleeping cat, and it neither affects my night vision nor wakes my wife.

> Any recommendations? Smaller is better, but cranking is a necessity.

I would suggest a different approach. With NiMH batteries that hold 2700mAh common and cheap, a radio that takes 2 AA batteries would be a lot easier to use and carry. If you are not sharing the radio a set of headphones, or if your ears can accomodate them, earbuds (mine can't), would be smaller, lighter and much better than a speaker you won't use.

There are small MP3 players with radios, although the ones I have seen are FM only. Since they last 12 hours on a single AAA battery in radio mode, you could carry a week's supply in less space and less weight than an FR-200. If you only listen to the radio an hour a night, then one battery would work. If you can find one that uses an AA battery or adapt one to it, you would get around 36 hours off of one battery charge.

I also have a charger that will recharge 4-6 batteries in about 3 hours (or less) that runs on 12v DC. I use it with a wall transformer, but anything that supplies 12 volts at enough current can be used. If for example, you have access to a car once a week for a few hours, or some sort of commerical electricity, you could charge 6 batteries.

The transformer is heavy, but the whole unit, transformer, 6 batteries and a small radio are smaller and lighter than the FR-300.

Weren't there small hand crank generators sold for emergency recharging of cell phones? Could you adapt one to charge a battery for you?

Ray-O-Vac batteries are not available world wide. I'm not even sure they are available outside of the U.S.

The DuraCell and EveryReady Energizer batteries sold here are made in Singaport. We also get GP brand batteries made in Hong Kong. The GP batteries are better than the DuraCell and Energizers. :-(

I would be using the radio a few times a week at the very least. I will be travelling throughout the world very soon, and I think batteries are the scum of the earth; they're a huge waste of resources. It's something most people aren't aware of, but it all adds up, and I don't mind the cranking. I said cranking george, now Wa...

I would purchase the better-battery-life Freeplay Summit, but it only has AM and FM.

If I'm in China, or Russia, I doubt I'll be able to get an English AM station, will I? I've searched the net, but many old articles detailing the various channels are out of date.

Thus I felt a LW/SW combination was essential. 198 longwave is the BBC world service, and sound quality is much better than that of SW I find. However, as you say, due to uninterstingness and lack of use, I don't mind sacrificing LW for a decent handset, that can be recharged without batteries/electricity from the power grid that has FM/AM/SW combination.

The FR200, having tried it, is a poorish design, but I am not arguing the FR250 or FR350 are any better. They aren't advertised as 'emergency' products here in the UK, we don't believe in Iraqi apocalypses unlike yourselves ;-) nudge nudge...

If I could get a BBC-style service or a decent English station internationally then the Freeplay Summit would prove excellent. Unfortunately, as it stands, unless you would like to tell me otherwise (which I would love!) I need a unit with SW too, and without batteries.

I also find a speaker useful for my friends whom I travel with, and radio is often a social thing, I find headphones on a trip slightly selfish. I realised this was unsociable when my mate had headphones on a speakerless radio, and I had nothing, as it had been stolen! It sucked.

Cheers George.

NO one said the fighting was over?? Are you calling W 'no one'??

Let me give you a direct quote from G.W. Bush on the deck of the carrier on May 1, 2003, his -first- sentence as a matter of fact:

"Admiral Kelly, Captain Card, officers and sailors of the USS Abraham Lincoln, my fellow Americans: Major combat operations in Iraq have ended."

"Major combat operations in Iraq have ended" sounds close enough to saying the fight is over to most people, other than maybe a little 'mop-up' and contractors doing rebuilding. Most people upon hearing that would -not- expect that 3400 were yet to die. Most people would not expect to be going into Year Five. Yup, "Mission Accomplished", all right...

But of course, that's the tradeoff.

I saw a review of the original Baygen (well the one that was made for actual sale), and it used a miniscule amount of current. It matched what they could get out of the generator. Headphones right off the bat require less audio amplification, and that will be a fair current draw for radios with speakers.

ANd that lack of current output from the generator is reflected in the actual radios. THe better a receiver, the more current it will require.

The Grundig windup radios are decent for catching AM & FM stations and will work on shortwave although the tuning is not precise as I'm sure you know. I think you will find that the performance is about comparable between small analog multiband receivers like yours. I would enjoy it for what it is.

We use ours as an emergency radio so it sits fortunately. To be honest if you are looking to do much shortwave listening I would get a small portable with precise tuning and much improved performance like the Degen DE1103.

The first original Freeplay wind up AM FM Shortwave radios were made in Africa and they were/are good radios.I read an article about them around 15 years ago.The article said the Freeplay radio factory moved from Africa to China and the quality of the radios then went down hill.Somewhere around 12 - 13 years ago,I saw a wind up Freeplay made in China radio sitting on a shelf in a Hudsons discount store in Brandon,Mississippi. (about 14 miles East of me) If I remember,I think the Hudsons store price tag label on the radio said $45.00.Naturally,I passed on by.

I sure do re,remember those little lizards over there,they were everywhere.If you wasen't careful about opening and closeing doors,sometimes they would get mashed by the door jams.I had three choices of where I wanted to go on my five days R & R.Danang,Tokio,or Hong Kong.I chose Hong Kong.R & R in Vietnam wasen't for me.I wanted to go somewhere to get out of the awfully humid muggy hot heat for a while and Hong Kong filled the bill nicely.I had already had an eight hour layover in Tokio on my way to Vietnam.My highest Rank while I was in the Army for three years was Speedy Fo,,,, Specialist 4th Class,same same E-4,same same Corporal.

So, defining warring parties by their religious affiliation, tribe and ethnicity is alright if it's the Muslims getting killed? Could we make it easier on all concerned and select our victims by COLOUR only? By Race only? By Religion only?

Hell, the common foot soldier has enough on his mind without having to complicate things. I've got it! Let's make the only pre-requisite for mass murder HATE!

You are not supposed to be doing that. It is pointless to be connecting a radio input to the utilities. You might as well put up a single element antenna.

BARNEGA,

Don't have the Eton E5 -but- I do have the Eton E1 Radio.

I also have the Icom IC-R75 Receiver and it is a better
Shortwave Receiver then the Eton E1 Radio.

So IMHO the Icom IC-R75 clearly must be a better
Shortwave Receiver then the Eton E5 Radio.

-IF- You are looking for an AM and FM Radio with the Shortwave Bands : Go for the Eton E5 Radio.

-IF- You are looking for a Shortwave Receiver that includeds AM/MW and LW : Go for the Icom IC-R75 Receiver -but- remember it does not have FM.

and that is my two cents worth ~ RHF

The U.S.Soldiers over there have a lot more than just what is on their minds.Do you realize how much weight they carry around on their backs nowdays? In World War Two,the average weight of their back packs was around 124 pounds,I think,what they are carrying around on their backs nowdays weighs much more than 124 pounds.Have you ever carried that much weight (124 pounds) around on your back before? I have,on Marches at Boot Camp. (of course YOU haven't,YOU wouldn't either,YOU wouldn't even go there,after all,YOU are a Canadan and YOU live in Canada)

Some of the U.S.Soldiers at Normandy in World War Two fell down in the water and drowned because of too much weight they were carrying on their backs.Shootin Iron and Ammo and Entrenching Tool and Helmet and Shelter Halve and the Boots and Clothes they were wearing is all they should have needed to carry around with them.

If I had been there,I would have shucked off what I felt I didn't really need before I jumped into the water and waded ashore.

Try the Freeplay Plus, which is a really nice emergency radio that also doubles as an everyday set. The NiCad batteries can be charged through a crank, a built-in solar panel, and an optional AC adaptor.
It has also has a detachable LED light that can a real bonus during a power failure. One incredibly nice thing about the Freeplay Plus is its large speaker, which actually improves the quality of SW sound.
This single-conversion radio lacks the hum that's usually present with PLL double-conversion circuits. Its audio quality is smooth and pleasant, and while it may not be a DX machine, the Freeplay Plus does a good job for program listeners. Build quality is also excellent .
CCrane.com often has it for sale in the $89 range.

My oldest son is going through all that training right now, carrying all that heavy shit. Ya, full kit weighs a hell of a lot. They get followed by vans to pick up the ones who can't run through the exercises without throwing up and collapsing. The Lincoln & Welland Regiment. Some of them getting taken to the hospital. Ya, it's tough. The weak ones get weeded out. Isn't that how its always been?
And they go through other exercises the are really sickening , and made to be as real as possible before they get shipped out. It's a form of conditioning, and it is necessary. But the reality over there is even worse, as I am sure many of you remember from 'Nam or Iraq, or wherever you have served. When they return form their tours of duty, they must go through another series of reverse conditioning so help them re-integrate into civilian society again with as little PTSD as possible from what they go through over there.

I agree and disagree. NiMH batteries now have 1 1/2 times the capacity of alkaline batteries and can take 300-350 charges from totally dead until fully charged without any appreciable problems. I don't think this is a waste of resources. It's a cheap, easy to carry way of storing electricity.

Note that NiCad and Lithium batteries are not the same and contain chemicals that need special disposal.

If you figure that one NiMH battery is the equivalent to almost 500 alkaline batteries or one heck of a lot of cranking, it may change your opinion.

Sometimes. Local stations often have an "International" broadcast for tourists. It may be on once a day at 3am, but they have it. If you are in a place that has no tourists there may not be one. Note that some countries may restrict your possesion or imporation of a radio.

LW is really a European thing now. I doubt that you can hear the BBC longwave anywhere outside of the U.K. and western Europe.

Then I would not take one with me. I used to have a Sony ICF-2002 and thought it was excelent for the job. The newest version is not cheap and requires and external power supply or batteries. It may also have "steal me" written all over it in letters only the locals can see.

Pretty much.

I expect that if yougo "off the grid" (away from some sort of commercial power or a generator) in Russia, you will be very far afield and in China if you go there without a chaperone you could be shot as a spy.

That's fine, but it adds weight and compexity and requires a lot more electricity. I was recently in the hospital and you can imagine my reaction when another person in the room woke up at 6:30 and put his radio on. :-(

Hi to all! I'd like to have some comments on TG35 antenna... I've a Degen 1103, a Sangean ATS909, a long random wire and a DE31MS antenna...
I've found that the DE31MS has someone better performanche than the wire... the signal is more "clear" and with less noise, especially for DX... has someone the TG35 antenna? is it better than the DE31MS? have you compared with better antennas like Quantum Loop or Wellbrook or wires?
How for NDB reception or DX in other bands?
Thanks in advance from Italy :-)

For broadcast of 4 November 2006 - Radio St. Helena QSL HAS ARRIVED in California! Yay! Front of card shows "Revival 2006 Transmission" plus coat-of-arms, outline map with station location and call sign (ZD7RSD) plus vital address info. White 4"x6" card with blue and red printing. Back of card has printed (or stamped) boilerplate form data with handprinted details, signed by Station Manager, Ms. Laura Lawrence on April 10, 2007. Ms. Lawrence also provides an informative letter in the envelope, expressing hopes for future SW revivals.

The stamp on the envelope is a BIG 30p stamp featuring Napoleon I in royal garb.

Fun!

If you are worried about non-rechargeable batteries being the scourge of the earth then why are you buying a radio made of plastic with electronics made from synthesized materials using highly toxic chemicals that runs on rechargeable batteries made from toxic chemicals. When most recharbeable devices stop taking a charge the unit usually gets pitched in the dump.

The BBC (left wing?) quoted an article in the Wall Street Journal (right wing?) that said the following:

"As U.S. troops have -surged- into Baghdad in a quest to bring stability there, enemy fighters have moved into the surrounding towns". (Well, Duh! What a big surprise!)

"[...keeping them off-balance] is the best they can hope for under the new 'surge strategy', which some U.S. officers in Iraq say does little more than chase insurgents from one part of the country to another".

So, if you are one of the naive that thinks the surge will work (or if your name is "W"), maybe you should take a word of advice from the military officers actually there on the ground.

Quite a stupid post really, wasn't it?

Allow your mal-thought prognosis to consider:

I buy a radio made of plastic, toxic materials, etc etc, and use normal batteries in it. The number of batteries it would use in its lifetime would be a huge amount even with normal use.

I buy a radio the same, but that has an in-built replacable rechargable battery, that will very likely last longer than the same batteries used above. I can order a replacement for $5, and can send the old one back to them for recylcing, which simply involves replacing the chemicals in it safely (and that doesn't mean underground, it means they can be used to contribute to a number of other products or applications).

The real bonus is also that I don't just use an inefficient method of charging the battery (ie: a wall outlet!) as I'm using a hand-crank.

As a result of the low-current generated, the radio isn't fantastic. On AM it's great, on FM it's great, on SW it's 'acceptable' for use with strong stations. For the price, that's what I expect.

To those who are slightly interestede, the FR350 is the same technology inside, except it's got 1 extra SW channel capable of receiving, and it's waterproof to some extent.

Cheers.

Most people buy regular batteries at the stores and use them in whatever devices,clocks,wristwatches,radios,you name it.When the batteries are worn down,they put them in the trash cans/bags and the batteries,along with other garbage/trash get set out front for the garbage trucks to pick the garbage up and haul the garbage to the garbage dumps and the batteies wind up buried down in the masses of other garbage.Some people throw old batteries down on the parking lots,roads,sidewalks,just anywhere they want to dispose of them.

A comparison like that is silly, apples and oranges really. Of course the Icom is the much more sophisticated rx (apparently best suited for ham/ute work, external speaker recommended), but will require mains power and a decent external antenna. That being said, the E5 is pretty good as far as affordable compact portables go. Pitted against the Icom, it will not have the same strong-signal handling, selectivity or low phase noise, let alone SSB reception, though I guess speaker audio would still be better.

Actually, we only do that in America and the UK.

In other smarter countries, they recycle them through legislation. Take a visit to London, and you'll see just how extensive recylcing is. It's excellent.

I'm aware that (from the sound of it) as an American you are unfortunately statistically likely to be unaware of the effects of what you do in life in terms of environmental issues. Batteries are a major plague, rechargable less so, but the systems used to charge them are largely inefficient, unless you pay over $100 for one. People don't pay over the odds because 1) electricity is cheap in most places and 2) The initial cost of a good efficient charger outweights the overall benefit when compared to how many packets of cheap batteries the $100 would buy.

Alls I can say is watch out, that defiant method of living will wear out within the next 10 years. Don't 'make the best' of it now, try live a better life now, you'll appreciate it.

Plus look at it this way, a crank-up radio will likely strengthen the masturbation wrist :-)

NB: That doesn't mean I'm saying all Americans don't give a shit about the environment, but research shows that most don't care, which is a real shame.

Yep, I was thinking the ragtops would just move out of the city when this new offensive was launched and wait it out. In the meantime they will cause a bunch of new probs in the burbs. A sick bunch.

I think I'll apply for a permit to open up a hotdog stand on the corner where the mosque is here in Rochester. See what kinda trouble I can stir up. And yes, I used to swat wasp nests with bats when I was a kid.

If there was a barrel for old batteries on every block,in every store,that would help to get people to recycle those batteries.Some people,probally a good many people,would forget or wouldn't even bother.They would throw them out with the garbage anyway.Same as with tv sets,computers,radios,vacuum cleaners,furniture,tires,stoves,water heaters,microwave ovens,the kitchen sink,old metal plumbing pipes,glass,plastic,different kinds of metals,aluminum,brass,lead,copper,anything and everything,whatever.

You ever seen one of those old Schwinn delivery bicycles,small front wheel and a big wire basket up front? I own one.I converted it into a three wheeler.Two wheels up front.I built a box thingy to put between the front wheels.I had it fixed up nice for hot dogs and cold cans of soda pop.

I went to a tall bank building down town I asked the guy who manages the bank if I can park my hot dog cart on the sidewalk in front of the bank so I can sell hot dogs and cold soda pop.He said ok.All I sold was one stinking hot dog.I gave up on that idea real fast.It might work in New York City or Rochester,New York or New Orleans or Seattle,but I guarantee you it did not work for me on the main drag (Capitol Street) in down town Jackson,Mississippi.I still have that old three wheeler hot dog bicycle cart that I built right here in my back yard.

Well, hold on there just a minute, Mr. RHF...maybe you -have-Gone-Around-The-Bend [!]

I am DIRECTLY quoting American Generals, on the ground, in Iraq, as they were quoted in the right-wing, Republican, Conservative Wall Street Journal (as reported on the short wave radio).

I respectfully beg to differ with you that -I- am "the voice of doom and gloom". That's an interesting charge against someone just quoting American military Officers. As -they- were the original source, I guess that means that you think the American military officers are the voice of doom and gloom. It seems you have made the classic, simpleton and age-old mistake of "blaming the messenger". I truly expected more of you than that. :-(

> Preaching All That Is Bad About The-Evil-BUSH -aka- "W" !

Please note that I was just carrying the message that the 'surge', as pointed out by our military officers, is just another fraud perpetrated on the gullible and long-suffering American public.

> TT - Clearly 'you' are a Card Carrying Member of the "Clearly"? For doing nothing more than quoting American officers quoted in a Republican, Conservative newspaper? Sounds like a real stretch to me, especially as I'm not a card carrying member of any party, but hey, if it's "clear" to you...

Finally, pull your head out of the sand. I don't make the news, Bush does. I just quote it. If you feel the facts as reported in the WSJ/BBC were wrong, please offer evidence to disprove it, rather than flinging baseless accusations at the messenger.

Thank you and Have-A-Nice-Day [.]

Even with a lousy charger, the economy is there to recharge batteries.
Assuming a really bad charger uses 10 watts of electricity to charge a 2700mAH NiMH battery (2/3s "overhead") that's still nothing in cost.

The average price of electricity in the U.S. is less than 10 cents a kWH, To simplify things, I'll calculate it in one hour, but it comes out the same, ONE TENTH OF ONE CENT A CHARGE.

One small island in the Pacific did exactly that. They bought a bunch of NiMH rechargable AA batteries and charge them in a central location.

If your figure the batteries cost $1 each in bulk and can be recharged once a day for a year, the ecological and financial cost is minimal.
Since everyone brings their batteries back for recharging, you don't even have a collection problem for the bad ones.

Sounds like a good business for a microenterpreneur.

> Plus look at it this way, a crank-up radio will likely strengthen the > masturbation wrist :-)

On the other hand, having a radio that requires electricity and can be shared encourages social activity, which helps you find someone else to do that for you.

Think of it this way. If you go around knocking on doors looking for a place to plug in your radio, you might just find a place to plug something else into..... :-)

Even better, spend the time and effort to get a Ham license. There is a thriving VHF community in the U.K. You don't need a very advanced license, you don't need to learn morse code, you just need a handheld radio and some manners (and a license) and you can meet all sorts of people with all sorts of interests.

Even if the people you talk to on the radio are all married men in their 50's :-) they have friends, families and co-workers to introduce you to.

Geoff.

I was surprised that there are a lot of on topic posts these past few days. That is good and I hope to post more on topic posts soon. The subject of this post is off topic posts. I know that there are a lot of off-topic posts here from time to time so I thought that commenting on them really wasn't off topic. I was going to give it a (sot) for sorta off topic, but then I thought that it really wasn't off topic so I went with the (snot) sorta not off topic. Had it been way off topic then I would'a given it a (wot). If it was definatly off topic then a (dot) woulda done it. If it was totally way off topic then a (twot) would'a been appropriate. Or a (twat) totally way away topic for those of you who prefer twats.

Thanks for the on-topic posts, and keep them coming.

Doesn't sound quite local out here in the Western USA, but it's a remarkably stable signal and pretty listenable.

Not sure if that's some weird geometry or a characteristic of the frequency, but short-term fading is almost non-existent despite the signal being most definitely ionospheric propagation.

Apparently, cellphone output has some ability to disrupt bee navigation, so they fail to find their way home.

The good news is, bees are insects and reproduce in a short cycle. There's a decent chance bees will evolve an increasing tolerance to the cause of the population decline as long as some bees are not affected by it.

Odds are the population decline will self-limit, just as most epidemic diseases self-limit.

Else it's time to invest in honey futures :)

They sound like a local any time at night. Florida and other places in

Canadians could not protect themselves if you paid them. What a bunch of pussies!

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (Reuters) -- Canada's postal system has stopped delivering mail to a home in Winnipeg, Manitoba, after a mail carrier was scared away by a "very threatening cat," the Winnipeg Free Press said Friday.

A Canada Post spokeswoman said the agency was concerned about the safety of its carriers, although it hoped for an amicable solution to its dispute with cat-owner John Samborski.

"The letter carrier who delivers mail there ... was brought up on a farm, she is very comfortable with animals," spokeswoman Kathi Neal told the newspaper. "Apparently this is a very threatening cat."

Samborski told the paper that his 8-year-old, declawed, black cat Shadow is docile, and it was "ridiculous" for Canada Post to make him to pick up his mail from a post office instead of delivering it to his door.

Shadow "likes to eat and sleep and cuddle. You could drop a bomb and he'd just open one eye, take a look, then close them and go back to sleep," Samborski, 41, told the newspaper.

Clearly you, like some of the other posters, are confused about the purpose of this newsgroup.

You might want to read the intro to rec.radio.shortwave that used to be posted on a regular basis here, http://www.faqs.org/ftp/faqs/radio/monitoring/introduction

Once again, there are many many newsgroups so you are bound to find one that fits your needs, so go and find it.

The cover is about Wright Patterson AFB in Dayton Ohio.
(Well, technically it's in Fairborn).

It says..

"WRIGHT PATTERSON AFB CUTTING-EDGE AEROSPACE MONITORING".

I grew up in it's shadow, and have lived all my life as it's neighbor. I have one of my scanners programmed with all of the frequencies I can find for it. The most interesting ones are the security and maintenance calls. I've heard all kinds of interesting com's.

When I still lived right in Dayton proper, in (East Dayton, which is right very close), I used to see all the aircraft on approach and departure. When they would have big storms down South, they would evac aircraft to WPAFB and I would just sit on my deck and watch them fly in, it was great. I saw two kinds Stealth aircraft at low altitudes, and that was great.

Back in the 80's, they flew in the 747 with the space shuttle hooked to the top, I put the kids in the car and we drove there to see it. What a sight! I'll never foregt it.

Over the years I've been online, I have had a lot of people ask me if I knew if they really had the bodies of Aliens in the hanger 18 out there, and a lot of wild stuff. It's pretty funny.

But, The Air Force Museum is the coolest place around.
You can go there, and no matter what your age, you feel like a kid.

At one time, WPAFB was the home of the SAC B-52 Flight Wing. they had B-52's lined up as far as the eye could see.
I used to love driving by there.

Well, I don't know if this post is on topic or not, I took the chance because it's on the cover of Pop Com.

But if you ever get the chance to go the Air Force Museum, go, it's worth the trip.

Have a good weekend everyone.

This is the second one I had with poor LW/MW/SW1/SW2 sensitivity. These single conversion bands use a different RF amplifier than the dual conversion drum tuner bands.
It turned out that the RF amplifier for the single conversion bands had leakage from base to collector. I measured a 1.5V drop in both directions. It should have been between .6 and .9V, in only one direction. The gain was ok when I replaced it, but it should have been higher because the original transistor was a 250MHz device and I replaced it with a 600MHz device. That would give this stage approximately 2.2 times the gain of the original. Then.....I readjusted that bias control, and aha.....the gain came way up. It is about as sensitive as a Satellit 210 now. I still need to reassemble and align the front end to match with the new device. It is going to be pretty good when I finish it up.
If you ever run into the Satellit 2000,2100,3000, or 3400 odds are pretty good that this stage is blown.

Telamon,

The Cambridge Soundworks CD740 Radio is a very good sounding stand-a-lone FM Radio and CD Player. However it's AM Tuner is like most modern day AM/FM Radios a design after-thought.

FWIW - I am told that the AM Tuner design quality of the new HD Radios is better than what most Cumsumer AM/FM Radios has been in recent years.

IMHO - The Cambridge Soundworks CD740 Radio is not a "POS"; and is a much better Tuning and Sounding AM/FM Radio then the BOSE Radio.

Now with respect to the Degen TG35 Active Antenna it is a Broad Band {Un-Tuned} AM/MW Antenna and does a very good job of kicking up the AM/MW Signals across the Band to make AM/MW Radio Listening practicle and enjoyable.

Place the Degen TG35 Active Antenna it in a Window where it will get several hours of Sun-light daily ; rotate the AM/MW Head-Unit in the Right direction and forget it.

TG35 SOLAR RECHARGE INDOOR SW / MW / LW ACTIVE ANTENNA NON TUNING, SOLAR OR PC USB RECHARGE GREEN ANTENNA!
http://cgi.ebay.com/_W0QQitemZ140065562744

The C.Crane {Justice} AM/MW Antenna is a better Active Antenna but it must be Tuned and Retuned for each Radio Station {Frequency} that you want to listen to.

IMHO - The Degen TG35 Active Antenna is not a "POS"; and for the price is a fairly good Broad-Band AM/MW Active Antenna to use with many Consumer AM/FM Radios.

hope this helps to clearify things ~ RHF

I sorry that a few of my fellow American's ruin t this group for you.
Back, when I first joined the US Navy, I sailed with some Canadian Marines on the USS Mobile LKA-115 to Victoria, B.C. in 1979.
I found them to be a right good group.
Victoria, was the cleanest city that I had ever been in.

Thanks Ken. I appreciate your kind words.
Like I said earlier, I know that the overwhelming majority of Americans are great, fine people. In my travels in the U.S. over the years, I have found Americans to be very friendly and hospitable, and more then willing to help others in need. They are the most generous people on Earth. I have no complaints. The type of individuals that can spoil it for others can be, and are, found in every country on earth. We have individuals like that up here as well.
I certainly do not blame the U.S. for the actions or words of individuals.
I'm happy to hear that you enjoyed Victoria. It certainly is a beautiful city.

Then what you need to do is stop the Canadians in this group from

You can hardly hold me to blame for what others do. What do you expect me to do? I'm not a cop. A two way street? Sure o.k. So then any Americans and Canadians throwing insults back and forth should grow the hell up.
Our two countries are supposed to be friends. Sure, O.K., I know that our governments can really screw things up, and make decisions that people in either country can hate.
But the rest of us, the ordinary citizens should be above that stupid political crap.
O.K., you were critical of our small number of troups in Afghanistan. But hell, we are a much smaller country, population wise, and our brainless government undercut and weakened our military for more then thirty years. But our guys, I feel confident in saying, are man for man, as good fighters as any other on this rock in space and make the best use of their equipment that they have, even if some of it is out-of date.
To hear us described as cowards, makes me feel sick. I have some close ties with the guys over there, and my own son might be going.
They are in combat with Taliban and Al Queda insugents.

Would you want me to insult, and toss names about your guys over there in Iraq?? Call them cowards? Insult your country?? I could do it you know. I see guys in Usenet groups insulting Americans and America every day. And that makes me sick too, because I have always felt strong ties to the U.S. My mothers family originally was from New England. My cousin's kids live in Pennsylvania, and are in the U.S. military.

But I don't. Because your guys over there are somebody's husband, brother, sister, mother, boyfriend, girlfriend. And some of them make the supreme sacrifice over there and never see their loved ones again. Just like our guys. I would never insult your troops. And I don't expect anyone to insult our troops either.
My oldest son, David, will probably be going over there. In combat. In the infantry. He is following a long family tradition. If I ever hear anybody, insulting not just our Canadian guys, but also American guys, British, or whoever is on our side and helping out, I take it personally. As if it is an insult to me and my family. I come damn close to exploding.

I am just sick of the crap. And if it is just meant as a joke, then call me thinskinned. "cause if bothers me to hear us taking turns name calling and insulting each other.
I don't hold all American citizens to blame for the stupid remarks of a few bad apples down in the States. Like I said, we have some idiots up here in Canada too. In another Usenet group I am with, there are some asshole Canadians insulting Americans and the U.S.

OK...I apologize for my comments. It was actually meant to stir up a few other souls in this group. It was not actually aimed at you. I'm 47 and will be returning for my third trip soon. I have a kid in college and another fixing to start. Do you think that I want to go? Hell no, but I'll do my duty as I have for the last 27 years. You can probably see why it burns me to no end when I have to read the garbage that Mike writes. That is what leads me to make the comments that I do. I can't control what my government does. I vote at every election. I will support Bush because he is our elected official just as I supported Bill Clinton. I will never make fun of the president of this country no matter who it is. I get tired of uninformed idiots like Mike making worthless comments.

Beerbar here is an even better idea. You say there are Canadians in this group that are insulting America or Canadians. Then how about this....
go after that particular person.
Call him names if you wish. Insult him personally if you wish. But don't insult the whole country or all other Canadians, or our forces, just because a few Canadians are idiots.
If you could see your way to that, then I apologise for getting Heard Country & Western Music on 540 AM . . .

the nice lady kept saying "The Big Time Saturday Night"

OK so it was the "The Big Time Saturday Night" Radio Program with Whitney Allen
http://www.thebigtimeonline.com/index.htm

Now this was booming in at S-9+ with Good Audio around 8:30 to 8:50 PDT.

The only listing that I could find for 540 kHz and
"The Big Time Saturday Night" Radio Program was XSUR [XSURF] from Tijuana, MX with a listed Power of 1 Kilo Watts Days and 250 Watts Nights
http://www.marsradio.com/laradio.htm

Note the FCC has "XETIN" on 540 kHz in Tijuana, MX rated at 100 Watts Days
http://www.fcc.gov/fcc-bin/amq?list=0&facid=100760

? Anyone know the true Power Output of this Radio Station Day and Nights ?

OK so a 100 or 250 Watt Signal traveling about 475 Miles and Reading S-9 with Good Audio is not an every day listen.

But to hear American Country & Western Music form Tijuana, MX - hay that's a real laugher. :o)

Why have you never condemned Burr and dxAce for their drunken racist remarks? Or the pervert cuhulin for his racist 'slopehead/slanteye' comments? Seems to me you are being a hypocrite.

As for Americans, well now...support for the war monger idiot prince now in power is fading rapidly as people are pulling the wool away from their eyes. Notice how even the cockroach neocons have distanced themselves from the debacle in the Middle East. They've left Bush flapping in the wind.

It appears as though at least seventy percent of the US population is aware that the present course of action is WRONG. That is a very GOOD thing.

I did the same a few days ago and found out they dont have electronic

I have subscribed to a year of MT for 15 Euro's. The paper magazine would already be too costly. Then add to that the shipping times.

JeroenK,

The problem for the Publishers is the Re-Distribution
-via- eMail of the PDF Document.

Even a Protected WebSite [Page View] with an
"By-Subscrition" Authorized User List can lead to a flood gate of Un-Paid {Non-Paying} Readers.

Somewhere there is a solution out-there for the
On-Line Magazine that is Profitable for the Paper Magazine Publishers and usable for the Readers.

I would try very hard not to steal from them.

I just offered WRTH full payment if they can fix the book so I can download it or PDF it.
When I took their update I felt like I was stealing so I wrote them and told them and asked about the PDF.

I don't know anything in particular about the Bose, but these problems sometime are caused by poor solder connections on the circuit board.

In my opinion, the article about the four shortwave portables alone is worth the price of the magazine. The other articles are indeed superb as well. This magazine just keeps getting better and better. I think everyone here should at the very least buy a copy and seriously consider subscribing. (The same goes for POPULAR COMMUNICATIONS.)

While the internet, including groups such as this one, is an excellent resource for hobby information, nothing thus far can totally replace the printed page, again in my opinion.

If you're serious about your hobby, I think you should consider the fact that, without current and new information, you are essentially "flying blind." While that is certainly not earth-shattering (it IS just a hobby, after all), why not enjoy the hobby to the best advantage?

Just my thoughts.

Joe

What is Islam?

ABOUT THE WORDS "ISLAM" AND "MUSLIM"

The name of this religion is Islam, the root of which is S-L-M, which means peace. The word "Salam," derived from the same root, may also mean greeting one another with peace.

One of the beautiful names of God is that He is Peace. But Islam means more than that: it means submission to the One God, and it means living in peace with the Creator -- peace within one's self, peace with other people, and peace with the environment.

Thus, Islam is a total system of living. A Muslim is supposed to live in peace and harmony with all these segments. It follows that a Muslim is any person, anywhere in the world, whose obedience, allegiance, and loyalty are to God, the Lord of the Universe.

IS "MUSLIM" THE SAME AS ARAB?

The followers of Islam are called Muslims. Muslims are not to be confused with Arabs.

Muslims may be Arabs, Turks, Persians, Indians, Pakistanis, Malaysians, Indonesians, Europeans, Africans, Americans, Chinese, or other nationalities.

An Arab could be a Muslim, a Christian, a Jew or an atheist. Any person who adopts the Arabic language is called an Arab.

The language of the Qur'an (the Holy Book of Islam) is Arabic. Muslims all over the world try to learn or improve their Arabic, so that they may be able to read the Qur'an and understand its meaning. They pray in the language of the Qur'an, Arabic. Islamic supplications to God could be (and are) delivered in any language.

There are one billion Muslims in the world; there are about 200 million Arabs. Among those two hundred million Arabs, approximately ten percent are not Muslims. Thus Arab Muslims constitute only about twenty percent of the Muslim population of the world.

ALLAH THE ONE AND THE ONLY GOD

"Allah" was the Arabic word for God long before the birth of Muhammad, peace be upon him.

Muslims believe that Allah is the name of the One and Only God. He is the Creator of all human beings. He is the God for the Christians, the Jews, the Muslims, the Buddhists, the Hindus, the atheists, and all others. Muslims worship God, whose name is Allah. They put their trust in Him and they seek His help and His guidance.

MUHAMMAD

Muhammad was chosen by God to deliver His Message of Peace, namely Islam. He was born in 570 C.E. (Common Era) in Makkah, Arabia. He was entrusted with the Message of Islam when he was at the age of forty years. The revelation that he received is called the Qur'an, while the message is called Islam.

Muhammad is the very last Prophet of God to mankind. He is the final Messenger of God. His message was and is still to the Christians, the Jews and the rest of mankind. He was sent to those religious people to inform them about the true mission of Jesus, Moses, Jacob, Isaac, and Abraham.

Muhammad is considered to be the summation and the culmination of all the prophets and messengers that came before him. He purified the previous messages from adulteration and completed the Message of God for all humanity. He was entrusted with the power of explaining, interpreting and living the teaching of the Qur'an.

ISLAM AND NON-MUSLIMS

Muslims are required to respect all those who are faithful and God conscious people, namely those who received messages. Christians and Jews are called People of the Book. Muslims are asked to call upon the People of the Book for common terms, namely, to worship One God, and to work together for the solutions of the many problems in the society.

Christians and Jews lived peacefully with Muslims throughout centuries in the Middle East and other Asian and African countries. The second Caliph, Umar, chose not to pray in the church in Jerusalem, so as not to give later Muslims an excuse to take it over. Christians entrusted the Muslims, and as such the key of the Church in Jerusalem is still in the hands of the Muslims.

When Jews fled from Spain during the Inquisition, they were welcomed by the Muslims. They settled in the heart of the Islamic Caliphate.

They enjoyed positions of power and authority. Throughout the Muslim world, churches, synagogues and missionary schools were built within the Muslim neighborhoods. These places were protected by Muslims during bad times and good, and have continued to receive this protection during the contemporary crises in the Middle East

What is the Qur'ân?

The Qur'ân is the name given to Allah's speech that He revealed to His servant and Messenger Muhammad (peace be upon him); speech that is recited as an act of worship, is miraculous, and cannot be imitated by man. It is the name of Allah's Book, and no other book is called by this name.

The connection between the Creator and his Creation is by way of His Messengers, and these Messengers only know what Allah wants from them by way of revelation, either directly or indirectly. The rational mind cannot dismiss the possibility of revelation, since nothing is difficult for the all-powerful Creator revelation is a communication between two beings: one that speaks, commands, and gives, and another who is addressed, commanded, and receives. Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) - as with every Prophet - never confused himself with the One who gave the revelation to him. As a human being, he felt his weakness before Allah, feared Allah's wrath if he should disobey, and hoped for Allah's mercy.

Proves why it is impossible that Mohammad (Pbuh) wrote the Quran :
1. No matter how brilliant or insightful a person might be, there is no way that he could discuss the happenings of nations lost to antiquity, issues of belief and Divine Law, the rewards and punishments of Heaven and Hell, and future events, all in such great detail without any contradiction and with a most perfect style and literary form. The Prophet (peace be upon him) had never once read a book nor met with any historian
2. The Qur'ân makes to the disbelievers a stern challenge that they will never be able to produce a chapter similar to it. Such a challenge would never have come from the Messenger (peace be upon him)
3. The Qur'ân, in some places, sternly rebukes Muhammad (peace be upon him) where he acted upon his own judgment in something and did not decide on what is best. The Qur'ân clarified the truth and showed the error of the Prophet (peace be upon him).
4. Many verses of the Qur'ân begin with the imperative verb "Say!" As a matter of fact, this occurs more than three hundred times, addressing Muhammad (peace be upon him) and directing him with respect to what he should say. He, thus, did not follow his own desires; he followed only what was revealed to him.
5. Complete harmony exists between what the Qur'ân says regarding the physical world and what has been discovered by modern science. This has been a source of amazement for a number of contemporary western researchers.

Who was Muhammad?

Muhammad (peace be upon him) was born in Makkah in the year 570, during the period of history Europeans called the Middle Ages. Muhammad was the son of Aamenah and Abdullah, from the tribe of Quraysh. He was a direct descendant of Ishmael, the eldest son of prophet Abraham. Muhammad's father died just before he was born, and his mother passed away when he was six. He was raised by this grandfather, the chief of Makkah; and upon his grandfather's death, Muhammad came under the care of his uncle, Abu Talib.

Muhammad was a shepherd in his youth. As he grew up, he became known for his truthfulness, generosity, and sincerity; earning the title of al Amin, the trustworthy one. Muhammad was frequently called upon to arbitrate disputes and counsel his fellow Makkans.

At age 25, Muhammad married Khadijah, an honorable and successful businesswoman. They were blessed with two sons and four daughters. It was an ideal marriage and they lived a happy family life.

Muhammad was of a contemplative nature and had long detested the decadence and cruelty of his society. It became his habit to meditate from time to time in the cave of Hira' near the summit of Jabal an-Nur, the "Mountain of Light" on the outskirts of Makkah.
How did Muhammad become a Messenger of God?

At the age of 40, while engaged in a meditative retreat, Muhammad received his first revelation from God through the Archangel Gabriel. This revelation, which continued for twenty three years, is known as the Qur'an

Muhammad began to share the revelations he received from God with the people of Makkah. They were idol worshippers, and rejected Muhammad's call to worship only One God. They opposed Muhammad and his small group of followers in every way. These early Muslims suffered bitter persecution.

In 622, God gave the Muslim community the command to emigrate. This event, the hijrah or migration, in which they left Makkah for the city of Madinah, some 260 miles to the North, marks the beginning of the Muslim calendar.

Madinah provided Muhammad and the Muslims a safe and nurturing haven in which the Muslim community grew. After several years, the Prophet and his followers returned to Makkah and forgave their enemies. Then, turning their attention to the Ka'bah (the sanctuary that Abraham built), they removed the idols and rededicated it to the worship of the One God. Before the Prophet died at the age of 63, most of the people of Arabia had embraced his message. In less than a century, Islam had spread to Spain in the west, as far east as China.

I wouldn't ordinarily trust the FCC's listings for foreign stations.
These foreign stations are as "notified" under International Telecommunications Union regulations - and often don't reflect what's actually operating. (don't blame the Mexicans; the US does the same thing)

However, in this case the FCC's listing agrees with the official Mexican government listing on http://dgsrt.sct.gob.mx/fileadmin/ligas/radio_AM.pdf .

Given claims that this station "...has a better reach into Orange County,..." I have to wonder if the actual power is considerably higher than listed? - though groundwave coverage is better on 540 than on any other frequency.

So all the combat operations since that point in time have been minor or merely skirmishes? The "surge" is to be treated as an insignificant point?

You might want to go back to that speech and read where it was stated that "... we destroyed the Taliban...". Nothing could be further than the truth.

But then again the shrub could hardly be considered to be a reliable source of the truth!

The main problem with the citizens of the US is their inability to understand the atrocities committed around the world by their government. Although basically friendly and genial their "My country right or wrong" mentality supports the imperial US and its 737 military bases and garrisons in 130 countries and explains why there is so much dislike of Americans.. Bush's approval rating is down to 28% so the American people are starting to wake up.
I have no disagreement with MII's post above. He is telling you home truths but he is provoked by troublemakers. Those who deliberately stir up trouble should be condemned or at least ignored.
Canada has lent the US 150 billion dollars to finance the Iraq war.
I doubt if it will ever get it back with the US debt near 8 trillion dollars and rising rapidly. Perhaps this is why the Canadian mint has issued a 100kg gold coin .9999 pure. It about 50cm dia and 3cm thick.
It already has orders in the $3,000,000 range. We have to get that 150 billion back somehow.

So you disagree with M II's post, and you disagree with my post. Did you question one fact in these posts?..No. Did you offer any discussion on an opinion?..No. Your only response is name-calling. If you look at the bottom of the page you will see" Discussion." We are supposed to DISCUSS things, not hurl insults or smart-ass remarks. Read M II's remarks carefully, and then mine.
(1) state what facts you disagree with and why
(2) state what opinions you disagree with and why.
If you are unable to do this, please desist from your stupid trouble-making and name-calling.

If you unsubscribe, that will mean that the redneck "ignorant and proud of it" troublemakers and name-callers will have won. Keep hitting them with the facts. It makes their heads hurt when they try to make their brainwashed attitudes jibe with reality. Only 28% approve of Bush. It stands to reason that some on this website are intelligent.
By the way, my url says "www" . that means "world wide web" not usaweb. So knock off that "love it or leave it" (the website) crap.
I was also tempted to abandon the website because of all the stupidity, but I ain't gonna. Anyone who insults Canada for no good reason is going to get a hit in return even though they seem a hopeless case.

I'm sorry. I can't bring myself down to your level Kenneth. It's impossible for me to be as stupid as you. What you need to do is stick to the problems of your own country and stay out of the business of another. We don't need anymore candy assed liberals down here. We have enough.

Please keep in mind who is doing the insulting. The guy has a grade nine education and had to get a special dispensation in order to join the US forces. He is also a deviant. Here are some of his previous postings. I'll let your conscience be your guide as to what sort of person he is.

The woman he is talking about died of cancer at the age of seventy two.

Like I said Kenneth, I can't stoop as low as you and your girlfriend Mike. I also don't give a shit about Canada. I don't spend my time meddling into the affairs of another country like you and Mike do.
But, I do find it funny that you guys are afraid of kitty cats.

I don't know whether it is Iraq, or Afghanistan that you are returning to for another tour of duty, but be safe, best of luck, and return safely to your family. And if you happen to be in Kandahar, and happen to run into a tall, dirty blond, blue eyed Canadian soldier, a private by the name of David, (unless he happens to make corporal), ask him if he is from St. Catharines. Join him for a few beers, and swap some stories. Canadians and Americans for the most part are pretty much the same. (Unless they're from French speaking Quebec.) I

Most Canadians and Americans are great fantastic

Check this out. Maybe you saw the movie..... It seems that when you take Americans and Canadians, and combine them in a single force, they are unbeatable. We can work really good together.

I'm with ya brother. I need to refrain from my jabs at folks too. It's not really Canadians or Americans. It's people down and dirty that stir up stuff. It just gets me riled up though.

I'll be in another part of the Persian gulf so I probably won't see David but there are Canadians there.

I'm glad you are staying.

Of course we're interested in the elections in France today. We're also interested in the elections in Scotland. Funny you didn't mention that. A knowledge gap in the imperial agenda? At last result, the Scottish National Party had a one-vote margin over the Labour Party and was the winner. (I think 68 to 67). The SLP is committed to Scottish independence from Britain but will have to form a minority government. We get CBC news from all over the world. How much world news do you get on the contolled media of CBS, NBC, Fox, and ABC.
I think you'd be better off wondering how come you know so little of what is going on in the world before speculating on Canadian interests.

Maybe some of them frogs over there in Frogland are Waking Up.They voted in a pro America guy.

It's a lonnnggg day on this Sunday,,, my little 115 volt Dayton Speedaire oiless air compressor won't pump up the old leaky tires past 30 pounds pressure (I guess those little vanes in there are worn down too much) on my raggity old 1978 Dodge lonnnnggg wheelbase van.I have another,older little 115 volt aircompressor,but I need to buy a new air hose for it.The radiator on my van is leaking.I need to go to my backyard shed and find my old flare wrenches so I won't mess up and round off those transmission lines when I take them loose.When I get the radiator off of there,if I can reach the leaky spot good enough,I will fiberglass it with epoxy fiberglass resin and fiberglass cloth and it will last forever.

You guys can dish it out but you can't take it. Stop whining about

I don't think that making a on topic post about something that I heard on my sw radio and then read on CNN has anything to to with the politics of any country. Cato pointed out that I was wrong on a few statements and I agree with him. He also pointed out that there are idiots in Canada too and that I also agree with him. You and Mike are living, breathing proof of that. The more you post the more that these thousands of registered users can see that. You belong right up there with Barnard and David the anti Americans. Get a life Kenneth!

This is a fine example of a selective and intellectually dishonest quote, taken out of context in a way that is intended to be misleading. An honest reading of the FAQ would show that this was intended to include other radio-related topics, and not to include anything and everything. This is obvious in a more complete quote:

"Despite what the newsgroup name might imply, we definitely DO NOT limit discussions to shortwave only. Any radio-related topics are welcome."

Also, the range of relevant topics is clearly stated in the preceding paragraph:

"This group is intended to be a place where ANY radio monitoring topic can and should be discussed. We are happy to hear from posters who listen to any part of the radio or microwave spectrum, from DC to daylight. We discuss topics of almost any kind, ranging from (but not limited to) shortwave broadcasting, DXing small or distant shortwave stations, utility and teletype monitoring, military eavesdropping, station schedules, QSLing sw broadcasters, spectrum usage, equipment design and modifications, antennas, receiver reviews and recommendations, and many more."

Shame on you for your dishonest attempt to deceive.

That is a real stretch. Given that standard, it would be on-topic for me to post about the death of Princess Di or Anna Nicole Smith because I had heard about them on shortwave, without indicating in any way how they were relate to radios.

You did not cite a SW source in your original post. You copied an article by Reuters. You only came up later with the "heard it on SW" claim, apparently in a desperate attempt to create a figment of relevance. There was no obvious intent to discuss this in the context of any radio transmission. It looks like more evidence of your honesty and integirty.

I don't recall the FAQ stating that I had to cite a source. It seems that you are fabricating new rules.

When my cell phone subscription ran out,I bought an AT&T wireless land line phone.When the battery in that phone ran down,I priced a new battery at Wal Mart,about $10.00.My AT&T phone only cost me about $14.00 or $16.00,not worth it to me to buy a new battery for that phone.I bought a new G.E.corded slim line phone for $8.47 at the Wal Mart store,the cheapest phone they had on the shelfs,,, much better and cheaper than that over priced POS phone battery.

I just listened to the BBC interview groups of people from around the world about why we (Americans) are the most hated race/country in the world!!

I live in the Philippines and I can see that we are hated here also; all they want is our money. They all hate us but the next word out of their mouth is can you help me get to America or do you have a son that can marry my daughter!

As a lot of you know I have lived all over the world and I have almost no respect for most of the people where I have lived. It is unreal to see the poor in these countries and the rich feeding off them.

Most of you just don't know what filth is, most of you don't know what hunger is, most of you don't know what it is to live on the street with your family with everything you have on your back.

I try to help as I can in every country I have lived in but you can't help, they can't/won't help their selves so you can't teach then "to fish" and they will steal everything out of your car while you are trying to help them.

I give the local Catholic and Methodist food funds here and that is all I can do. I can't help them one on one because they just keep taking.

World hunger is the saddest things in the world but you can't help them they hate us because we have something but they won't work for anything.

Attacking and destroying sovereign nations for oil is your business?
Pretty shameful business to be in. Why not try PAYING for it instead of theft? I can hardly wait until you invade Canada for the WATER.

Re-posting the deviant's postings makes ME over the line? His account was canceled after his Internet provider was informed of what he was doing.

You certainly have a short memory. If he keeps up the trash, every posting he's ever made will be sent to his commanding officer. They have a treatment program for drunkards.

RP seeking more aid from US special fund

By DES FERRIOLS
The Philippine Star

The Arroyo administration is asking for more funding from the Millennium Challenge Account, a special fund created by US President George W. Bush in the wake of the terrorist attacks in 2001.

Finance Secretary Margarito Teves said his department is preparing to make representations with the Millennium Challenge Corp. (MCC), which manages the fund and determines which countries qualify for the funding.

So far, Teves said the Philippines has only qualified for small grants and has not been able to access the so-called Compact assistance offered by the bilateral fund facility.

Nice try. I did not make any assrtion that you were required by any rules to cite your source. You are fabricating another false and untruthful statement. Typical.

If you re-read it, you will see that I made a simple, provably correct, declarative sentence that said that you did not cite any shortwave source. I also did acknowledge that you did cite Reuters as your source (even if inadvertently when you did a mindless cut-and paste job), so I certainly did not claim that you "had to cite a source".

BTW, I am also NOT conceding your cliam that hearing it on SW is sufficient to make it on-topic. I claim that your standards for being on-topic are so low that every irrelevant topic is included, and that is not how I read the FAQ.

If you really want Canadians to cease their comments on US life, all you have to do is stop posting anti-Canadian slanders on this website.
Then we will go away and tend to our own affairs. It is very simple.
Just stop!
But if you continue, you will be subjected to painful home truths
For example:

Fact #1... the US national debt is currently $8,819,577,906,180.
That's
8 trillion dollars. Every person in the US owes $29,221.76.
And that doesn't include the trillions coming due for Social Security and Medicare.
You can't do business with people who don't have any money. But they can send in their army and steal your stuff....but for how long?

Hi:

If my location is in southern California, what would I hear on a "DXed" 300 GHz AM Radio Receiver? Would there be a specific difference between what I would hear at night and what I would hear during the day?

On medium-wave station, I notice the interference -- in the form of tones -- to be louder at night than the day. Does this difference also apply to extreme shortwave frequencies as high as 300 GHz?

NOTE: I am aware than 300 GHz is most likely FM, not AM. However, am still curious as to what I would hear on a 300 GHz AM receiver.

Thanks,

Radium

As someone who works with Canadians every day, this statement is simply not true.

There is not a day goes by that my Canadian colleagues take shots at the US. To date, without provocation.

This is the appeasement mentality that has infected so many in the US WRT Al Quaeda: Stop offending them and they'll be out buddies. Also very much not true. Al Quaeda is not responding to our attacks, language, or posturing....they're offended by our very existence. Ceasing military action against Al Quaeda, it's agents and assigns, will not stop Al Quaeda from planning and attempting to execute terrorism on US soil, it will embolden them to escalate. We know this by their very words. As promised by Al Quaeda upper echelons. They will only be satisfied by our cessation of existence. Nothing less.

This is not to compare Canadians with Al Quaeda. That would be absurd. Canadians are simply not committed enough to anything to take a conflict beyond nasty language.

But the appeasement mentality is very similar in both cases. Attempting to alter behaviour outside their control with implications that aggressors/critics will back off if we become what they suggest.

Nice thought, but tragically ill informed. And weak beyond the will to survive. Appeasement only emboldens the critics. Appeasement only emboldens the aggressors.

The only way to deal with them is to let the critics pound sand. They'll be critical whether we respond to them or not. It is the nature of criticism that the critic fires the first salvo. And then implores the criticized to stop criticizing the critics to make them stop.

Check the history of the group. The Canadians started their criticism, ragging, and dismissive noise before anyone on this side of the border ever said anything about them. Even DXAce hadn't made a comment about Cana-DUH until several anti-US threads had developed.

And the only way to deal with the aggressors is to let them, their agents and assigns, die for their country. Because, they, too, fired the first salvoes. And then implored us to stop responding. And in that conflict, words and appeasement are tools of surrender, and demise.

Interesting you should bring that up. I work directly with two Canadian firms which took their stuggling business across the border into the US where they flourished.

Count the number of Canadian firms which have moved branches, or their entirety, to the US for their success.

If you really understood economics, you'd shut your pie hole.

And go back to enjoying the beneficence with which your economy exists hand-in-glove with ours.

Night and day no difference at 300 ghz. There is no such thing as "DXED" on 300 ghz LOL!

You probably wont hear a thing unless your inside a big city. And then only on FM or spread spectrum that = NOTHING!

Its a waste of money and time trying really

Why doesn't DX work at 300 GHz?

But on AM, won't magnetic interference cause tones on the receiver of any frequency provided that the disruption is occurring at the frequency?

If there is a solar storm causing the emission of electromagnetic radiation at 300 GHz wouldn't the 300 GHz receiver pick up the signals caused by the solar storms?

so many Canadians in your work group? What kind of shots do they take?

This is an absurd statement. Canadians are currently fighting in Afghanistan and were very active in Korea and WW II. They did not fight in Iraq because the US invaded in defiance of the UN. The Afghanistan war is sanctioned by the UN.

I seem to have come along in the middle of this broughaha and don't know the origins. That's the trouble with these vendettas. They develop a life of their own. Rather like the Iraq war (Mission Accomplished) which is not going as planned.

> If you really understood economics, you'd shut your pie hole.

I may not be an Alan Greenspan, or better a Kenneth Galbraith, but some facts about the US economy are worrisome. Some facts from the pie hole:

1. The US national debt is clse to 8 trillion dollars and rising rapidly.

2. The foreign trade deficit is about 800 billion dollars this year.
3. The manufacturing base of the US has been sent to China
4. The savings rate is negative for the first time in 70 years.
5. The value of the US dollar has dropped from $1.35 to the Euro to 0.81 . Gold is similar.
6. There has been no provision for future Social Security and Medicare
7. Wages have been stagnant or declining since 1975.
8. The official inflation rate is a lie. True inflation is about 8%
9. China holds about 1 trillion dollars in US debt.

That is just a few items off the top of my head. Do you disagree with any of them?
I have ignored your geopolitical comments as they are not germane to our discussion.

Well, there could be, but at that freq, it would have to be line of sight.. Like light rays... So DX isn't gonna happen too often, unless one is on the space shuttle, or you each have gazillion foot towers, with dishes or whatever aimed exactly at each other..
BTW, a QSO with the shuttle might qualify as DX, due to the high frequency involved, but the actual distance still won't be too awful far.. IE: 150-300 nm or so, depending on the orbit..

The "tones" you hear at night on MW are heterodynes. IE: the carriers of various stations clashing with each other. This is due to the increased sky wave signals at night. In the day, you have little sky wave, and most stations you hear are ground wave. Being most are on separate frequencies, you don't hear many het's...
Het's are a common noise on the CB bands... AM anyway...
Listen to ch 19...Heterodyne city...
You would hear the same thing at 300ghz if two stations were on the same frequency at the same time. Frequency has nothing to do with that.
> If there is a solar storm causing the emission of electromagnetic

I imagine so, if the antenna, dish, whatever were pointed at the sun.
At that frequency, most anything you hear will be direct line of sight space wave. So don't expect to hear too much around there, unless you have services using that freq in your close area. I don't even know who uses 300 ghz to tell you the truth.. That's a pretty high frequency.

300Ghz is a 1 mm wave. It is pure line of sight. OTOH, it would probably be pretty quiet, both because the S/N ratio would be high (line of sight only transmission), and few devices are capable of generating energy accidentally or deliberately at that wavelength.

What is the best frequency if I want to listen to distant heterodynes from outer space?

AFAIK, if the frequency is too high, then you only get line of sight.
Too low, and you can't get signals from space, because the ionosphere keeps out long-wave signals. Low-frequency signals on earth that reach the upper atmosphere are bounced back down to the lower atmospheres because the ionosphere reflects them.

I can't and won't speak for Peter, but I can speak for myself. I live on the Front Range of Colorado. I was working a table at a hamfest when a couple came up to me, he with a Canadian accent. It turns out he was stationed at Cheyenne Mountain -- a joint US/Canadian command -- and was also an active radio enthusiast.

I asked him how he was finding his experience in America to be, and his wife just exploded on me about how stupid Americans are and a stream of vile insults. He had to bodily remove her from the hamfest site and came back to apologize.

I don't know what awful experience she had that set her off -- if any
-- but my experience with her sure left an impression on me.

...of course, there are the internet-tough-guys here as well -- mII/Michael Moore is mild. The worst was a guy known only as "Jim" who I dubbed "Psycho Jim," who spent all his time here exulting about how "Yanks" died in the Twin Towers and swearing like a Tourette's patient.

...as for you, well, if you want to come here or are here, welcome!
Please do remember that you are a guest and act accordingly -- I do the same when I'm in your fine country, and am as embarrassed by the "Ugly Americans" as you should be by the "insecure Canadians" who spew here.

Having been in the Navy during the Vietnam war, I was at Subic many times and saw first hand the conditions that the people live in. I also visited Manila and found it was very nice. As to why a lot of people around the world hate America is very complicated. Some have good reasons too. The mindset of many people though is not Christian based but is money based. Also, there is not the understanding of how education can change things. If you look at the founders of this country, they were for getting their kids educated as best they could. I don't think that was true in other countries until later years. Also, some people have superstitions that have held them back. Dictators fear their subjects becoming Christian because the way they control people is through fear. Take away the fear of death and you start to lose your power. Population control is not the way to change the world, taking the gospel to the world is the only way. Ric in Wisconsin.

I'm in the US. My Canadian colleagues are north of the border.

They take the same shots you do. And will soon be free of my business as a result.

UN approval of warfare is as absurd as the Saskatchewan Navy.
That the UN sanctioned Afghanistan and not Iraq is laughable. Especially in light of the number of UN resolutions defied by Iraq, and the direct call for military action in response to non compliance within them.

And don't get too high about Canadian commitment. Comments by your PM, and parliamentary candidates have been far less than supportive in either theatre. But where the heavy lifting is to be done, is not where Canadian troops are to be found.

And be sure to let me know when you come up with a single example where Canadian troops led the fight, instead of following the path blazed by US Marines.

Typical high horse crack of someone who doesn't have the stomach for taking the fight to the enemy. No war in the history of mankind, or the knuckledraggers that preceded him has gone according to plan. To expect anything like it is to live in a fantasy of media haze, where no problem can't be solved in an hour, with 6 commercial breaks, and blood comes out of a bottle from the props department.

Hard reality: War is messy. And it's ugly. And it's hell on earth. But as undesireable as it may be, sometimes it is necessary. And in the case of an enemy that will be satisfied only with American deaths, anything less than lethal response will not be respected.

Anyone that doesn't like it can do without our commerce, and our aid.

> That is just a few items off the top of my head. Do you disagree with > any of them?

Not a one.

But the facts are not within context.

In a global economy, trade deficits do not exist. US has a deficit in context of the US only. Globally, we import, someone exports one commodity imports another from a third party. The third party exports and imports from fourth and fifth parties. Each nation has their own trade deficits and surplusses. Money changes hands all the way around. Globally, the trade balance is zero. In which case, the real money to be made is by the nation that conducts the most volume. That's the US. Closely followed by Japan, and soon China.

China's percentage of US debt is offset by China's own debts globally, much of which comes around to surplusses held by the US from other countries doing business with China.

If each nation's trade was in balance, the global economy would be static. In that, there is no growth. For there to be growth in an economy, there has to be some debt, some imbalance to be filled.

As each nation's economy ebbs and flows economic opportunities are formed. Here's where Capitalism has the advantage. Capitalism permits individuals, or individual companies to seize opportunities, fill needs and move with the economic ebb and flow. This generates wealth, which generates further economic opportunity. If not stifled by extreme income redistribution, the result is general economic boom.

Regarding the manufacturing base....some manufacturing jobs have been sent to China, true. Quite a number, actually. Then, again, look at the number of high wage, high skill manufacturing jobs moving INTO the US from other nations. Germany is building more cars here than in Germany, now. Japan is investing trillions in manufacturing in the US. Honda, Toyota, Mitsubishi, Nissan, Mazda, to name but 5 Japanese firms, have built plants in the US for manufacture here, and are building more. Hyundai is building not one, but two major plants in the US. Mercedes is building a second plant in the US as is BMW.

With those jobs come construction and engineering jobs, manufacturing machine tool building jobs. Ancillary parts manufacturing jobs. Accessory manufacturing jobs. As well as boutique manufacturing jobs, like the building of aftermarket iPod interfaces for factory sound systems by Peripheral and a half dozen more companies cashing in on the iPod/vehicle phenomenon.

With those jobs come manufacturing jobs in other countries providing parts and supplies, as well as consuming products for inclusion in their own market places.

Looking at the jobs exiting the US to China, but not the number of jobs moving to, and through other countries, including the US is disingenuous at best. Misleading, and dishonest at worst.

Again, typical of the man on the high horse.

There never was a provision for Social Security or Medicare.
By design of Roosevelt himself, they were to be temporary solutions to a Depresssion Era economy during war time. NOT long term solutions. Far, Far better solutions are to be found in the private sector than those provided by the Goverment.

Savings are, indeed, in the negative for the first time in history. This owing to more active income provision for retirement. Investments are replacing savings. By the recommendations of money managers, and financial analysts themselves, who have been pointing out for decades that 9% in the market will double your money in 10 years. While 3% in savings will not.

Most households own stocks, now, rather than savings. Again, looking at the individual line item, rather than the full statement, tells only a fraction of the story.

> I have ignored your geopolitical comments as they are not germane to

But since you already said it for me, (sort of kind of anyway) that's good enough.

There are at least two Rivers I know of for sure in America which flow North.The St.Johns River in Florida (my half acre of land I own in Putnam County,Florida is seven miles West of the St.Johns River,,, Palatka,Florida,East Palatka,Florida) and I think the other one is the Illinois River,Chicagoland area.There might be one or two more Rivers in America that flow Northward.Thank GOD they don't flow into Canada.

Radio Man,

I agree about "CARE" and I have seen the packages being opened.

I don't think there will ever be equal anything; people will not pay the price to have what other will have because of hard work. Very few people in the world will work as hard as I did to have the few things I had but, that is their choice.

Ric is right on with "Most" of what he said.

I am going to just stay home or at the beach place, give money

I wish I could do more but the people won't let me.

Radium - Most likely without the 'right' Antenna and feed-in-line for your device {Radio} you will not hear anything. ~ RHF

Point-of-Clarification : Does this Device {Radio} clearly read {labeled as} 300 GHz or could it be 30 MHz

=IF= 30 MHz then you have a Shortwave Radio.
SW RADIO => http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Shortwave_radio
? Radio {Device} Brand Name & Manufacture ?
? Radio {Device} Model Number ?
? Better Description of the Device {Radio} Markings ?

=IF= 300 GHz THEN READ THESE :

RADIO => http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Radio

Radio Frequency
RF => http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Radio_frequency

USA - Frequency Allocation - The Radio Spectrum
CHART => http://www.ntia.doc.gov/osmhome/allochrt.pdf

MICROWAVES => http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Microwave

Extremely High Frequency (EHF) (30-300 GHz) Radio Waves
EHF => http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Extremely_high_frequency

* Radio Signals in the EHF Band are Extremely Prone to Atmospheric Attenuation, making them of very little use over Long Distances (No DX).
* The EHF Band is commonly used in Radio Astronomy.

Ric, yes they do and at least one reason for their hate just might be related to -us- poking our noses into -their- business...like tinkering with their elections, installing -our- leaders in -their- country like the Shah of Iran. The Iranians aren't stupid. They remember that and are still pissed. In the late 1890s, we (the U.S.) caused 10 or 20 thousand Filipino military deaths and 250,000 to 1,000,000 civilian deaths, something I'm sure they weren't real happy about and I'm sure they have not forgotten.

I'm not sure where you are trying to go with this. A LOT of Christians are "money based". Kenny Boy Lay and Jeff Skilling of Enron, Bernie Ebbers, the Worldcom guy, Kozlowski of Tyco and Scrushy of HealthSouth were all good Christians--and definitely "money based".

I don't know.

Things like the Canadian content rule with Canadian broadcasters, and a joke circulating years ago about a contest to fill in the blank: "As Canadian as _____" had the winner "As Canadian as possible under the circumstances." -- those two things would lead me to believe in an undercurrent of insecurity, or at least resentment at the American influence.

I haven't lived in Canada, though, so I don't think I can say with any real evidence one way or the other.

What's the verdict? Are there any users here who have one who would like to tell me what they think of it.

My Children have asked me what I would like to have for fathers day this year, and I wouldn't mind adding the 2100 to my collection. So, if anyone has any feedback they could give on it, I would appreciate it.

I see it has the output on the back that can be used for an outboard SSB adapter or for DRM, that would be pretty cool.
I like the look, and it has some memory if I'm not mistaken, and it is a dual conversion unit.

BTW-The Grundig S-350-DL has turned out to be a real prize for the $100.00 price tag. I have been enjoying some good quality listening with it. The audio with the large speaker and tone controls is very impressive. The sensitivity is fine, selectivity is very good, hardly any drift, and it does a good job as a DX reciever. .

I asked him how he was finding his experience in America to be, and his wife just exploded on me about how stupid Americans are and a stream of vile insults. He had to bodily remove her from the hamfest site and came back to apologize.

Cato replys: As a Canadian, I am sorry that you had such a bad experience with one of my fellow citizens. For what it is worth, I'm sorry that that incident took place. In all my times and travels in your country, I like to think that I behaved myself in a civilized fashion.(Except for a couple of times I might have got drunk camping out down in the Florida Keys with some friends. But at least we had a good time, and everyone was happy, and no ones feelings got hurt. They were good times.):-)

As for the insult about the twin towers, it shows the ignorence of my fellow Canadians that the Americans and citizens of other countries that died that day were all innoccent people just going to work. Canadian citizens that worked there also died that day. A temencous number of children lost their mothers and fathers on that black day. On that day, when my wife woke me up to tell me to watch what was happening on TV, she was in tears, and I was in a state of unbelieving shock at the horror on the screen.

Not all Canadians are stupid and ignorant. I think what you will find is that, primarily, it is Canadian Liberals & Socialists, (supporters of our N.D.P. party) who are critical of the U.S to the point of idiotic hatred. And I think a lot of it is envy at the success of the U.S., and their saddness at the failure of socialism around the world.

Not all Canadians are liberal or socialist statists, that believe that government is the solution. There are many of us that believe that government is the problem.

My only hope is that most Americans do not forget the principles on which their country was founded. Because I see your freedoms very slowly slipping away like ours has been doing. For at least fifty years now. Your country, with all your successes, and your failures, is still the beacon of hope in freedom for oppressed people around the world. But you must all be on your guard. There are many that want to bring you down. And not just from outside the U.S., But as you know, also from within. By U.S. citizens that hate the freedoms embodied in the Declaration and Constitution.

Why would so many people try to get into the States to stay? Either legally, and waiting their turn, or illegally, and hoping not to get caught. It is because living in America is better then where they came from.

Ya, a lot of people around the world put the United States down.
And ya, sometimes the U.S. goofs up on something, or elects a goofy president.
Well hell, I can think of a number of times that we Canadians elected goofy Prime Ministers too! We all goof up now and then if we look at ourselves honestly. Nobody, and no country is perfect. Their ain't no such animal.

But all in all, the U.S. has stood for the good and right over the years, and anytime that some nation or people anywhere around the world has had a disaster, the U.S. has been there with the most help, and the quickest. The American people generously reach into their pockets to help those in need around the world without asking for thanks. I'm not sure that any other country or people is as generous.

Who else has ever done so much to help their fomer enemies? Re-building Germany, Italy and Japan after WW II. Rebuilding Europe. How much did the Soviet Union help the people of Eastern Germany and Eastern Europe?

Ya, I happen to like the U.S., and the people of the U.S. even if I sometimes don't like a particular President. Yep, there are some Americans who are stupid jerks. And there are Canadians who are stupid jerks, and British, German, Korean etc.
Stupidity and ignorence know no boundaries or nationality. They are everywhere. I am a Canadian who is damn glad to have the United States as neighbors. And I am really proud to call the Americans that I know, "my good friends."

I can certainly understand that.
MT is a fine magazine.
For me, it's only a matter of going to Barnes & Noble and buying the MT & the new Pop com. once a month. And, if my health doesn't permit me to go, my daughter stops in and grabs them for me. Both mag's to me are essential

No Pop magazine in Tennessee? I am figuring on going to the Wal Mart food store (after first stopping off at the Goodwill store,because it's right on the way) tomorrow (Tuesday) afternoon.There is a Waldensbooks book store in the Metrocenter Mall,just across Highway 80 from doggy's couch. www.metromalljackson.com

Last time I was in that book store,they had at least two different shortwave related magazines on the magazine shelves.I need to see if the book store can order a couple of books for me.I will try to remember to stop off at the book store and check it out.

I grew up in a place called Crystal Beach. A one time amusement village near Niagara Falls. A great place to grow up in the 50's. Carnival atmosphere in the summer... could here a pin drop in the snow in Winter. The amusements and the ship that went from Buffalo to the Beach are all gone. Just a dumping ground for realestate retirement homes.

Went SCUBA diving there at Crystal River when I was sixteen years old. Great diving. Rented a boat every day for a week while I was there. Spent the second week down in the Keys. Camped at John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park. Partied at a nice place called Tiki Isle on Key Largo. It was on it's own little island just off of Key Largo. (The little bridge to Tiki Isle was only about twenty feet long.).) I think it might not be there now. Went to Key West for a few days on that overseas highway. I know that they built a new one since I was down ther last time. My mom and dad had a nice little piece of property with a mobile home on it with a few palm trees in Crystal River, and another little place outside of Orlando. There was a really nice place in Tampa on the west coast, called the Kapok Tree that we used to enjoy going to for a nice dinner now and then. Beautiful place at night with all sorts of fountains lit up. I think that place is gone too. Friends of ours that retired to Florida lived in Bradenton. They're divorced now. Haven't heard from them in a while since they split up. The kids took out U.S. citizenship when they were eligible, and got married to a couple of good guys down there. They had one of those big kidney shaped pools in the back yard. Another good diving spot was the Blue Grotto. I think it was about a forty minute drive from Crystal River. (Might have been more). Cave diving way back in and then down to 110 feet. Pitch black when you shut your lights off. Really great to get away from our Canadian winter for a few weeks in March.
I always prefered the gulf side of Florida. The Sarasota area, and Siesta Key Beach were nice as well. I only went up and down the east coast maybe three times. The gulf coast just seems nicer somehow. Maybe a bit slower, easier pace of life at the time. Not so built up. But that might have changed now.
I hope it hasn't gotten spoiled over the years. I've always loved Florida. Always a good place to recover from our Canadian winter.

Uh oh, I see that I was wrong. Crystal Beach Florida is actually quite a ways south of Crystal River. I was confusing the two. Crystal Beach is a lot closer to the Tampa area. Time for me to go to bed.

Ya, a real fun place. That's for sure. "The Comet" was a fantastic ride for the time. Great old wooden roller coaster. At one time, years ago, it was one of the most highly rated wooden roller coasters in the world, by some international roller coaster organization. Maybe it still is.
Crystal Beach, Ontario, Canada was one real fun place that many people will long remember. A great amusement area that was a magnet for Americans and Canadians for years and years. A lot of folks from Buffalo, New York bought properties in that area.
When it closed up, our Canadian Auto Workers Union made arrangements to have the park to ourselves with our families on the last day before the park closed. I stayed on that roller coaster for about eight or nine trips around.
You will remember "Laff in the Dark" of course. Lots of fun.
Now for a really good coaster ride, you have to go over the border to Darien Lake in New York. They have some really good coaster rides there. Lots of fun at that park too.
I think the Comet still runs as "The Cyclone" at The Great Escape (Lake George, New York).

My aunt owned Kelaghers Variety at 93 Derby road. Pretty much the only variety serving the community then.
Cousins worked at the post office at Queens Circle where we used to hitch a ride on car bumpers to get towed along the ice in winter.
Americans and Canadians got along like blood brothers in that place.
Americans were the main source of income for the variety and the cottages family members owned.
The Canadiana was the name of the ship. We used to dive for coins that the tourist would throw from the ship before leaving for Buffalo on it's runs.
Great memories.
It was and still is in the heart of a Carolinia forest area. Beautiful wooded areas and crystal clear swimming quarries. Point Pelee, a short distance away, shares the same climate as Northern California with many varied types of animals, insects flowers etc. 'Kinda like a paradise in the middle of nowhere.

While your sentiments are appreciated, they somewhat miss the point.

The point is that for some reason some Canadians feel the need to constantly make negative comments about the U.S. I'm not talking about just mouth-breathers like mII here but about very intelligent, well-travelled people, who feel it is normal to come to the U.S. and make derogatory comments.

To me it is the equivalent of going to dinner at a friend's house and then spending time there making fun of his wife's ass.

It just isn't how you behave as a guest!

Canada and the U.S. are different. A citizen from one, living in the other, is bound to get some cultural surprises now and then. But it's hardly the sort of thing that should generate the venom that it does.

Gawd knows that we in the U.S. have our problems. But, by and large, we try to address them. Unfortunately, those who don't try to address them tend to be the loudest and most ignorant of the bunch.

Fortunately, they're usually quiet unless you poke them with a stick. The Canadian counterparts, by contrast, like being loud, ignorant, and enjoy poking at people with a stick.

I, personally, am sick and tired of being poked with a stick! So, while I don't spew stuff about "Canaduh" and so on, it does get old.

Briefly (compared to the Grundig S350), the sensitivity on all bands and the sound quality are comparable, but the ability to lock into a frequency without drifting is the clincher for the KA2100. I'd go for the 2100.

Thanks. I have an S350 and a S350 DL, but I like the 2100 too.

The second half of " 'Death To America' ", the Monday Documentary, with Michael Goldfarb.

They usually repeat that at 1:00 UTC on Sunday, on the East Asian feed. For North America, try 15360 or 15335 kHz, Saturday Evening.

They said it's also up on their web site in the Documentary Archive.

pointing a big dish to the sun you might catch the continuum emission (increased noise) of a solar flare. This has been observed very rarely so far. Mind that millimeter waves and especially 300 GHz are strongly absorbed by water vapour in the earth atmosphere.

I have the RP2100-the S350 is no comparison. Hot radio right off the whip, and no images, being double conversion. Bassier, more mellow audio.

tquchina has the SSB adapters for $22.00 on Ebay now, BTW.

Cato replys: Ya. Alberta more then any other province. They have what some people call an "American Conservative Mind-set." They see themselves as sort of a Canadian Texas. Albertans tend to be much more independant minded then other Canadians. And most distrustful of government. And over the years there was some talk about the whole province defecting to the United States, or just declaring themselves independant from everyone else.
Other Canadians refer to Albertans as "Canada's Rednecks." They have their western Canada cowboys. Their Calgary Stampede Rodeo every year. Rodeos in other cities. They have the most privately owned firearms, per capita, in Canada probably, even with all the government red- tape hoops that people have to jump through to own guns up here. Ya you can see Albertans driving pick-up trucks with gun racks in the window. At least when I was out there some years back. They never really fit into Canada like the other provinces.
But you can find a few left-wingers in that province too. Always seems to be some of those leftwingers where-ever you go.

Any theoretical 300 GHz AM receiver. I want to listen to signals from far outer space.

Since AM is more susceptible to magnetic disruptions, I'd figure, and AM radio is more likely to pick up interferences from outer space, than an FM radio. The question is, which frequency is best for this?
Frequencies that are too low are sealed out of the ionosphere, while frequencies that are too high rapidly disappear [line of sight].

Ya, the Niagara Peninsula is a good part of Canada. Mild climate, lots of history. It's were I grew up before I started traveling through Canada and the U.S.
One of the nicer spots. But getting too industrialized and built up for my taste. And too much traffic. Lots of air pollution now expecially in the summer time with that brown haze hanging over the cities. Really evident when driving over the Garden City Skyway on hot summer days. We live in that stuff and breathe it. Can't be good.
But my memories of the area when I was younger are good memories to be sure.

No, not every time. He usually opens it to pour more alcohol in. We then have the misfortune to put up with the garbage that comes out.

No amount of praise towards his country will make him a better human being. He will remain a loser until he gets help for his drinking. Don't let his rough manner fool you. He's a failed bookkeeper with visions of world domination.

The Canadian National Psychosis - American Envy ~ RHF

BUT - Until World War One (WWI) - American as a Nation and most Americans suffered from European Envy -or- Euro Ancestral Psychosis.

American as a Nation and as a World Power began to come into it's own after WWI and was in-fact a World Power as a result of WWII.

Canada too was simply a Dominion of the UK prior to WWI and was Culturally focused on the UK and Europe. After WWII Canada became less dominated by the UK and Europe and more focused on the USA.

To the extent at Canada and Canadians developed a Love-Hate-Relationship {Psychosis} with the USA.
In time Canada will have a better understanding of 'itself' and a Clearer National Identity and be more like the Australians - Who were able to transition for Dominion to Fully Independent Nation with a Clear National Identity many because they {the Australians} were not next door to the USA.
= = = Canada's location in the World has been it greatest hindrance to achieving Fully Independent Nation with a Clear National Identity.
= = = Canada like Mexico suffers from being America's Neighbor - - -
= = = Canada like Mexico suffers from being America's Neighbor - - - Poor Mexico {Canada} So Far From God {Allah} and So Close To The USA.

Proud To Be An American - God {Allah} Bless America !~ RHF

Could Say The Same About Their Countries.

I think you need to understand the basics a little more.

AM and FM are types of modulation and are not susceptible in themselves to magnetic disruptions. You are getting confused by the fact that "medium wave" broadcasts are referred to as "AM" when describing which frequency band they are transmitted on. Although they do use Amplitude Modulation (AM) there is nothing technically to stop you using FM on the same frequency. The same applies the band known as FM, which is a vhf band, you could use AM here if you wished.

300GHz is an extremely high microwave frequency anis absorbed by the atmosphere very quickly, there are few uses for such a high frequency which is difficult and expensive to use. So most likely you would hear nothing.

Your comments about the atmosphere are correct, low frequencies, below vhf, are reflected and generally signals from space do not penetrate that well. vhf and above will. The modulation, AM or FM have no bearing on this.

Just wondering if any particular Hawaiian AM BCB station(s) has a good signal on the west coast. I've tried to listened to some but no luck.

Hmm...I'm going to guess the SN ratio will be quite low when tuning in hypothetical signals on a theoretical receiver.

Look into the SETI project instead. There are established reasons for tuning around 1420mz and the project is organized.

Regens aren't difficult to tune. Generally, turn the regen control to about 1/2, find the station you want, then turn the regen control up until it breaks into oscillation, then back it off just until the oscillation stops.
It's phenomenal how much gain you can get with one. I had an old 4 band superregen radio that could hear signals my superhets couldn't.

About six years ago I read about a guy who worked at a radar site in New Mexico.Sometimes at night time he would get bored and he would twiddle with the gain control on something and then he would step outside and take a cigarette break.Meanwhile,there would be some zigz and zags zooming around on the radar screen and those other people in there would be hollering,,, UFOS! Then he would step back inside and straighten out the radar screen.

Maybe the wrong place to ask BUT!!!

I am reading about the 10 meter beacon in MT but what do they do, do you talk on them? they say they are "send only" so what do you send.

Just asking!!!

Article at www.drudgereport.com NASA warns of 110 degrees in Atlanta,Chicago,D.C. in summer.

OH,I Verry,Verry,Verry,Berry,Berry,Berry MUCH DO Doubt That.
The hottest temperature I have ever seen it get to here in Mississippi was 107 degrees,two days in a row and a day or two,maybe three days later,it got up to 107 degrees again.Actually,the weather here has been cooler this year,so far anyway.

Howsomever,I Definetly DO Believe what that woman whom retired from NASA said,a few years ago in that article in Popular Mechanics Magazine,or,it might be in Popular Science Magazine.I have the Magazine here somewhere.

A beacon is generally a transmitter that sends nothing but an identifier.
Its purpose is not to transmit content.

Airports have beacons, so airplanes can find them. Use radio direction finding equipment in the airplane, and you can aim towards the beacon to find the airport. The only reason it needs any sort of modulation is for the identifier. A blank carrier is no different from another blank carrier, and wouldn't be useful. But when the callsign is sent, then you can look it up and know where the specific beacon is located.

I guess you are talking about a beacon on the 10Meter ham band. Here the purpose is different. The point is that the 10Meter band is often empty of users, and much of the time propagation conditions mean all that you will hear is local signals. But, if there are some beacons on the band, ie transmitters sending continuously or even part of the time but on a regular basis, it's easy for people to tune to that frequency and listen for the beacon. If the beacon is receivable, then assuming you aren't close to it, the band has opened up, and then you should fire up your own transmitter to make contacts. Or, others might be interested in propagation and want to keep track of when they can receive the beacon. Again, there is an identifier transmitted, so you can look up where the beacon is located. For purposes of keeping track of propagation, it's far easier to have a beacon that you can instantly look up the location of, than making random contacts with people and asking "where are you".

A linear wall wart means your radio will have less drift and longer life since the heat is generated outside the radio. You should learn to like linear wall warts.

Jeff,

Here is the FCC AM/MW Radio Station Listing for Hawaii

I would focus on those AM/MW Radio Stations with a Broadcast Power of 10 KW or more and Frequencies
under 1100 kHz : 620, 650, 670, 690, 760, 830, 870*,

{The Time Signal done in s Female Voice} then most likely you will not hear any Hawaiian Radio Stations.

Try 5 kHz; 10 kHz; and 15 kHz to see if you can hear

AS SEEN ON NATIONAL TV: This is the media report.

PARENTS OF 15 - YEAR OLD - FIND $71,000 CASH HIDDEN IN HIS CLOSET!!!

Does this headline look familiar? Of course it does.

You most likely have just seen this story recently featured on a major nightly news program (USA). And reported elsewhere in the world (including my neck of the woods - New Zealand). His mother was cleaning and putting laundry away when she came across a large brown paper bag that was suspiciously buried beneath some clothes and a skateboard in the back of her 15-year-old son's closet.

Nothing could have prepared her for the shock she got when she opened the bag and found it was full of cash. Five-dollar bills, twenties, fifties and hundreds - all neatly rubber-banded in labelled piles.

"My first thought was that he had robbed a bank", says the 41-year-old woman, "There was over $71,000 dollars in that bag - that's more than my husband earns in a year".

The woman immediately called her husband at the car-dealership where he worked to tell him what she had discovered.He came home right away and they drove together to the boys school and picked him up. Little did they suspect that where the money came from was more shocking than actually finding it in the closet.

As it turns out, the boy had been sending out, via E-mail, a type of "Report" to E-mail addresses that he obtained off the Internet. Everyday after school for the past 2 months, he had been doing this right on his computer in his bedroom.

"I just got the E-mail one day and I figured what the heck, I put my name on it like the instructions said and I started sending it out", says the clever 15-year-old.

The E-mail letter listed 5 addresses and contained instructions to send one $5 dollar bill to each person on the list, then delete the address at the top and move the others addresses Down, and finally to add your name to the top of the list.

The letter goes on to state that you would receive several thousand dollars in five-dollar bills within 2 weeks if you sent out the letter with your name at the top of the 5-address list. "I get junk E-mail all the time,and really did not think it was going to work", the boy continues.

Within the first few days of sending out the E-mail, the Post Office Box that his parents had gotten him for his video-game magazine subscriptions began to fill up with not magazines, but envelopes containing $5 bills.

"About a week later I rode [my bike] down to the post office and my box had 1 magazine and about 300 envelops stuffed in it. There was also a yellow slip that said I had to go up to the [post office] counter.

I thought I was in trouble or something (laughs)". He goes on, "I went up to the counter and they had a whole box of more mail for me. I had to ride back home and empty out my backpack because I could not carry it all".

Over the next few weeks, the boy continued sending out the E-mail."The money just kept coming in and I just kept sorting it and stashing it in the closet, barely had time for my homework".He had also been riding his bike to several of the banks in his area and exchanging the $5 bills for twenties, fifties and hundreds.

"I didn't want the banks to get suspicious so I kept riding to different banks with like five thousand at a time in my backpack. I would usually tell the lady at the bank counter that my dad had sent me in to exchange the money and he was outside waiting for me.One time the lady gave me a really strange look and told me that she would not be able to do it for me and my dad would have to come in and do it, but I just rode to the next bank down the street (laughs)."

Surprisingly, the boy did not have any reason to be afraid. The reporting news team examined and investigated the so-called "chain-letter" the boy was sending out and found that it was not a chain-letter at all.In fact, it was completely legal according to US Postal and Lottery Laws, Title 18, Section 1302 and 1341, or Title 18, Section 3005 in the US code, also in the code of federal regulations, Volume 16, Sections 255 and 436, which state a product or service must be exchanged for money received.

Every five-dollar bill that he received contained a little note that read, "Please send me report number XYX".This simple note made the letter legal because he was exchanging a service (A Report on how-to) for a five-dollar fee.

[This is the end of the media release. If you would like to understand how the system works and get your $71,000 - please continue reading. What appears below is what the 15 year old was sending out on the net - YOU CAN USE IT TOO - just follow the simple instructions].

Dear Friend:

"Making over half million dollars every 4 to 5 months from your home for an investment of only $25 U.S. Dollars expense one time".

THANKS TO THE COMPUTER AGE AND THE INTERNET!
==========
BE A MILLIONAIRE LIKE OTHERS WITHIN A YEAR !!

Before you say "Bull", please read the following.
This is the letter you have been hearing about on the news lately. Due to the popularity of this letter on the internet, a national weekly news program recently devoted an entire show to the investigation of this program described below, to see if it really can make people money.

The show also investigated whether or not the program was legal.
Their findings proved once and for all that there are "absolutely no laws prohibiting the participation in the program and if people can follow the simple instructions, they are bound to make some mega bucks with only $25 out of pocket cost".

DUE TO THE RECENT INCREASE OF POPULARITY & RESPECT
THIS PROGRAM HAS ATTAINED, IT IS CURRENTLY WORKING BETTER THAN EVER.

This is what one had to say:

"Thanks to this profitable opportunity. I was approached many times before but each time I passed on it. I am so glad I finally joined just to see what one could expect in return for the minimal effort and money required. To my astonishment, I received total $610,470.00 in 21 weeks, with money still coming in".
Pam Hedland, Fort Lee, New Jersey.

Here is another testimonial:
"This program has been around for a long time but I never believed in it. But one day when I received this again in the mail I decided to gamble my $25 on it. I followed the simple instructions and walaa ..... 3 weeks later the money started to come in. First month I only made $240.00 but the next 2 months after that I made a total of $290,000.00. So far, in the past 8 months by re-entering the program, I have made over $710,000.00 and I am playing it again.
The key to success in this program is to follow the simple steps and NOT change anything ."

More testimonials later but first,

FOLLOW THE SIMPLE INSTRUCTION BELOW AND YOUR FINANCIAL DREAMS WILL COME TRUE, GUARANTEED!

INSTRUCTIONS:

* Order all 5 reports shown on the list below.

* For each report, send $5 CASH, THE NAME & NUMBER OF THE REPORT YOU ARE ORDERING and YOUR E-MAIL ADDRESS to the person who's name appears ON THAT LIST next to the report.
MAKE SURE YOUR RETURN ADDRESS IS ON YOUR ENVELOPE TOP LEFT CORNER in case of any mail problems.

* When you place your order, make sure you order each of the 5 reports. You will need all 5 reports so that you can save them on your computer and resell them. YOUR TOTAL COST

$5 X 5 = $25.00.

* Within a few days you will receive, via e-mail, each of the 5 reports from these 5 different individuals. Save them on your computer so they will be accessible for you to send to the 1,000's of people who will order them from you. Also make a floppy of these reports and keep it on your desk in case something happen to your computer.

*IMPORTANT - DO NOT alter the names of the people who are listed next to each report, or their sequence on the list, in any way other than what is instructed below in steps 1 through 6 or you will loose out on majority of your profits. Once you understand the way this works, you will also see how it does not work if you change it.

Remember, this method has been tested, and if you alter it, it will NOT work!!!
People have tried to put their friends/relatives names on all five thinking they could get all the money. But it does not work this way. Believe us, we all have tried to be greedy and then nothing happened.

So Do Not try to change anything other than what is instructed. Because if you do, it will not work for you. Remember, honesty reaps the reward!!!

1.. After you have ordered all 5 reports, take this advertisement and REMOVE the name & address of the person in REPORT # 5. This person has made it through the cycle and is no doubt counting their fortune.

2.... Move the name & address in REPORT # 4 down TO REPORT # 5.
3.... Move the name & address in REPORT # 3 down TO REPORT # 4.
4.... Move the name & address in REPORT # 2 down TO REPORT # 3.
5.... Move the name & address in REPORT # 1 down TO REPORT # 2
6.... Insert YOUR name & address in the REPORT # 1 Position.
PLEASE MAKE SURE you copy every name & address ACCURATELY!
==========
Take this entire letter, with the modified list of names, and save it on your computer. DO NOT MAKE ANY OTHER CHANGES. Save this on a disk as well just in case if you loose any data.

To assist you with marketing your business on the Internet, the 5 reports you purchase will provide you with invaluable marketing information which includes how to send bulk e-mails legally, where to find thousands of free classified ads and much more.

There are 2 Primary methods to get this venture going:

METHOD # 1 : BY SENDING BULK E-MAIL LEGALLY
==========
Let's say that you decide to start small, just to see how it goes, and we will assume You and those involved send out only 5,000 e-mails each.

Now with the software program which you will receive for FREE when order report # 1 it will be easier than ever to collect fresh 5,000, 10,000 or much more E-mail addresses for few days work. No need anymore to pay for expensive mailing lists that often are too old or to bulk mail companies to send your offer to again very often old mailing lists. Now your success will depend entirely to you. Along with the extract software you will receive full instructions how to use it, addresses of more than 2,000 bulletin boards and other places where you can extract.
Plus other helpful information that will make you a great success. All this will be included as an addition to report
1. The software will be as an attachment to the same report.

Let's also assume that the mailing receive only a 0.2% response (the response could be much better but let?s just say it is only 0.2%. Also many people will send out hundreds of thousands e-mails instead of only 5,000 each).
Continuing with this example, you send out only 5,000 e-mails.
With a 0.2% response, that is only 10 orders for report #
1. Those 10 people responded by sending out 5,000 e-mail each for a total of 50,000.
Out of those 50,000 e-mails only 0.2% responded with orders. That's = 100 people responded and ordered Report #
2. Those 100 people mail out 5,000 e-mails each for a total of 500,000 e-mails. The 0.2% response to that is 1000 orders for Report # 3. Those 1000 people send out 5,000 e-mails each for a total of 5 million e-mails sent out. The 0.2% response to that is 10,000 orders for Report # 4.
Those 10,000 people send out 5,000 e-mails each for a total of 50,000,000 (50 million) e-mails. The 0.2% response to that is 100,000 orders for Report # 5.

THAT'S 100,000 ORDERS TIMES $5 EACH = $500,000.00 (half million).

Your total income in this example is:
1..... $50 +
2..... $500 +
3..... $5,000 +
4..... $50,000 +
5..... $500,000 .... Grand Total = $555,550.00

NUMBERS DO NOT LIE. GET A PENCIL & PAPER AND FIGURE OUT THE WORST POSSIBLE RESPONSES AND NO MATTER HOW YOU CALCULATE IT, YOU WILL STILL MAKE A LOT OF MONEY!

REMEMBER FRIEND, THIS IS ASSUMING ONLY 10 PEOPLE ORDERING OUT OF 5,000 YOU MAILED TO. Dare to think for a moment what would happen if everyone, or half or even one 4th of those people mailed 100,000 e-mails each or more? There are over 250 million people on the Internet worldwide and counting. Believe me, many people will do just that, and more!

METHOD # 2 : BY PLACING FREE ADS ON THE INTERNET

Advertising on the net is very, very inexpensive and there are hundreds of FREE places to advertise. Placing a lot of free ads on the internet will easily get a larger response. We strongly suggest you start with Method # 1 and add METHOD # 2 as you go along.

For every $5 you receive, all you must do is e-mail them the Report they ordered. That's it. Always provide same day service on all orders. This will guarantee that the e-mail they send out, with your name and address on it, will be prompt because they can not advertise until they receive the report.

ORDER EACH REPORT BY ITS NUMBER & NAME ONLY.

Notes: Always send $5 cash (U.S. CURRENCY) for each Report. Checks NOT accepted. Make sure the cash is concealed by wrapping it in at least 2 sheets of paper. On one of those sheets of paper, write the NUMBER & the NAME of the Report you are ordering, YOUR E-MAIL ADDRESS and your name and postal address.

$$$$$$$$$ YOUR SUCCESS GUIDELINES $$$$$$$$$$$

Follow these guidelines to guarantee your success:

If you do not receive at least 10 orders for Report #1 within 2 weeks, continue sending e-mails until you do.

After you have received 10 orders, 2 to 3 weeks after that you should receive 100 orders or more for REPORT # 2. If you did not, continue advertising or sending e-mails until you do.

Once you have received 100 or more orders for Report # 2, YOU CAN RELAX, because the system is already working for you, and the cash will continue to roll in !

THIS IS IMPORTANT TO REMEMBER: Every time your name is moved down on the list, you are placed in front of a different report. You can KEEP TRACK of your PROGRESS by watching which report people are ordering from you. IF YOU WANT TO GENERATE MORE INCOME SEND ANOTHER BATCH OF E-MAILS AND START THE WHOLE PROCESS AGAIN. There is NO LIMIT to the income you can generate from this business !!!

FOLLOWING IS A NOTE FROM THE ORIGINATOR OF THIS PROGRAM:

You have just received information that can give you financial freedom for the rest of your life, with NO RISK and JUST A LITTLE BIT OF EFFORT. You can make more money in the next few weeks and months than you have ever imagined. Follow the program EXACTLY AS INSTRUCTED. Do Not change it in any way. It works exceedingly well as it is now. Remember to e-mail a copy of this exciting report after you have put your name and address in Report #1 and moved others to #2.....# 5 as instructed above. One of the people you send this to may send out 100,000 or more e-mails and your name will be on everyone of them. Remember though, the more you send out the more potential customers you will reach.

So my friend, I have given you the ideas, information, materials and opportunity to become financially independent.
IT IS UP TO YOU NOW !

* MORE TESTIMONIALS **********

"My name is Mitchell. My wife, Jody and I live in Chicago. I am an accountant with a major U.S. Corporation and I make pretty good money. When I received this program I grumbled to Jody about receiving ''junk mail''. I made fun of the whole thing, spouting my knowledge of the population and percentages involved. I ''knew'' it wouldn't work. Jody totally ignored my supposed intelligence and few days later she jumped in with both feet. I made merciless fun of her, and was ready to lay the old ''I told you so'' on her when the thing didn't work. Well, the laugh was on me! Within 3 weeks she had received 50 responses. Within the next 45 days she had received a total of $ 147,200.00 all cash! I was shocked. I have joined Jody in her ''hobby''."
Mitchell Wolf, Chicago, Illinois

"Not being the gambling type, it took me several weeks to make up my mind to participate in this plan. But conservative that I am, I decided that the initial investment was so little that there was just no way that I wouldn't get enough orders to at least get my money back. I was surprised when I found my medium size post office box crammed with orders. I made $319,210.00 in the first 12 weeks. The nice thing about this deal is that it does not matter where people live. There simply isn't a better investment with a faster return and so big."

Dan Sondstrom, Alberta,
Canada

"I had received this program before. I deleted it, but later I wondered if I should have given it a try. Of course, I had no idea who to contact to get another copy, so I had to wait until I was e-mailed again by someone else.....11 months passed then it luckily came again..... I did not delete this one! I made more than $490,000 on my first try and all the money came within 22 weeks".
Susan De Suza, New York, N.Y.

"It really is a great opportunity to make relatively easy money with little cost to you. I followed the simple instructions carefully and within 10 days the money started to come in. My first month I made $ 20,560.00 and by the end of third month my total cash count was $362,840.00.
Life is beautiful, Thanks to Internet".

I have been away from the web for a few days entertaining some friends from Wisconsin, and am surprised to see that this thread is still going on, eclipsing anything to do with shortwave. There were no arguments over politics or religion with our guests and we had a good visit as usual.
I did have the thought, however, that no nation on the planet is more competent to criticize the US than is Canada. Canadians visit regularly, have friends and relations in the US, are quite familiar with US affairs, but most importantly, Canadians are not imprisoned in the US mind-meld and can see things free of jingoistic cant. On the average, Canadians know far more about the US than Americans know about Canada.
I have previously posted surveys that show that Canadians are increasing their dislike of the US, do not want to join the US, and are starting to dislike Americans because of their adherance to the principles listed by RHF. I don't see any envy of the US at all and if the big boys try to sneak the North American Union into being, there will be much resistance.

Of course there are many Americans who share Canadian views on the Iraq war, the national debt, trade imbalance, shredding of the Constitution, demise of the middle class, and the loss of Habeas Corpus, but their views have a hard time making it to the mass media.
If there is one national weakness, it is the desire of Americans to be liked in foreign lands, and when they are not, they are hurt and confused. Canadians don't care if they are liked or not, neither do the British or Germans. The French would rather not be liked and go out of their way to make it happen, rather like DxEcch. I have seen unscupulous foreigners cleverly take advantage of this desire to be liked.

Hello,
I hope it is not a too much weird question...
We all know that if you have two metal layer with a distant d and thickness th1, th2, we could calculate the capacitance for area unit with C = (Er*Eo)/d. My question is, in order to get merely an estimation, does someone know if exists such as similar formula for calculating the capacitance for perimeter unit between the edge th1 of the first layer with the surface (with infinite extension) of the second?

Thank you very much!

A friend gave me a Terk AM/FM Antenna Tower. It is missing the power supply. Does anyone have one of these and if so, what voltage power supply does it require?

Thanks!

I agree that powering a receiver with an external supply is a very good idea.
I use a linear Lambda 12V (set to 13.69V), 8A supply.

20 years even expensive Si diodes were rather slow by todays standards.
Modern 1N4004 have about 6 times the turn off speed of those made in 1981.
This super fast turn off means that there is often a pulse of noise at turn off.

<http://home.computer.net/~pritch/shortwav.htm> explains one diode issue.
Cross modulation can be a very bad problem if you live close enough, like me, to a MW station. His solution of bypassing the diodes with caps solves this problem and the rapid turn off noise.

I have had good success using 0.001uf/1000pF caps. Others use different values.

If you want to do the job correctly, <http://www.hagtech.com/pdf/snubber.pdf>
shows how to it.

A friend who is into weak signal VHF had to add a ferrite bead at each diode with the capacitor being after the bead and across the diode.

My Lambda power supply has the 1000pF across all the bridge diodes and a heavy duty RF choke in series with both sides of the input to the bridge and both sides of the output. The secondary is bypassed with a .1uF, and the AC input goes through a Curtis 2 stage RFI filter.

I use a DX398 with a home made noise probe that I have discribed before. For quitening down power supplies and other devices, I use a 100uH axial ferrite indyuctor incased in a Sharpie pen. I can "sniff" each device, junction etc and really stomp out offending RFI noise at the source.

Here are some other places where the reports scheme is featured.
Unfortunately, in 3 different countries, it is featured as an illegal chain letter scam.

http://www.docep.wa.gov.au/cp/dev_publications/fairtrading/black_book_scams.html

http://www.ftc.gov/opa/2002/02/eileenspam1.shtm

http://www.betterbusinessbureau.ca/ConsumerTips/ChainLetters.aspx

http://www.usps.com/judicial/1978deci/6-72.htm
(Thiw was from 1978 so the reports were cheaper.)

[quote]
In essence the scheme is nothing more or less than the well-known chain letter. The fact that participants are to receive for each $2.00 invested a one-page "money making" report is obviously only an unsuccessful attempt to camouflage the principal characteristic of the scheme as a chain letter, or lottery.

ones with at least 10kw or higher to see if I can receive one.

Jeff,

Here is the FCC AM/MW Radio Station Listing for Hawaii
HAWAII AM RADIO => http://tinyurl.com/2kxkzw

I would focus on those AM/MW Radio Stations with a Broadcast Power of 10 KW or more and Frequencies
under 1100 kHz : 620, 650, 670, 690, 760, 830, 870*, 880, 920, 940, 1010*, and 1040 kHz .

and Antenna you can not hear WWVH from Hawaii
{The Time Signal done in s Female Voice} then most likely you will not hear any Hawaiian Radio Stations.

Try 5 kHz; 10 kHz; and 15 kHz to see if you can hear her from Kokole Point on the Island of Kauai in Hawaii.

It's like returning to my youth in the early 1970's hearing HCJB's shortwave broadcasts again during their DRM tests on 9915 kHz during the month of May. It's great hearing DX Partyline etc. I hope that they return to English language shortwave from Quito again (whether DRM or simple analogue). Their long absence from shortwave in English was sorely missed.

HCJB in DRM is available on either 9915 or 9815 kHz (they're doing a little frequency hopping due to interference) from 0100 to 0400 UTC with an excellent DRM signal into Detroit, MI on 10-May-2007.

Switching-type AC adapters are indeed a disaster, at least as far as shortwave (or MW) radios go.

But a good regulated and filtered "wall-wart" AC adapter has an advantage over an internal power supply that is little noted: as the voltage supplied to the radio by the adapter is very low, the owner can work on the inside of the radio while the radio is operating with no danger of a high voltage shock.

There are pros and cons to everything.

Best,

Joe

But isnt regen a factor of selectivity rather than sensitivity? If your

IF - The Plug-in-the-Wall AC-to-DC Adaptor that has the Wall Wart setting directly on the AC Outlet : Then I also use a "Donut" Shaped Ceramic Magnet on the DC [Output] Cord about 6" from the DC Power Plug.
NOTE - These Donut Magnets can be bought at RadioShack and 'look like' a 1"x1/2"x1/4" Ferrite Toroidal Core; but they are Ceramic Magnets. aka: Refrigerator Magnets Usually 4-6 Turns through the Hole and around the Magnet eliminates most RFI coming into the Radio.

IF the AC-to-DC Adaptor has a Power Cord between it and the AC Outlet : Then I also use a Clamp-On Ferrite Cores on the AC [Input] Power Cords about 6" from the AC Power Plug.

I recommend 'trying' both of these first before
"Cracking Open" the AC-to-DC Adaptor. ~ RHF

The other option is using Rechargeable Batteries when
On-the-Radio -and- an Off-Line Charging when not in use.

AVALON, California (AP) -- A wind-driven wildfire threatened Santa Catalina Island's main city Thursday, and residents and visitors were urged to leave the resort isle more than 20 miles off Southern California.

Damn I'm having fun.

The fuel pump relay has gone out on my little Suzuki Multi Cab 4w drive pickup and I am playing hell getting big fat butt and hands in the little Jap SOB.

The pump is good. This is a conversion from right to left hand drive; it is so small it looks like a pregnant roller-skate. The wire are all crossed up so I put a buzzer on the leads and started tracing it. I am with in a foot of where the relay has to be but I can't get my hand on it or see it. I am going to get a can opener in a minute and I'll get to the little SOB!

I don't want to rewire it to the coil because if I have a wreck it would keep pumping gas until the key is turned off so I would like to find the relay.

Damn I'm having fun!!!!!

Politics is getting hot over here. There have been over 100 political killings in the last month or so.

Things are not too bad here, one of the local politicians committed suicide today, he shot himself in the head three times.

Three days until the election is three days away and I am lying low, staying close to the house and out of site.

Most of the news is blocked so I get most of my news from the BBC/CNN TV and radio plus online news from the local papers.

A good way to test the wall wart in question if to operate your radio from the wall wart, tune down to the MW(AM BCB) and run the lead from the wall wart across the loop antenna. If the noise goes up, or MW signals have a "hum" on "top" of them, or if you hear mix products, then the supply needs treatment. You can repeat the test after each treatment step. Exernal ferrite is the logical first step.

Unless you live pretty close to a broadcaster, cross modulation is not likely to be an isue. I live within 4 miles of two MW stations. One is on 770, the other is 1240.
So I find garbage on 770+1240, and 1240-770. These are out of the MW band, so I have to tune to the LW or SW bands.

Some wall warts that are the same model number have very different RFI charactoristics.
I went to the local Good Will store and built up a supply of RF quite supplies over a couple of months. While I hate the d@#^ things, I accept that they are very useful at times.

When ever possible I operate everything from my Lambda 12V power supply that have been treated to kill all RF noise. But there are few devices in our home that have their own wall warts. The telephone answering machine wall wart was about the worst RFI noise source I have personally experienced. It is a 9V AC so just substituted the wall wart that we used with an external 56K modem. Someday when I have the time I intend to crack the case and see just what is inside this beast.

Another trick that can be useful is to find a MOV spike protector that you can open.
I like the GE units, and add a 0.01uF across hot to neutral and hot to ground. This is easier then added the capacitors to the home AC outlet.

I have mentioned the Curtis F1600CA03 3 Amp line filter before. These units are only $0.35 each and can do an amazing job of killing RFI at the source.

Huh? Superhets, with multiple conversion IFs and crystal or mechanical filters will run circles around the selectivity of a regen.

Regeneration affects both selectivity (by raising the Q of the detector) and sensitivity (by using controlled feedback to obtain high degrees of amplification).

Brian O <briano1812@lispwest.com> wrote:

Digital Radio Mondiale (Worldwide Digital Radio, or something like that).

It's another method of sending a digital bitstream in a relativly narrow bandwidth. It sends, using COFDM (a whole lot of closely spaced subcarriers, phase modulated), a 9 or 10 kHz wide signal that can be demodulated into a 30-40 kBPS bit stream that carries one or more lossy compressed (MP3/ACC?/Ogg) audio signals. Unlike IBOC-AM a.k.a. HD-Radio, it doesn't bother with an analog listenable signal.

It shows up as a 10 kHz wide block of rushing noise on AM, and on SSB, you hear the various subcarriers zipping up and down. Very similar to a multiplex radio telegraph signal, only about 4 times as wide.

Radio New Zealand often uses it on 15720, and Radio Canada on 9800.

The usual hobby way to receive it is to get a reciever that has an IF output in the audio range (2-12 kHz?), feed that into a computer's sound card, and throw a whole lot of CPU cycles at it.
There are standalone Digital Signal Processor chips that will demodulate it (along with several other modulations, more commonly used in Europe), so regular receivers are showing up this year.

My opinion of it is that it was developed by regional broadcasters in Europe as a way to deal with getting shut out by the conversion to digital by various national broadcast systems and satellite systems. One of the more interesting uses is Radio New Zealand, who, (I gather), uses it as a "poor man's satellite", to feed various FM band rebroadcasters throughout the Pacific Ocean area.

see your family name in a lot of places. I remember reading about a Frank Cato yesterday.

What is your full name, and what kind of business is your family in?

You can reply to pitzra...@earthlink.net if you like!

Burr

Hello Burr: For obvious reasons people shouldn't give out personal info on the internet, especially to people they have never net, and don't know.
I will say, however, that my name isn't Cato. I use that name because of a bit of admiration for the ancient Roman Republican family of that name.

My family has been involved in a number of different things, from business, (Industrial Advertising), to machine operators in the auto industry at G.M. of Canada Ltd.
And, as you can probably tell from my posts, the Canadian military, primarily the Army. with the 44th Field Regiment, 10th Battery Artillery, and the Lincoln & Welland Regiment, Infantry.
My family has been involved with the military going back at least as far as the War of 1812, with the forerunner of the Lincoln & Welland Regiment, the Lincoln Militia. Before that, my mother's side of the family that had come over in 1635, lived in New York, and got split up because of the American War of Independance. some supported the new U.S. and some supported King George, so the ones that supported King George had to come up here to Canada in 1785. Then, in 1855, some of them returned to the U.S. and settled in Kansas. That part of the family still lives in Kansas, although they have also spread down to Texas. What is interesting is that the two sides of the family, the American, and the Canadian, just started talking again a few years ago because of our research into the family genealogy. My ancestory is Scottish, Irish, German, and English.
I hope will do.

am not a member, but my political beliefs tend strongly toward Libertarian. Friedrich Hayek, Ludwig von Mises, Milton Friedman, Thomas Sowell have all published good writings. There are many others as you are aware.
I have always liked the way Jefferson "summed" it up...

A wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of

THIS REALLY CAN MAKE YOU EASY MONEY! IT WORKS!
BUT YOU HAVE TO FOLLOW IT CAREFULLY FOR IT TO WORK!
A little while back, I was looking on the web for easy ways to make money and I kept thinking that all of the ways I was reading would never work and were just scams, but not this one! The article that I had found said that I could make thousands of dollars easily in a matter of weeks with only an initial small payment of $6.00. I thought, "Yeah, right, this must be a scam like most of the rest", but like most of us, I was curious, so I kept reading. Anyway, it said that if I sent $1.00 to each of the 6 names and addresses listed at the bottom of the article that I would make great money but only if I followed the following steps. After sending the $1.00 to each person you were then instructed to rewrite the list by taking the 1st person off of the list then moving the 2nd person to the 1st spot, and the 3rd person to the 2nd spot, etc, etc. Finally you should be left with the number 6 spot empty and this is where you place your name and address. After reconfiguring the list you then must post it on about 200 newsgroups (doesn't matter but the more places you post the more money you make!). There are thousands and thousands of newsgroups from around the world so this task is easy and that was it when I was done! No catch. So after thinking it over, I thought about trying it. I figured, what have I got to lose except 6 stamps and $6.00, right? Like most of us I was a little skeptical because it seemed so easy and I was a little worried about the legal aspects of it all. So I checked it out with the U.S. Post Office (1-800-725-2161) and they confirmed that it is indeed legal! (U.S. Postal and Lottery Laws Title 18, Section 1302 and 1341 and Code of Federal Regulations, Volume 16, Sections 255 and 436) After reviewing the pros and cons of the investment I decided to carry out with it. I invested the measly $6.00 and guess what? Within 7 days, I started getting money in the mail!! I was very shocked! I figured it would end soon, but the money just kept coming in. In my first week, I made about $25.00. By the end of the second week I had made a total of over $1,000.00! In the third week I had over $6,000.00 and it's still growing. This is now my fourth week and I have made a total of just over $21,000.00 and it's still coming in rapidly. It's certainly worth $6.00, and 6 stamps. Now let me explain to you how this works and most importantly, why it works. Also, make sure you print a copy of this article NOW, so you can get the information off of it as you need it.

STEP 1: Get 6 separate pieces of paper and write the following on each piece of paper "PLEASE PUT ME ON YOUR MAILING LIST." Now get 6 US
$1.00 bills and place ONE inside EACH of the 6 pieces of paper so the bill will not be seen through the envelope to prevent thievery.
Next, place one paper in each of the 6 envelopes and seal them. You should now have 6 sealed envelopes, each with a piece of paper stating the above phrase (PLEASE PUT ME ON YOUR MAILING LIST), your name and address, and a $1.00 bill. What you are doing with this letter is creating a service. THIS IS ABSOLUTELY LEGAL!
Now mail the 6 envelopes to the following addresses:
1. LORRAINE HUTCHINSON (P.O. BOX 23951 LONDON ENGLAND E12 5YP)
2. GEAN SAPP (1768 OLD HICKORY STREET, DECATUR, GA 30032)
3. TAMEKA HILL (P.O. BOX 188 JAMESVILLE, NC 27846)
4. DAN BELL (1519 CAMERON LANDING DRIVE, STOCKBRIDGE, GA 30281)
5. ERIC PORAT (2345 EAST 64 STREET, BROOKLYN, NY 11234)
6. MATT SANTIAMAGRO (1120 SUNSET AVE, KELLEY, IA 50134)
STEP 2: After you have mailed out your letters creating a service and making this legal, take the #1 name off the list that you see above, move the other names up (6 becomes 5, 5 becomes 4, etc...) and add YOUR NAME & ADDRESS as number 6 on the list.
STEP 3: Change anything you need to in this article, but try to keep this article as close to original as possible. Now, post your amended article to at least 200 newsgroups. (I believe there are close to 24,000 groups in USA alone). All you need is 200, but remember, the more you post- the more money you make!
DIRECTIONS --HOW TO POST TO NEWSGROUPS Step a) You do not need to re-type this entire letter to do your own posting. Simply put your cursor at the beginning of this letter and drag your cursor to the bottom of this document, and select 'copy' from the edit menu. This will copy the entire letter into the computers memory.
Step b) Open a blank "notepad" file under accessories in windows and place your cursor at the top of the blank page. From the 'edit' menu select 'paste'. This will paste a copy of the letter into notepad so that you can add your name to the list.
Step c) Save your new notepad file as a .txt file. If you want to do your postings in different sittings, you'll always have this file to go back to.
Step d) Use the Internet to search for various newsgroups (on-line forums, message boards, chat sites, discussions.) Step e) Visit these message boards and post this article as a new message by highlighting the text of this letter and selecting paste from the edit menu. Fill in the Subject, this will be the header that everyone sees as they scroll through the list of postings in a particular group, click the post message button. After you have completed these steps you are done with your first posting.

Congratulations! You are that much closer to easy money! THAT'S IT!
All you have to do is jump to different newsgroups and post away, after you get the hang of it, it will take about 30 seconds for each newsgroup! That's it! You will begin receiving money from around the world within days! You may eventually want to rent a P.O.Box due to the large amount of mail you will receive. If you wish to stay anonymous, you can invent a name to use, as long as the postman will deliver it. JUST MAKE SURE ALL THE ADDRESSES ARE CORRECT AND REMEMBER, THE MORE NEWSGROUPS YOU POST IN, THE MORE MONEY YOU WILL MAKE!! BUT YOU HAVE TO POST A MINIMUM OF 200
WHY it works: Out of 200 postings, say I receive only 5 replies (a very low example). So then I made $5.00 with my name at #6 on the letter. Now, each of the 5 persons who just sent me $1.00 make the MINIMUM 200 postings, each with my name at #5 and only 5 persons respond to each of the original 5, that is another $25.00 for me, now those 25 each make 200 MINIMUM posts with my name at #4 and only 5 replies each, I will bring in an additional $125.00! Now, those 125 persons turn around and post the MINIMUM 200 with my name at #3 and only receive 5 replies each, I will make an additional $626.00! OK, now here is the fun part, each of those 625 persons post a MINIMUM
letters with my name at #2 and they each only receive 5 replies, that just made me $3,125.00! Those 3,125 persons will all deliver this message to 200 newsgroups with my name at #1 and if still 5 persons per 200 newsgroups react I will receive $15,625,00! With an original investment of only $6.00! AMAZING! When your name is no longer on the list, you just take the latest posting in the newsgroups, and send out another $6.00 to names on the list, putting your name at number 6 again. And start posting again. The thing to remember is, do you realize that thousands of people all over the world are joining the internet and reading these articles everyday. Remember play FAIRLY and HONESTLY and this will work.

The problem is they are liberals. Being Canadian is not the problem.
Liberals are a nasty bunch of any nationality.

That's good that you told him to "Tootle along" but you realize that you are the only person posting in the news group still responding to him.
If you would consider not responding to him he would effectively disappear. Consider it.

Lots of good emi tips here. I am switchmode power supply engineer and make a decent living with smps so I like them! They can actually be integrated into sensitive receiving gear and be very quiet if done correctly.

NEO

PS I hate them too at home when I am swl. They drive me crazy.

You can get shielded inductors and transformers for SMPS, as long as the bean counters don't get involved. ;-)

Isn't the cheaper solution just to use a fixed frequency in the SMPS, and pick it so it doesn't effect YOUR product. [Of course, it can radiate and screw up some other radio.]

And speaking as a "Dumbass Canuck" as dxAce likes to call us Canadians, I have to agree with you. Let me just say that, ya, I guess most Canadians are liberals or socialists. I say that because for most of the past forty years, the Liberal Party has been in power up here. and the Harper conservatives seem to have cheated us. The bastards! And our freedoms, have been slowly, gradually, vanishing in government bureaucracy. And the same thing is happening to you freedom loving American citizens down there. You better wake everybody up and stop the erosion of your freedoms. If you're really, really, lucky, it might not be too late.
And this Canadian still has his guns. (Oops, I shouldn't say that too loud!)
But, God damn it, there are some of us who are Conservative, or even better, Libertarian, Freedom/Liberty loving, small government loving Canadians. We might be few, but we are here. And I am not going away to quick. that isn't what we fought for. Ya, sometimes late at night, when I have time to think about things, and look back at decades gone past, I get angry when I see how things are going.

Hey cuhulin, you sound o.k. in my book. We might disagree on the odd little thing or two. And you might have a few years on, like me, but, as a dumbass canuck, I think that if we ever sat down and shared a few beers, we might find that we are not all that different. I think you're o.k. I wish you well.

Best regards. Yes, I guess I might have a locke on it.
John might think so too. But I still have much to learn, even at my age, and probably not a lot of years left. I just have to make the best of what time is available, to learn as much as I am able.

Canada is as big a trading partner with the US as China. Things in Canada might affect the US. For example, The Supreme Court of Canada has ruled that Habeous Corpus can not be set aside for the prosecution of terrorists. They must be charged before a magistrate, shown rthe evidence, and tried in court. This is not the case in the US where you can be spirited off, thrown in some remote prison, and never see a lawyer or Judge.
But we don't want to hear about that, do we? That as the US slides into a police state, there is another country that is freer and is not setting aside its laws. It's the US that is supposed to be free. What's happening here? Better we don't think about it.

Sorry, US terrorists would not be admissible to Canada. We control our

Let me get this straight. You are free to peddle your redneck Yankee bullshit on the web but you deny the right of anyone to post a different view? Typical. You can't respond to the issues with logic and reason and you are getting beaten in the name-calling department so you violate the second amendment and try to silence discussion. Stop whining, pay attention, run along, and get a CB radio.

Yeah, when you ain't got nothing else going for you it's always best to fake being polite.

I use the analogy of a cat sleeping next to an elephant. If the elephant (the US) rolls over it could crush the cat (Canada) so the cat tends to sleep with one eye open. I will admit there is a general attitude of "What are the silly buggars up to now?" but this is only from the view of how this will affect Canada.
Let me give just one example of many.
When 9/11 was under way, the US issued an order that no inbound aircraft would be permitted to land in the US. Many of these flights had passed their point of no return and would crash into the ocean. Canada immediately told the inbound flights that they were free to land in Canada. Gander, Newfoundland was up to its ears in 747's but all the people were housed and fed until the US got its act together. This sort of thing is going on all the time, but the US media never reports it. I think that many of the problems are due to the inability of Americans to use common sense. In the US lawyer-driven, rulebook society, there is no place for common sense as there is a law for everything and no discretion is allowed.
A similar situation exists between the Estonians and the Russians. The Estonians have lots of problems in their own country, but they sure keep an eye on what the Russians are up to.

Other than a pile of empty bottles, you have absolutely nothing going for you yet you are extremely IMPOLITE.

Did you learn that in the bookkeeping school the military paid for?

Has the FBI finished it's profiling of you yet? I understand you were spotted checking out towers at a local campus last week.

Alcoholic ex-military racist loners who buy case lots of Chinese ammunition and exhibit your type of antisocial behaviour in public forums NEED a good profiling now and then.

It's now almost 10 AM. Time for you to open that second fifth. I'll check back this afternoon to see what gems you've posted THIS time.

Hi all
I have a Sony sw-77 and it appears to be acting up.
It seems to have a problem in the power dept, now I'm not sure if it's because of the batteries, as I have cheap things in it at the moment, but its still the same with the ac power supply fitted, it sort of crackles and goes quiet for a few seconds, then sometimes it sounds as if it drifts off frequency, but then it comes back again, it is an intermittant problem, but very annoying, any ideas anyone please

For sale: Grundig Satellit 500 shortwave radio. This is the model with Sync detector. Has 42 memories. Includes all original documentation and manuals, dual-voltage AC adapter, and snap-on plastic cover that fits over the main display and buttons. I presume this was to keep the display scratch free.

Radio in fantastic cosmetic condition. I am unable to get FM reception for some reason. LW and SW reception seem to be fine (I tested shortwave on the 15 khz time station) and was able to get other stations with just the whip antenna. But for some reason FM is not working. So I am selling it as-is. Asking $125 plus postage or best offer. Please email with questions or offers.

thanks,
CTV

The biggest problem I have with the linked article is that, if I read it right, he connected the low side of the power supply output to the AC earth ground. This causes the supply to have a specific relationship to earth ground and might conflict with other equipment the supply, then modem, then all else connected to it. If some other piece of connected equipment did the same thing there would be a ground loop that could cause equipment malfunction. Highly valuable smoke contained in semiconductors could be released as a result.

He has the right idea as evidenced by the fact that it greatly lessened the interference but a .1 or .01 uF cap should suffice instead of the DC connection and allow the power supply output to remain floating relative to earth ground.

Another lesson to be learned here is that you must filter differential noise before trying to filter common mode noise. The author would then find common mode ferrite chokes to help reduce radiated noise.

The reason switching power supplies generate so much interference in the short wave bands is the way switch mode power supplies work. First the AC is rectified to a high voltage DC. Usually a couple of FET transistors form a high voltage oscillator into a transformer primary for AC input to DC output isolation. The switching supplies usually operate at a fixed frequency and regulation is achieved thru pulse width modulation. The feedback circuit is usually another small transformer or opto-isolator.

This varying width pulse is usually 100 to 500 KHz square wave with fast edges so the supply conversion is efficient. This ensures that the power pulse is rich in odd harmonics that extend into the short wave spectrum.

One review in QST for a commercial switching supply intended for radio use mentioned that it had a switch, so you could actually shift the frequency a tad if it was bothersome.

Everytime I think of noise from switching supplies, I think of all the fuss you used to see in the books and magazines about getting rid of ignition noise when operating froma car. At least some of it is bound to be applicable, but it seems like switching supplies are seen as too much a black box thing, mysterious and not to be touched.

Get the supply into a good rf-tight box. Filter the primary properly, if it's not already done. Run the output lines through feedthrough capacitors, mounted in a box so the input and output are well isolated.
Put a series trap in the output line, and tune it to null out the switching signal.

If the box is not RF tight, the rest won't really matter. But once it is RF tight, then you have to deal with the signals in and out of the box.

Of course, there is little reason to use switching supplies for shortwave receivers, the current demand is too little to warrant them (especially given the ill side effects). For transmitting, obviously the current demand make them appealing.

But the real issue is that consumer equipment uses them, so you're stuck with living around things that you can't really do much about. And consumer equipment isn't likely to be really consumed with how much noise they generate, unless it gets them in trouble.

I think it boils down to several things. Cost, weight, size, and efficiency are better with switching supplies where the only real downside is noise generation. One receiver I have, the RX340, has a switching power supply. Ten-tec runs the power supply output through another circuit board in another compartment just for filtering the power supply output before it goes anywhere else. The switching supply is a complete commercial supply all by itself with filtering but not enough for a short wave receiver so they added this second stage board with a collection of differential and common mode cap's and coils for the needed additional filtering.

Michael/Telemon,

Both you guys are very smart and make very good post to the list.

For my $.02 ground, ground, ground. I use the best ground I can find and I test to be sure it's a good ground.

You can also ground the speaker wire using a resister around or hooked to the wire to ground. Play with the ground looking for the best sound. Also use a 12v battery when you can, just be sure it is in a good plastic box if you have it in the shack but keep it vented. Turn off the charger when you turn on the radio. I use the big D-50's one for SW and one for scanner. I put my own ground rob (12') into water then used a copper clamp with #12 wire.

My &.02

Thank You,

Burr

PS: be sure and ground the sheath on the antenna lead-in.

Whatever one thinks of DRM (and it does cause adjacent channel interference of up to 10 kHz on either side of the DRM broadcast channel), it does deliver high fidelity shortwave broadcast capability. The best use of it has been on low power regional shortwave broadcasts in the 26 MHz band (used in Europe), where it doesn't interfere with other services.

It might be interesting to lay aside a broadcast band especially for a DRM (8 MHz maybe or 10 MHz???) where they would jam DRM shortwave broadcasts every 8 kHz or so (since the DRM codec decoders can differentiate between adjacent DRM broadcasts -- even if they're overlapping). That would get the obnoxious DRM interference away from other analogue broadcasters.

When I started this thread, I was pretty excited because HCJB, absent from the English language shortwave broadcasting world, was enticed back onto shortwave because of the superb sound quality of DRM. With only 4 kW, they are reliably broadcasting throughout eastern and midwestern North America in stereo on shortwave with music and informational programming with fidelity that is worth listening to for an entire evening of worthwhile entertainment.

This evening's program (0100 UTC on 9815) began with a program of Ecuadorian music that was terrific. The announcer even used HCJB's old moniker "The Voice of the Andes", something I thought that I'd never hear again.

Welcome back HCJB! Don't let it be an "experiment", come back onto shortwave permanently with or without DRM!

if it wants to. With 20 to 30 million illegals, it evidently doesn't want to. I don't know why and I'm not particularly interested unless they try to sneak across our border.

VE3,

My Answer to the Border Problem has always been :
Seal Express Passanger Trains from Mexico-to-Canada
-via- the USA - Olé ! y Viva Canada si, Si. SI !

- - - yes it is that simple ~ RHF
ABOUT - The Word 'Olé!', in Spanish, Portuguese, and Italian, used to express excited approval, for example at sporting events. Possibly derived from Arabic w-Allāh = "by Allah!", carried over from medieval Muslim rule in Spain

I notice some stuff which may be of interest if you've got old tube radios and a decent binaries usenet server. Look in alt.binaries.e-book.technical for "electronics manuals".

Of course, this may be a copyright violation but you probably can't buy this stuff from the copyright holder even if you could trace him down.

I've had problems with the coaxial(barrel connector) power jack on various equipment. The connections to the circuit board go open because it gets stressed a lot with the plug and cord getting moved or bumped and the only thing holding it in place is solder. And in some stuff, there's a switch to disconnect the battery built into the power jack so that supply goes through that same problematic part.

Wiggle it and see...

I have been trying to listen to broadcast stations on my Sony ICF-7600GR radio. I want to hear radio habana cuba, but I swear, the sound will go in an out, low to where you can't hear it, then blasting, then low again, it will not ever stay stable to the point where I can sit there and just listen to it. I don't have any external antenna yet, I can't put on on the roof or in an attic since I don't own this house nor have any attic or basement. Do I just need a better antenna or do I just have to live with the fading or whatever this is called?

Hi Red,
This happens all the time, as the sun/moon move it will change and get better.

Be sure the antenna is locked open.

You can run a long wire around the eves of your house and it will work great.

Watch for sheet metal and window screens.

You may want to try off tuning just a little on both sides of the freq.

See if Cuba is on other freq.'s.

Good Luck,

Burr

You're right about that Cartier dude. Sailed over here in 1535 and explored what would end up being called the St. Lawrence River. Some Iroquois indian pointed upriver to where his village was and used the Huron-Iroquois word for village,"Kanata". The name sort of stuck, except for the spelling.
Have fun with that female name thingy.

Since Telamon doesn't post insults until insulted, your argument is very much the 5 year old screaming, "Mom!--He hit me back FIRST."

Since this BS originated north of the border....if you stop, he will have nothing to pursue. If you stop, Ace will have nothing to which me might respond.

I know the truth hurts and you want desperately to be blameless, but, it's simple....you're not.

Stop your gratuitous shots at the US, and the in-kind replies will stop.

I suppose you come by it honestly. When your PM levies personal insults at our President, it kind of becomes national policy.

Pretty hypocritical to live off the fat of our economy, while insulting our officials. Especially in light of the US involvement in thwarting the attack on a Canadian city.

Keep it up, and we'll send back Shatner.

Hi Mark
Yes,I see your point, it does crackle a bit when I move it around.
I think it could be a problem with the voltage stabilizer, as it sort of goes haywire from time to time, getting the same symptoms you get when batteries are running low, also it goes ballistic when you push the light button.
Further investigation I think is needed

Hello.

We are presently at the "bottom" of the eleven-year sunspot cycle. This cycle greatly affects shortwave communications. Keep your ICF-SW7600GR as near to a window as is practicable and make sure there are few, if any, interference-creating electronic items (fluorescent light bulbs, computers, televisions, especially HD models, etc.) operating within ten or fifteen feet of the radio, extend the whip vertically, tune in the station and set the sync detector to its on position. Try USB and LSB to see which of the sidebands sounds best to you.

An external antenna would most certainly be of help but to hear Havana, the whip should suffice, depending on your location.

Please remember too that listening to shortwave radio is not like listening to your local MW or FM stations. Hearing these foreign stations depends entirely on the vagaries of the ionosphere which, like all other aspects of the earth, is in a constant state of flux. One must allow for this. Frankly this is one of the joys of the hobby as one never knows precisely what one will hear on any given night. While most of the more powerful stations are received consistently, more or less, sometimes one night a station will come in like a local and the next night it will not be audible at all! So you must always keep trying.

Radio Havana Cuba transmits in the evening (east coast of North America) on 6000 kHz and 6180 kHz. Try both frequencies to see which is the better. If you like Cuban music and don't mind announcements in Spanish, Radio Rebelde on 5025 kHz often comes in well in the evenings.

There are other frequencies in use by them; often their European transmissions (afternoons eastern time) come in well. I do not remember the frequencies in use but check the 25 and 22 meter bands.

Beginning later this year, or next year, conditions should slowly start to improve and by 2010-2012 the bands should really be "jumping." Let's hope so, anyway. In any event, do not become discouraged. Shortwave signal variability is a fact of life and all of us are always trying to do whatever we can to improve the listening. But when it's good, it's VERY good. And the information (and entertainment) available on the shortwaves just can't be duplicated anywhere else, in my opinion.

I hope this helps you.

Best,

Joe

Get your facts right. Stephen Harper, the Prime Minister, has his head so far up Bush's ass he needs assistants to hold his shoelaces.
Harper, a well-known neocon, can't call an election because his ratings are too low. Please cite the occasion where Harper insulted Bush.

(a) What fat economy is this? An economy one trillion dollars in debt to China and millions to Canada? All Canadian exports are at world prices and the US is free to import from the best source. Despite this, the US raised holy hell when the Chinese tried to buy into the Alberta tar sands.
(b) I don't recall ever insulting a US official. Please cite the ocassion.
(c) I am not aware of any attack on a Canadian city. Perhaps you are thinking of the Air India bombing.

You say "getting the same symptoms you get when batteries are running low" and you originally stated "it's because of the batteries, as I have cheap things in it at the moment".

Clive, you may have solved your own problem--mightn't you consider changing the batteries??? That would seem to be an obvious first choice...

Hi Tommy
yes, I wasnt very clear on that I'm sorry. I have tried 2 sets of brand new batteries in, and also with the mains adapter plugged in, but the problem remains

In the interest of accuracy, I can't be sure if Telamon was involved with the KOOK quiz or not. Too many snips and delations to tell. It is RHF's Nazi attitudes that shocked me ....not Telemon's, although his calling my posts "crap" is an insult.
Referring to Telemon, his idea " My answer to the border problem:
Seal express passenger trains from Mexico-to-Canada via the USA.".
Now seroiusly, what does he think will happen? They will be stopped at the border. Soon there will be bus tours up to Blaine, Washington to see all the stalled trains. Still, that would be a new business for an area that needs it.

Ya Buddy, CB is way more fun, less carcinogenic and infrastructure reliant. And as the other guy said, after the collapse your cell phone infrastructure probably won't be repaired. The local party/emergency line will be CB, FRS, if there's power and time for that... a CB is a potential radio station... and you can hear lightning and skip, and what the truckers are doing and your engine...I guess most radio hobbyists have a CB somewhere in the mix...the comparison to Cellphones is idiotic. CB is point to point. Cellphones involve lotsa money and lotsa infrastructure and all you get out of it is a nice radiation tumor, which will be treated with yet more radiation...

Funny. That's exactly what's happening from down here. Someone got tired of the gratuitous insults from Canada, and took a 'no insult unanswered' stance.

So, again, you're bitching because someone hit you back first.

Canadian insults stop, US insults will stop.

Your call.

And here we have it. History starts at a random point of convenience. Go back one PM. The aide to Chretien that called Bush a moron in an official memo. He resigned. Interestingly, however, he was not fired by Chretien, nor was the remark retracted by the PM.

So, you get YOUR facts, straight, buckwheat. History doesn't start with your entry into the fray. And you don't get to start a 'no insult unanswered' retaliation when it was your countrymen who started the insult fest first.

"Mii," and "MichaelMoore" have been taking gratuitous shots at the US since long before you showed your handle here. Had you done your own homework, gotten your own facts straight, you would have known that. But then, you're Canadian, and beyond the reach of criticism, aren't you?

No insult unanswered, indeed.

I suppose you don't know that the Anti-US insults came across the border for weeks unanswered before some members here started let no insult go unanswered. But then, why would you. Everyone knows there are no enemies on the Left...or to the North. That you are, by geography, if not politics, beyond the reach of criticism. And that you must let no insult go unanswered. If for no other reason than to assert your righteousness.

No insult unaswered, indeed.

Arrogance in DNA. You let your countrymen lob shots across the border, and then you object to the response with indignation.

"MOM, he hit me back first."

First of all, I consider your calling me "buckwheat" a gratuitous insult so you had better get ready for some "incoming."

(1) You make a big fuss about "getting your facts right." Why don't you follow your own advice? "Go back one PM." That would be John Turner. If you are talking about Chretien, that's back TWO PM's. When you say "your PM" I think it quite reasonable to think you are referring to the present PM. And the aide was a "she" not a "he."
Great example of "getting your facts straight."

(2) You say history starts at a random point of convenience.
Convenient to who? You? How far back do you want to go? Chretien didn't like Bush. Diefenbaker didn't like Kennedy. King didn't like Roosevelt.........
Cartier thought the Jamestown settlers were trailer trash. So what?
You have to set the terms of reference at the beginning of the discussion, not when you want to shift your argument. That's why I ignored your previous rant about terrorists and Al-quieda about which you objected. It had nothing to do with the topic we were discussing.
Please stay on topic and stop dragging red herrings across the thread.

(3) I admit that I didn't know about the early feud, but I speak for myself so it is not relevant. I don't think Cato got a fair shake just because he was Canadian and he knew nothing about the earlier feud but some of the inhabitants of this site are close to psychotic and were drooling at the prospect of a new victim.

To sum up: I will not initiate an insult but if you think I will ignore one you have another think coming.

O.K., look! This is something that we should give some grown-up thought to......
Al Quada has a list of countries to be targetted. There are ten countries on the list. Among the targets is the U.S.A., and Canada.
These characters are suicidal maniacs, but also they have a bit of idiotic cleverness.
Don't you think it is possible that they would use every means available to sow dissension among us, their enemies?
Don't you think they want us to argue and fight among ourselves?
What better way to weaken your enemy then to get your various enemies to fight and hate each other?

Maybe we have a couple guys on this list working for Al Quada or other Muslim extremists, trying to drive a wedge between Americans and Canadians?
They do have access to the internet, just as we do. Just a thought.

So, history begins and ends with you.

I had no idea you were so significant.

You may consider me properly awed.

It's not often that I find someone so determined to perpetuate a Nice going.

Radio HC comes in very good on 6180 in the evenings on the West Coast but I have noticed that the transmissions have been cutting off and on all last week.

Yeah, I don't mind the not being able to hear all the time, I kinda like that, it's just hard to listen with it randomly blasting sometimes, because I have to be careful in my area with noise.

It's lonely being pro-American in Canada -- and sometimes at a dinner party, after a good ration of wine, slightly dangerous.

But why should it be so?

The friendliest city I've ever walked in -- and I've visited scores on five continents -- is New York. The most pristine beach I've ever stood on is in Florida. The best food I've ever eaten -- sorry Italy, France! -- is in California's Sonoma Valley.

Still, you won't hear many people admit that.

No, we love to hate America -- and Americans.

We sniff that our medical system is superior to theirs, then sneak down to their world-class clinics when we fall sick.

We call ourselves peacemakers and Americans warmongers -- but do the math on peacekeeping assignments and the United States comes out ahead. It picks up 26 per cent of the annual $5 billion budget for UN Peacekeeping, and despite the fact it's slightly distracted by the war in Iraq, it currently has twice as many UN peacekeepers in the field as Canada.

Meanwhile, we sniff our disdain for Hollywood movies, though we attend them in droves (as we should, they make some of the best) -- while completely ignoring our own.

And as author, journalist and Carleton University professor Andrew Cohen points out in his intelligently argued and entertaining new book, The Unfinished Canadian (McClelland & Stewart, $29.99), which delivers both amusing and incredible insight into the Canadian psyche, we're not afraid to attack Americans -- not only when we're wrong, but when we know we're wrong.

Consider former Prime Minister Paul Martin's 2005 election campaign "chiding" of the US over its commitment to the Kyoto accord.

"The United States lacked 'a global conscience' for reneging on its obligations under Kyoto," he said, though America's emissions have risen 13 per cent since 1990 while ours are up 24 per cent.

"Rebuking the Americans on Kyoto -- fully aware that Canada's record was even worse than America's -- was trafficking in hyperbole and hypocrisy," Cohen notes. So why do it? Anti-Americanism wins votes.

And we think their politicians are pathetic?

How about our snobbery that we're multiculturalists and bilingual ("Quoi?" dit le Quebec!) -- and they're not. Consider, Cohen asks, that of the 41 million Hispanics in the United States, 31 million speak Spanish at home, and that automatic tellers in major cities provide instructions in Spanish and English, as ours do in English and French. Or that "in 1973, 78 per cent of students in public schools were white, and 22 per cent were minorities while in 2004, 57 per cent were white and 43 per cent were minorities." Or how about this: A 2005 Ipsos-Reid poll reported: "When asked whether people from diverse backgrounds would be better off if they became more like the majority, 44 per cent of Canadians said yes in contrast to 38 per cent of Americans."

"Is this a melting pot?" Cohen asks rhetorically. Say no more.

Here's another: They're fat and we're fit! Ahem. Cohen reports half of Americans are fat, while a third of Canadians are. And, alarmingly, he says: "The rate of growth in obesity is about the same on both sides of the border." And I've interviewed Canadian obesity experts who say our adult obesity rate is already at the halfway mark, and that 37 per cent of our children are also overweight. So who's calling whom fat?

While myth bashing quickly gets the point across, Cohen's chapter on the American Canadian (the others he analyzes are the Hybrid, Observed, Unconscious, Casual, Capital, Chameleon and Future Canadians) also makes a strong analytical case that suggests our values are converging with those of Americans.

In the end, the American-Canadian "watches American movies and television, wears American jeans, listens to American music, reads American books and magazines.

"He drinks coffee at Starbucks, eats hamburgers at McDonald's and ice cream at Ben and Jerry's," Cohen notes. "He aspires to the American Dream, whether it is represented by minivan or an SUV, and the greatest obstacle to achieving it isn't desire but money."

Oh yeah, they're better at creating wealth -- which they use to feed the world, promote democracy and human rights, and defend the free world -- than we are. Now there's a difference we can be proud of.

In short, Cohen points out: "If Canadians were really anti-American, we would have to denounce ourselves, or everything about our country and our place in it."

So how does he define us? "We are contradictory, inconsistent and, yes, occasionally hypocritical."

In short, we're not so different from Americans as we may like to believe. And those of us who value the freedoms that attract refugees and immigrants the world over think that's a good thing.

Vive l'Amerique libre!

Thankyou Eric, for a fine post. Yes, there are actually a lot of Canadians who do not hate the States. We have spent a good part of our lives in the States, either living part of the year there, or travelling, or visiting American relatives. We know something about the States and American people that America hating Canadians don't.
Maybe we have some sort of an understanding of the States, we have studied their history, we spend time with American citizens, and get to know them.
And we also know something of Canada and Canada's history, and how the two countries compare in reality, and how they have gotten along together over the years.
I don't know all the reasons. But I do know that I love both the United States, and Canada. I have loved them both since I was a child, and I am now fifty-five. So that love will never change for this Canadian. It is just a few ignorant jerks in each country that try to drive a wedge between us, and try to create hate. I am not sure what we can do about them.

THE WIT AND WISDOM OF THE USA VS CANADA REC RAD POSTS

I have selected comments from this thread. Can you identify the author?
The list of usual suspects. M II, Telemon, RHF, Maus, Cuhulin, DxAce, Cato, Beerbar, Tootles, VE3, miki.

(1) I don't spend my time meddling in the affairs of another country....I'm 47 and will be returning for my third trip (tour of duty) soon.

(2) The rest of the world should damn well fear us Americans

(3) If you really understood economics you'd shut your pie hole.

(4) It's a mean world out there-and-the big boys play the game of hardball with the heads of the meek.

(5) If you are expecting any kind of factual rebuttal from the name-callers, please don't hold your breath.

(6) My only hope is that most Americans do not forget the principles on which their country was founded.

(7) DxAce is a prime example. A real stupid idiotic jerk and he keeps proving it every time he opens his mouth.

(8) Youre a real stupid idiotic Canuck.

(9) Stop whining, pay attention, run along, and get a cb radio.

(10) Other than a pile of empty bottles, you have absolutely nothing going for you yet you are extremely impolite.

(11) Would you please stop the USA vs Canada crap posts.

(12) I am not a redneck.

(13) HOOHOOHOOHAWHAW....erk...koff...koff

The answers will be posted in a day or two. In reviewing the thread, I was impressed by the effort many had put into composing something useful. May their tribe increase.

It should only last about 5-10 minutes.

I'm in Ohio. Up until last weekend, reception was pretty good, then it just went downhill. Right now it's a little better, but nothing to speak of. Usually during the day, (afternoon), 19 Meters is very active, and now even that's dead, but, for some reason, 16 Meters is pretty active. I'll crank a few receivers up later today and see what's going on.
I ordered a new Kaito 1107 Analog Receiver that will be delivered sometime today, so I'll get a chance to see what it can do under the current conditions.
But the problem is not in the Sony. I own a 7600GR, while it's not my favorite portable, it is very good.

It could also be a poor (resistive) connection in the wires/traces supplying the power. I would try resoldering the power jack, first thing.

The frequent problems you find when fixing stuff are simple.
First the connectors, then capacitors, and then you get to the more esoteric problems. (After you make sure the batteries are good ;-))

Does anybody in range of WTVN 610 Columbus Ohio hear splatter from WTVN 30 kHz to each side? _I'm not talking about the IBOC hash,_ which is there as it's supposed to be, but unclipped regular AM audio way outside the station's band.

Try tuning to WHLO 640 Akron, if you can get a solid signal, and listen for splatter that coincides particularly well with a male voice on WTVN. (It's not recognizeable as voice, it sounds more like a power line insulator arcing, but it corresponds exactly with the audio on WTVN.)

If I null away WTVN it goes away.

I imagine the test only makes sense if WTVN is strong for you and WHLO is relatively weak, but not so weak that there's noise hiss over it.

It's a good thought as we have had some suspected paid agents posting on the site, but I am inclined to think that the current denizens of ths site are what they seem. However, the results are much the same: dissention and argument.

This sounds to me like a paid propaganda piece for the North American Union crowd. They have stated that they are going to achieve their goal of Mexico-USA-Canada union by stealth as the populations are against the idea. If we start seeing articles on how swell it is to visit Mexico, look for media whores.

You're right about the Niagara River not being a river. I always thought it a bit funny that everyone calls it a river ever since public school geography. I live right near the Niagara River too.
But we aren't going to be able to get everyone to start calling it the Niagara Strait.
Any idea who it was that started calling it a river?

I ordered one from "Radios4You" last week, it arrived today. It's not bad, not bad at all. I hooked up the Kaito Window Loop antenna to it, and the receive is stong and sensitive. I'll be able to tell more about it tonight.

I still like a small analog radio and just going slowly up and down the bands.
I have the Tecsun R-9700DX and the old Radio Shack DX-397. The 397 is sensitive but not accurate at all, but the 9700 DX is very accurate for a radio in that price range. I like the layout of the 1107. Tuning and band selector are on the side, but the volume is on the front, with the controls for the light, clock, a 3 position sensitivity switch, and the tone control. Nice little radio, for a very good price. Looks like fun to me.

The Red River flows north from Minnesota to Manitoba.

By Yusuf Estes

Many people ask me how a preacher or priest in Christianity can ever go to Islam, especially considering all the negative things that we hear about Islam and Muslims everyday. Some people are simply curious, while others take a profound exception to my "conversion" to Islam. Some have asked how I could have turned my back on Jesus, or if I truly understood the Holy Ghost and some even questioned whether or not I considered myself as "born again" or had ever really been saved at all. These are good questions to which I will offer answers to at the end of this writing. I would like to thank everyone for their interest and offer my humble story, God Willing.
One very nice Christian gentleman asked me in email why and how I left Christianity for Islam. This is more or less a copy of the letter I sent to him.
Introduction
My name is Yusuf Estes now, but in years past my friends used to call me Skip. I have preached Christianity and worked in the entertainment and music industry since I was a boy in the 1950's. My father and I have established music stores, TV and radio programs and outdoor entertainment for fun (and profit). I was a music minister and even used a pony ride and entertained the children as "Skippy the Clown."

Once, I have served as Delegate to the United Nations Peace Conference for Religious Leaders. Now I am a retired former Muslim Chaplain for United States Bureau of Prisons, Washington, DC. and I join alongside many American Muslims, working with Muslim student and youth organizations as well as schools for Muslim children. As such, I travel around the entire world lecturing and sharing the message of the Christ of the Quran in Islam. We hold dialogs and discussion groups with all faiths and enjoy the opportunity to work alongside rabbis, ministers, preachers and priests everywhere. Some of our work is in the institutional area, military, universities and prisons. Primarily our goal is to educate and communicate the correct message of Islam and who the Muslims really are. Although Islam has grown now to nearly tie Christianity as the largest of religions on earth, we see many of those who claim Islam as Muslims, that do not correctly understand nor properly represent the message of "Peace, Surrender and Obedience to God" [Arabic = 'Islam']

Dear me, I am afraid that I got a bit ahead of myself. I was trying to give a bit of background of our work perhaps to see if it would in anyway benefit those who may being going through what I experienced while trying to resolve some of the issues of Christianity.

How It Happened
This may seem quite strange, while we perhaps may share a few different perspectives and concepts of God, Jesus, prophethood, sin and salvation. But you see, at one time I was in the same boat as many folks are today. Really, I was. Let me explain.

Born A Strong Christian
I was born into a very strong Christian family in the Midwest. Our family and their ancestors not only built the churches and schools across this land, but actually were the same ones who came here in the first place. While I was still in elementary we relocated in Houston, Texas in 1949 (I'm old). We attended church regularly and I was baptized at the age of 12 in Pasadena, Texas. As a teenager, I wanted to visit other churches to learn more of their teachings and beliefs. The Baptists, Methodists, Episcopalians, Charismatic movements, Nazarene, Church of Christ, Church of God, Church of God in Christ, Full Gospel, Agape, Catholic, Presbyterian and many more. I developed quite a thirst for the "Gospel" or as we say; "Good News." My research into religion did not stop with Christianity. Not at all. Hinduism, Judaism, Buddhism, Metaphysics, native American beliefs were all a part of my studies. Just about the only one that I did not look into seriously was "Islam". Why? Good question.

Music Minister
Anyway, I became very interested in different types of music, especially Gospel and Classical. Because my whole family was religious and musical it followed that I too would begin my studies in both areas. All this set me for the logical position of Music Minister in many of the churches that I became affiliated with over the years. I started teaching keyboard instruments in 1960 and by 1963 owned my own studios in Laurel, Maryland, called "Estes Music Studios."

Business Projects In Texas, Oklahoma and Florida
Over the next 30 years my father and I worked together in many business projects. We had entertainment programs, shows and attractions. We opened piano and organ stores all the way from Texas and Oklahoma to Florida. We had earned millions of dollars during those years, but could not find the peace of mind that can only come through knowing the truth and finding the real plan of salvation. I'm sure you have asked yourself the question; "Why did God create me?" or "What is it that God wants me to do?" or "Exactly who is God, anyway?" "Why do we believe in 'original sin?" and "Why would the sons of Adam be forced to accept his 'sins' and then as a result be punished forever." But if you asked anyone these questions, they would probably tell you that you have to believe without asking, or that it is a 'mystery' and you shouldn't ask - "Just have faith, brother."

Trinity Concept
Strangely enough, the word "Trinity" is not in the Bible. And it has been a concern for religious scholars as early as 200 years after Jesus was raised up by Almighty God. I would ask preachers or ministers to give me some sort of an idea how 'one' could figure out to become 'three' or how God Himself, Who can do anything He Wills to do, cannot just forgive people's sins, but rather and had to become a man, come down on earth, be a human, and then take on the sins of all people; keeping in mind that all along He is still God of the whole universe and does as He Wills to do, both in and outside of the universe as we know it. They never seemed to be able to come up with anything other than opinions or strange analogies.

Father - Ordained Non-Denominational Minister
My father was very active in supporting church work, especially church school programs. He became and ordained minister in the 1970s. He and his wife (my stepmother) knew many of the TV evangelists and preachers and even visited Oral Roberts and helped in the building of the "Prayer Tower" in Tulsa, OK. They also were strong supporters of Jimmy Swaggart, Jim and Tammy Fae Bakker, Jerry Fallwell, John Haggi and the biggest enemy to Islam in America, Pat Robertson.

Distributing "Praise" Tapes for Jesus
During the early 1980's my Dad and his wife worked together and were most active in recording "Praise" tapes and distributing them for free to people in retirement homes, hospitals and homes for the elderly. We were really "winning souls to the Lord - for Jesus" day after day.

Met A Man From Egypt
It was early in 1991 when my father began doing business with a man from Egypt and told me that he wanted me to meet him. This idea appealed to me when I thought about the idea of having an international flavor. You know, the pyramids, sphinx, Nile River and all that.

He Was A "Moslem"

Hijackers; Kidnappers; Bombers, Terrorists - and who knows what else?
Then my father mentioned that this man was a 'Moslem.' First, I hated the idea of meeting an "infidel, hijacker, kidnapper, bomber, terrorist, non-believer." Any normal person would be repulsed at the idea. I couldn't believe my ears. A 'Moslem?' No way! I reminded my dad of the various different things that we had heard about these people.
Lies Against Muslims & Islam - They Told Us, Muslims:

They don't even believe in God
They worship a black box in the desert.
And They kiss the ground five times a day.
No Way! I Did Not Want to Meet Him!
I did not want to meet this 'Moslem' man. No way! My father insisted that I meet him and reassured me that he was a very nice person. This was too much for me. Especially since the evangelists that we used to travel around with all hated Muslims and Islam very much. They even said things that were not true to make people afraid of Islam. So, why would I want anything to do with these people?

Idea - "Change Him To Christian"
Then an idea came to me, "We can change this man to Christian." So, I gave in and agreed to the meeting. But on my terms.

Met Him With A Bible, Cross and Cap with "Jesus Is Lord!" on it.
I agreed to meet him on a Sunday after church so we would be all prayed up and in good standing with the Lord. I would be carrying my Bible under my arm as usual. I would have my big shiny cross dangling and I would have on my cap which says: "Jesus is Lord" right across the front. My wife and two young daughters came along and we were ready for our first encounter with the 'Moslems.'

Where Is He?
When I came into the shop and asked my father where the 'Moslem' was, he pointed and said: "He's right over there."
I was confused. That couldn't be the Moslem. No way.

Turban & Beard?
I'm looking for a huge man with flowing robes, a big turban on his head, a beard half way down his shirt and eyebrows that go all the way across his forehead with a sword or a bomb under his coat.

No Turban - No Beard - [No Hair at All!]
This man had no beard. In fact, he didn't even have any hair on his head at all. He was nearly bald. Best of all, he was very pleasant with a warm welcome and handshake. This didn't make sense. I thought they are terrorists and bombers. What is this all about?

He Needs Jesus
Never mind. I'll get right to work on this guy. He needs to be 'saved' in the 'Name of Jesus' and me and the Lord are going to do it.

Introduction & Interrogation
After a quick introduction, I asked him: "Do you believe in God?"
He said: "Yes." - (Good!)

Then I said: "Do you believe in Adam and Eve?"
He said: "Yes." - (Very Good!)

I said: "What about Abraham? You believe in him and how he tried to sacrifice his son for God?"
He said: "Yes." - (Even better!)

Then I asked: "What about Moses?" "Ten Commandments?" "Parting the Red Sea?"
Again he said: "Yes." - (Better still!)

Then: "What about the other prophets, David, Solomon and John the Baptist?"
He said: "Yes." - (Great!)

I asked: "Do you believe in the Bible?"
Again, he said: "Yes." - (OK!)

So, now it was time for the big question:
"Do you believe in Jesus? That he was the Messiah (Christ) of God?" Again the said: "Yes." - (Fantastic!)

Well now - "This was going to be easier than I had thought."
He was just about ready to be baptized only he didn't know it.
And I was just the one to do it, too.

Shocking Knowledge - Muslims Believe in the Bible?
One day in the Spring of 1991, I came to know that the Muslims believed in the Bible. I was shocked. How could this be? But that's not all, they believe in Jesus as:

* A true messenger of God;
* Prophet of God;
* Miracle birth without human intervention;
* He was the 'Christ' or Messiah as predicted in the Bible;
* He is with God now and most important;
* He will be coming back in the Last Days to lead the believers against the 'Antichrist.'

After "winning souls to the Lord for Jesus" day after day, this would be a big achievement for me, to catch one of these 'Moslems' and 'convert' him to Christianity.

Cup of Tea - Discuss Beliefs
I asked him if he liked tea and he said he did. So off we went to a little shop in the mall to sit and talk about my favorite subject: Beliefs. While we sat in that little coffee shop for hours talking (I did most of the talking) I came to know that he was very nice, quiet and even a bit shy. He listened attentively to every word that I had to say and did not interrupt even one time. I liked this man's way and thought that he had definite potential to become a good Christian. - Little did I know the course of events about to unravel in front of my eyes.

Agreed to Do Business
First of all, I agreed with my father that we should do business with this man and even encouraged the idea of him traveling along with me on my business trips across the northern part of Texas. Day after day we would ride together and discuss various issues pertaining to different beliefs that people have. And along the way, I could of course interject some of my favorite radio programs of worship and praise to help bring the message to this poor individual. We talked about the concept of God; the meaning of life; the purpose of creation; the prophets and their mission and how God reveals His Will to mankind. We also shared a lot of personal experiences and ideas as well.

Moved to Our Home
One day I came to know that my friend Mohamed was going to move out of the home he have been sharing with a friend of his and was going to be living in the mosque for a time. I went to my dad and asked him if we could invite Mohamed to come out to our big home in the country and stay there with us. After all, he could share some of the work and some expenses and he would be right there when we were ready to go to out traveling around. My father agreed and Mohamed moved in.

Continued Ministry & Preaching
Of course I still would find time to visit my fellow preachers and evangelists around the state of Texas. One of them lived on the Texas -- Mexico border and another lived near lived Oklahoma border. One preacher liked to a huge wooden cross that was bigger than a car. He would carry it over his shoulder and drag the bottom on the ground and go down the road or freeway hauling these two beams formed in the shape of a cross. People would stop their cars and come over to him and ask him what was going on and he would give them pamphlets and booklets on Christianity.

Preacher Has Heart Attack
One day my friend with the cross had a heart attack and had to go to the Veterans Hospital where he stayed for quite a long while. I used to visit him in the hospital several times a week and I would take Mohamed with me with the hopes that we could all share together in the subject of beliefs and religions. My friend was not very impressed and it was obvious that he did not want to know anything about Islam. Then one day a man who was sharing the room with my friend came rolling into the room in his wheelchair. I went to him and asked him his name and he said that it didn't matter and when I asked him where he was from he said he was from the planet Jupiter. I thought about what he said and then began to wonder if I was in the cardiac ward or the mental ward.

Man in Wheelchair - Needed the Lord
I knew the man was lonely and depressed and needed someone in his life. So, I began to 'witness' to him about the Lord. I read to him out of the book of Jonah in the Old Testament. I shared the story of the prophet Jonah who had been sent by the Lord to call his people to the correct way. Jonah had left his people and escaped by boat to leave his city and head out to sea. A storm came up and the ship almost capsized and the people on board threw Jonah over the side of the ship. A whale came up to the surface and grabbed Jonah, swallowed him and then went down to the bottom of the sea, where he stayed for 3 days and 3 nights. Yet because of God's Mercy, He caused the whale to rise to the surface and then spit Jonah out to return back home safely to his city of Nineveh. And the idea was that we can't really run away from our problems because we always know what we have done. And what is more, God also always knows what we have done.

Catholic Priest
After sharing this story with the man in the wheel chair, he looked up and me and apologized. He told me he was sorry for his rude behavior and that he had experienced some real serious problems recently. Then he said that he wanted to confess something to me. And I said that I was not a Catholic priest and I don't handle confessions. He replied back to me that he knew that. In fact, he said: "I am a Catholic priest."

I was shocked. Here I had been trying to preach Christianity to a priest. What in the world was happening here?

Priest in Latin America
The priest began to share his story of being a missionary for the church for over 12 years to south and Central America and Mexico and even in New York's 'Hell's Kitchen.' When he was released from the hospital he needed a place to go to recover and rather than let him go to stay with a Catholic family, I told my dad that we should invite him to come out and live with us in the country along with our families and Mohamed. It was agreed by all that he would so, he moved out right away.

Priests Must Study ISLAM? - YES!
During the trip out to our home, I talked with the priest about some of the concepts of beliefs in Islam and to my surprise he agreed and then shared even more about this with me. I was shocked when he told me that Catholic priests actually study Islam and some even carry doctors degrees in this subject. This was all very enlightening to me. But there was still a lot more to come.

Different Versions of the Bible
After settling in, we all began to gather around the kitchen table after dinner every night to discuss religion. My father would bring his King James Version of the Bible, I would bring out my Revised Standard Version of the Bible, my wife had another version of the Bible (maybe something like Jimmy Swaggart's 'Good News For Modern Man." The priest of course, had the Catholic Bible which has 7 more books in it that the Protestant Bible. So we spent more time talking about which Bible was the right one or the most correct one, than we did trying to convince Mohamed about becoming a Christian.

Quran Has Only ONE Version - In Arabic - And Still Exists
At one point I recall asking him about the Quran and how many versions of it there were in the last 1,400 years. He told me that there was only ONE QURAN. And that it had never been changed. Yet he let me know that the Quran had been memorized by hundreds of thousands of people, in it's entirety and were scattered about the earth in many different countries. Over the centuries since the Quran was revealed millions have memorized it completely and have taught it to others who have memorized it completely, from cover to cover, letter perfect without mistakes. Today, over 9 million Muslims have memorized the entire Quran from cover to cover.

How Could This Be?
This did not seem possible to me. After all, the original languages of the Bible have all been dead languages for centuries and the documents themselves have been lost in their originals for hundreds and thousands of years. So, how could it be that something like this could be so easy to preserve and to recite from cover to cover.

Priest Goes to the Mosque
Anyway, one day the priest asked the Mohamed if he might accompany him to the mosque to see what it was like there. They came back talking about their experience there and we could not wait to ask the priest what it was like and what all types of ceremonies they performed. He said they didn't really 'do' anything. They just came and prayed and left. I said: "They left? Without any speeches or singing?" He said that was right.

Priest Enters Islam!
A few more days went by and the Catholic priest asked Mohamed if he might join him again for a trip to the mosque which they did. But this time it was different. They did not come back for a very long time. It became dark and we worried that something might have happened to them. Finally they arrived and when they came in the door I immediately recognized Mohamed, but who was this alongside of him? Someone wearing a white robe and a white cap. Hold on a minute! It was the priest. I said to him: "Pete? -- Did you become a 'Moslem?'
He said that he had entered into Islam that very day. THE PRIEST BECAME A MUSLIM!! What next? (You'll see).

My Wife Announces Her Islam!
So, I went upstairs to think things over a bit and began to talk to my wife about the whole subject. She then told me that she too was going to enter into Islam, because she knew it was the truth.

Shocked!
I was really shocked now. I went downstairs and woke up Mohamed and asked him to come outside with me for a discussion. We walked and talked that whole night through.

Truth Had Come!
By the time he was ready to pray Fajr (the morning prayer of the Muslims) I knew that the truth had come at last and now it was up to me to do my part. I went out back behind my father's house and found an old piece of plywood lying under an overhang and right there I put my head down on the ground facing the direction that the Muslims pray five times a day.

Guide Me! O God! Guide Me!
Now then in that position, with my body stretched out on the plywood and my head on the ground, I asked: "O God. If you are there, guide me, guide me."

Sign Inside of Me
And then after a while I raised up my head and I noticed something. No, I didn't see birds or angels coming out of the sky nor did I hear voices or music, nor did I see bright lights and flashes. What I did notice was a change inside of me. I was aware now more than ever before that it was time for me to stop any lying and doing anything sneaky. It was time that I really work at being an honest and upright man. I knew now what I had to do.

Wash Away the "OLD"
So I went upstairs and took a shower with the distinct idea that I was 'washing' away the sinful old person that I had become over the years. And I was now coming into a new, fresh life. A life based on truth and proof.

- And Become New!
Around 11:00 A.M. that morning, I stood before two witnesses, one the ex-priest, formerly known as Father Peter Jacob's, and the other Mohamed Abel Rehman and announced my 'shahadah' (open testimony to the Oneness of God and the prophethood of Muhammad, peace be upon him).

"I bear witness, there is no deity to worship, except Almighty Allah, alone and He has no partners and I bear witness that Mohammad is His messenger and servant."

My Wife Was Next
A few minutes later, my wife follow along and gave the same testimony. But hers was in front of 3 witnesses (me being the third).

Then My Father
My father was a bit more reserved on the subject and waited a few more months before he made his shahadah (public testimony). But he did finally commit to Islam and began offering prayers right along with me and the other Muslims in the local masjid (mosque).

Children Too!
The children were taken out of the Christian school and placed in Muslim schools. And now ten years later, they are memorizing much of the Quran and the teachings of Islam.

Father's Wife (Stepmother) Next
My father's wife finally acknowledged, before she died, that Jesus could not be a son of God and that he must have been a mighty prophet of God, but not God. She passed away within a few months of this statement at age 86. May Allah accept her statement of faith, ameen.

Houseful of New Muslims - What's Next?
Now stop and think. A whole entire household of people from varying backgrounds and ethnic groups coming together in truth to learn how to know and worship the Creator and Sustainer of the Universe. Think. A Catholic priest; a minister of music and preacher of the Gospel; an ordained minister and builder of Christian schools; and the children, even a great-grandmother - they all come into Islam!

His Mercy and Guidance
Only by His Mercy were we all guided to see the real truth of Islam, by removing the coverings over our ears and the blinders on our eyes, no longer having seals over our hearts - He was Guiding us now.

Amazing Story - Family and Friends Entering Islam - From One Man
If I were to stop right here, I'm sure that you would have to admit that at least, this is an amazing story, right? After all, three religious leaders of three separate denominations all going into one very opposite belief at the same time and then soon after the rest of the household.

More? - Yes! Baptist Seminary Student Reads Quran - Accepts Islam
But that is not all. There is more! The same year, while I was in Grand Prairie, Texas (near Dallas) I met a Baptist seminary student from Tennessee named Joe, who also came to Islam after reading the Holy Quran while in BAPTIST SEMINARY COLLEGE!

More? Yes. Catholic Priest Loves Islam - But Needs His Job!
There are others as well. I recall the case of the Catholic priest in a college town who talked about the good things in Islam so much that I was forced to ask him why he didn't enter Islam. He replied: "What? And loose my job?" - His name is Father John and we still pray for Allah to Guide Him.

Another Catholic Priest Makes Shahadah
The very next year I met a former Catholic priest who had been a missionary for 8 years in Africa. He learned about Islam while he was there and entered into Islam. He then changed his name to Omar and moved to Dallas Texas.

Any more? Again - Yes! Orthodox Arch Bishop leaves church for Islam
Two years later, while in San Antonio, Texas I was introduced to a former Arch Bishop of the Orthodox Church of Russia who learned about Islam and gave up his position to enter Islam.

Daughter of Hindu Pundit (Religious Leader) - Accepts Islam - Helping thousands to Islam
I met a woman in New York who wanted to make our CDs about "What Is Islam?" After giving her permission several years ago, I have learned she has produced and distributed over 600 thousand of these to the non-Muslims in America. May Allah reward her and keep her strong in her efforts, ameen.

Hundreds - Thousands - Still Coming
And since my own entrance into Islam and becoming a chaplain to the Muslims throughout the country and around the world, I have encountered many more individuals who were leaders, teachers and scholars in other religions who learned about Islam and entered into it. They came from Hindus, Jews, Catholics, Protestants, Jehovah's Witnesses, Greek and Russian Orthodox, Coptic Christians from Egypt, non-denominational churches and even scientists who had been atheists.

Why? Good question.
The combination always seems to be the same; people are sincerely seeking the truth and are willing to put their different prejudices and biases out of their minds and begin to ask God for His Guidance in their lives.

So, now you have the introduction to the story of my coming into Islam and becoming Muslim. There is more on the Internet about this story and there are more pictures there as well. Please take the time to visit it and then please take the time to email me and let us come together to share in all truths based on proofs for understanding our origins and our purpose and goals in this life and the Next Life.

9 Steps to Purify the Heart
May I suggest to the seeker of truth do the following NINE STEPS to purification of the heart?

Clean - your mind, your heart & soul - remove all prejudices & biases.
Thank God - for what you have - every moment of every day.
Read - a good translation of the meaning of the Holy Quran in a language that they can understand best. (http://islamtomorrow.com/downloads/noblequran.exe)
Reflect on the meanings & consider the bounties of your Lord.
Seek - Forgiveness From God & Learn to Forgive others.
Ask - in your heart for Guidance from Above.
Open - your heart and mind.
Continue - to do this up for a few months. And be regular in it.
Avoid - the poison of evil while your heart is opening for the "rebirth of your soul."
Remember: Clean; Thank; Read; Reflect - then: "Seek, and ye shall find. Ask, and it shall be given thee. Knock, and it shall be opened."
Then: Continue & Avoid

The rest is between you and the Almighty Lord of the Universe. If you truly love Him, then He already Knows it and He will deal with each of us according to our hearts.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Now as I promised here are the answers to the questions many have asked me connected with my choice of Islam:

1. "How could you have turned your back on the perfect plan of salvation of Jesus Christ on the cross for you sins?"

Answer: Your question implies you have not considered the similarities and teachings of the Bible and the Quran.

"ISLAM" means - "Surrender, submit and obey your Lord in sincerity and peace." Whoever is trying to do this, is a "MUSLIM." If someone believes in Almighty God as One God and One Lord and wants to commit their life to serving Him and obeying His Commandments, then that person will be in the right way and they will be "saved" according to God's Mercy. No one can take the sins of another and the guilty must stand accused for what they have done. It will be up to Almighty God to Forgive or Punish according to His Judgment on that Day.

According to the remains of the translations of the Bible [see: "Bible, A Closer Look"] Jesus, peace be upon him, did not preach a message of salvation by worshipping him. This was something added later by Saul (who later became Paul). We find clear statements indicating salvation would come only through acknowledging Almighty God as One God and worshipping Him with all the heart, mind and strength. Jesus, peace be upon him, taught his followers to worship "My God and your God, My Lord and your Lord."

Again, according to the remains of the English translation of the Bible, we see the one on the cross crying out a very blasphemous statement, "Eli! Eli! Lama sabachthani?" (Which being translated means, "My God! My God! Why have you forsaken me?") This statement on the cross clearly indicates the one on the cross is not pleased with the situation nor does he consider it right or just. Therefore, one would have to conclude this was not something Jesus approved of nor did he accept, or else someone else was on the cross in his place. Either way you look at it, the one on the cross did not accept this as a plan of salvation.

The Quran is absolutely in agreement with these teachings and Muslims do worship the same God and Lord of Jesus, Moses, Abraham and Adam, peace be upon them all. The Quran states in many places, no one will be taken to task for the sins of another, nor can anyone carry the burden of another. We will all be on our own on that Day. And I ask Allah to have Mercy and Forgiveness for all those who believe in Him, ameen.

I consider that I have not left the teachings of Jesus Christ, peace be upon him. On the contrary, I feel much closer to Jesus, peace be upon him, and I look forward to His return on earth more than ever before. Now I am worshipping the same God he worships and I serve the same Lord he serves, in the very same way he does. Jesus prayed to Almighty God and taught his followers to do the same. I am simply doing what he commanded to the best of my ability and ask Almighty God to accept it.

2. "Do you consider you were really "saved" and that you had in fact, been "born again?"

Answer: The Baptists have a statement, "Once saved, always saved." I asked one of them about this and he agreed it was true. Then I mentioned at one time I had become a Baptist (in my teen years) but now I was a Muslim. I had also been "saved" and baptized at the age of 12. I had accepted the very statement of Jesus being the way, the light and the truth and no man coming on to the Father except by him. I understood these statements to mean I must follow Jesus and his teachings. Therefore, I read the Bible for myself and did not let others tell me what to think about what I was reading.

The Bible states that Jesus prayed for salvation for himself in the garden of Gethsemane in this way, "Let this cup pass from me, even so, Thy Will be done." This prayer was repeated by Jesus, peace be upon him, a number of times and it is mentioned in more than one Gospel. Yet, according to Biblical accounts, the cup did not pass from him and his prayers were NOT ANSWERED. Islam teaches us his prayers were answered and he did not have to endure the cruel treatment and death on the cross, but rather he was taken up while still alive and is with Almighty God even now and ready to return in the Last Days to bring victory to the believers.

Additionally, we find Jesus, peace be upon him, teaching his disciples to pray like this, "Our Father in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy Will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from all evil. For Thine is the Kingdom and the Power and Glory, forever and ever, ameen." Every Muslim I have met accepts every single word of this pray with the exception of calling "Allah" our "Father." Muslims consider it better to call on Almighty God by His Names, which we do consider to be "Hallowed."

3. "How did your family respond to your conversion?"

Answer: This is always difficult for families to adjust to and it usually takes time. My family was no exception. Although my wife, children entered into Islam and eventually my father came to declare Islam to be the way of salvation for himself, still my own mother and many others in my family resented our going to Islam at first. Eventually, things became more normalized and we do stay in touch, although they are all still very much involved in Christianity.

Allah promises to test those who declare their faith in Him with many types of difficulties and family is one of those mentioned as a test in the Quran. I do pray for them and ask Allah to guide them to the very best in this life and the very best in the Next Life. But it is up to Allah if He wants them to be in Submission to Him (Islam means, submission to Allah) or not.

4. "How about your congregation? What did they say?"

Answer: I never had my own church. I was a music minister in the Church of God (Anderson, Indiana branch) in Texas and did my preaching to businessmen and informal gatherings. Those who knew me for the most part did not object and some even came to Islam, but there were a few who felt very upset and accused me of "Turing my back on Jesus, peace be upon him." No matter what I tried to say or do, these particular individuals would not listen nor did they want to learn anything about Islam.

5. "Did you experience a lot of difficulties in changing religions?"

Answer: Certainly anyone who wants to consider Islam in these times, just as in times gone by, will have to recognize there will be certain difficulties and tests along the way. The followers of Jesus, peace be upon him, were highly criticized and persecuted even until death (read what Paul said he used to do to them in the Bible; Book of Acts of the Apostles). Those who followed Muhammad, peace be upon him, suffered at the hands of their very own tribes, yet they were determined to continue to worship Almighty God Alone, without partners and submit to His Will.

The biggest problem with non-Muslims, is their lack of understanding and lack of knowledge as to what Islam is really all about and who the Muslims are supposed to be. I pray for them all and ask Allah to forgive the Muslims for not showing a better picture to everyone.

6. "Who was responsible for converting you?"

Answer: As Muslims we believe that it is only Allah who guides the people and whoever He guides will not be misguided and whomever He lets go astray none will be able to guide them. As such, it means we don't believe anyone really can "convert" someone else.

Also, we accept that all children are born in the natural state of submission to Almighty God and as such that means they are Muslims. Should a child die he or she would go to Heaven as they are not responsible for what they do not understand.

7. "Don't you ever think about coming back to being a Christian?"

Answer: "Christian" indicates a follower of Christ. When Jesus, peace be upon him, returns to earth in the Last Days, all the Muslims will be obliged to follow him. But we would not call ourselves "Christians" anymore than he would. He never called himself or his companions "Christians." The Bible tells us they were never even called "Christians" until Paul was preaching his message in Antioch.

8. "Doesn't it bother you to have left the way of peace, justice and love for a religion of hatred, violence and oppression toward women and others?"

Answer: All the prophets, peace be upon them all, called the people to worship Almighty God as One God and One Lord. As such, those who did not want to submit to Almighty God would combat them and treat them with hostilities, even unto death, as Paul had done while still being a Pharisee. The prophets, peace be upon them all, did encourage their followers to live in peace and deal with people in justice and certainly love is the highest form of emotion a human can have for another human being.

Yet at the same time, believers have to defend themselves, their families and the religion itself, lest those who are not believers should remove belief from the very face of the earth. Islam, like Christianity preaches a message of peace and tolerance - to a point. But when this is no longer possible without totally compromising and loosing one's way of life and belief system, then there is no alternative except to engage in open combat against those who are combating against the believers.

Jesus called upon his followers to sell their coats and buy swords. He explained that he did not come with peace, but rather a sword. He and his companions were engaged in mortal combat with their enemies, the Pharisees when one of the priests slaves had his ear cut by the sword. Jesus then told them to put down their swords. This is mentioned in the Bible.

The word "sword" appears over 200 times in the Bible - but even though the Arabic language has more than a dozen words for sword, there is not a single occurrence of any of these words anywhere in the Quran.

Combat is ordered in the Quran, only under very specific and limited conditions and it is nothing more than what we would today call "The War on Terrorism." Fighting against all acts of organized aggression, oppression, persecution and terrorism is an obligation on all believers. But it certainly has limits and women, children, elderly and any innocents are not to killed or injured during such occasions. Treatment of prisoners is not to be humiliating or torture of any kind. Even the dead of the enemy are to be buried with dignity and respect.

Now since writing my story and publishing here on the internet many other websites have picked up this story and it had become a famous example of how "Priest and Preachers Are Coming to Islam."

Again, I thank you for visiting. And I thank our Christian friend for his email. If he hadn't sent it, I probably would still not have completed this task of putting down the story once and for all of how my family, friends and myself all came to Islam.

Please feel free to share this story with others. You should print it out and make copies for everyone. Give them our links, add our story to your website or blog page, and send out emails to everyone you know. Maybe it could make a difference for others like us, God Willing.

May Allah guide you on your journey to all truth. Ameen. And May He open your heart and your mind to the reality of this world and the purpose of this life, ameen.

Peace to you and Guidance from Allah the One Almighty God, Creator and Sustainer of all that exists.

I received an email from a Japanese newspaper requesting information about Americans coming to Islam. Here is a copy of the email:

Dear Mr. Yusuf Estes:

My name is Takashi Settai. I am a staff writer of Nikkei, a Japanese newspaper, based in New York. I am writing an article about Muslims in America now and I am looking for a Caucasian guy who recently converted from Christian to Muslim. I happened to find your home page on the Internet and became very interested in your personal story. If you are OK to answer my questions about your conversion and call or return an e-mail to me ASAP, I very much appreciate it.

Nikkei is a Japanese newspaper, considered the Wall Street Journal of Japan, that is published twice daily with a nationwide circulation of about 3 million. In addition, we have an international circulation in Japanese and a weekly edition in English. The number of Nikkei offices worldwide stands at 37 bureaus on five continents and employs over 4,000 persons.

Thank you for your help on this matter in advance.

RE: Your email request for more information on former Christians coming to Islam
[email copy below]

Peace be unto all those who follow right guidance.
Greetings Takashi:

Thank you for your kind letter and for your offer of publishing the story of my "converting" from Christianity to Islam.

Before I begin, I must mention that I am leaving on a flight from here (Washington, DC) to Atlanta in 30 minutes to speak at a special event there. You had requested information on how a Christian priest (a Catholic priest friend of ours named Peter Jacobs), a preacher (myself) and a reverend (my father came last) came to Islam. This email will serve as our permission to publish any information published on our website or in this email for your newspaper. You may feel assured that we are most happy to cooperate with you in any way possible.

I could perhaps begin by saying, that I have personally witnessed many "converts" coming into Islam in this country (and Mexico as well). But many people consider my own personal experience to be rather unique in that it was not simple one person changing their religion, but rather an entire household of very religious Christians of three different denominations [Catholic, "Born Again" and Protestant) all "converting" to Islam.

[The reason I choose to put the word "convert" in brackets is because the understanding as taught by the prophet Muhammad, peace be upon him, is that all children are born in a state of "Islam" (surrender, submission and obedience to Almighty God) and it is their parents who raise them up as Jews, Christians, Fire Worshippers. So, Muslims consider it more like returning or "reverting" to Islam.]

But please do not get the wrong idea, although we entered into Islam within a close proximity in time we each individually came to the conclusion that Islam was our own personal choice and it was not an instant decision as a group coming over to Islam.

While we would all agree that there are always going to be a certain number of people who, for whatever reason, will change from one religion to another, we must also quickly agree that it is highly unusual to find a number of priests, preachers, reverends and holy men (and women) from various faith groups, simultaneously entering the same faith around the world.

My own personal story begins on the Texas/Mexican border in December of 1990. I was born a white, Anglo-Saxon Protestant and at that time I was working very actively toward preaching "Born Again" Christianity to anyone and everyone that would listen. I was definitely NOT LOOKING FOR ISLAM. In fact, religious leaders of Christianity and Judaism would have us believe, that Islam is a cult of some kind with the followers worshipping a black box in the desert and kissing the ground five times a day. Additionally, we have been programmed by the media to classify most Muslims as "terrorists," "highjackers" and "kidnappers." So why would anyone even look at Islam???

Good question . . .
All my close friends at that time were either preachers, ministers or very much active and involved in preaching a message of "Saving Grace by blood sacrifice from the Holy Trinity of Jesus."

One preacher I knew used to carry a huge (12' long) cross on his back and walk alongside the highway to attract people to "come to Jesus."

Another preacher used to take me into Mexico and we would preach in the square or market to individuals about the "salvation of Christ." We were even arrested in the night by the Mexican Federal Police and investigated (Mexico is predominantly Catholic and does not encourage other religions).

Ah alas, I feared that I would run out of time before completing this story for you. I must go immediately to the airport now....

Please feel free to write to me and to discuss this subject and other stories of priests and preachers coming to Islam...

Best Regards and May Allah Guide us all in all that is best, Ameen.

If it turns out that cell phone communications are the primary cause of the recent loss (disorientation) of honey bees, some hard decisions will have to be made. Do we want the convenience of mobile communications badly enough to trade it for food?

It appears that the announcement of the cell-phone-honeybee connection may have been premature. Since that time, another researcher has discovered a probable link between the beehive die-offs and more conventional agent of bee destruction, a disease known as nosema, in this case a particularly virulent strain that has not routinely affected bees in developed nations. This is not firm yet, mind you, but this explanation makes more sense at this time.

More as this line of research develops.

Your post does, however raise a question that I have been hunting for because the thoughts are alien to Canadians. It is, pure and simple, the American trait to discriminate which is based on the First Amendment.
Europe, Britain, and Canada all have laws against discrimination.
It is unlawful to discriminate against a person because of race, religion, national origin, etc. It does not even occur to a Canadian that he would be discriminated against because of his national origin.
It's just not done. So that is why Canadians signing on to this website, as they have a perfect right to do, are immediately attacked by a local gang, who, I hasten to add, in no way represent the friendly Americans I am used to.

Well boys, have your fun, because the Hate Speech laws currently going through Congress, and they will pass, will make it Illegal to speak against a person because of his national origin..All it would take is a complaint, backed up by web evidence, to get an ambitious Federal Prosecuting Attorney on your case.
The free-wheeling days of slurs, insults, and name-calling are coming to a close. If I were you, I would weigh my words carefully in future.

If we weren't chasing them around those caves in Afghanistan, they would be chasing you around your neighborhood. Hope you got your AK 47 locked and loaded mr canadian. You really need to get your head out of the sand and realize these guys are gonna kill you just because you're over here. They don't care who you are. You should be GRATEFUL that OUR troops are in Afghanistan keeping them in those caves.

Several years ago, on a road trip through central Missouri and into Arkansas, I brought my 148GTL Sideband along, mostly to get road forecasts. And it paid off...a truck hitting a bridge abutment 45 miles ahead had closed the highway I was on. And at the particular location of the crash, the detour around it would have been more than 50 miles out of my way. I had been chatting with a trucker for about 35 minutes (everything from Music to Politics) when we heard the call, and he took me off the highway, through a rather scenic detour that only added a few miles and about 15 minutes to my trip, chatting and chewing all the way, he in his 18 wheeler and me following in my Caravan.

We split at Hot Springs, but it was one of the most enjoyable conversations I'd had on the road (and on the radio) in some time.

Later that week, I picked up another conversation that lasted for more than 100 miles. And several more 'head's up' notifications about traffic conditions and construction before me on the Arkansas roads.

Now, not everyone gets the same kind of mileage out of a CB radio. Any decent HF radio will get you some pretty hefty crap, right now, if you care to try. But for a short range AM rig, I got quite a lot of useful information, sufficiently far enough out to divert around the problems, and far more entertainment than broadcast radio alone.

Not all truckers are friendly out on the road. And they're not all Jerry Reed from 'Smoky and the Bandit.' But, by far the lion's share of them find more benefit in disseminating useful information and engaging in conversation, than not.

Get a decent converation going, and you'll be surprised at how many will participate.

Your mileage will vary, of course, but if you know how to apply it, a decent CB rig can indeed be a lot of fun.

I would read the proposed bills in the Senate and House of

This is pretty sloppy work. I expected better attention to detail from you. You have listed four points that have been refuted and unanswered, including one of your own. You have to read all the posts, as I did, to get the complete pcture. I would suggest you consider this as a first draft and review your material for a second draft.
If you decide to let this one stand, I will respond in three days.

CANADIAN HATE SPEECH LAW: Coming soon to a DA near you.
For the full summary Google "Canadian Hate Speech Law"
The section of interest (setion 13) is posted below.

Section 13 of the Canadian Human Rights Act prohibis the communicationby means of a telecommunication undertaking (including the internet) of messages that are likely to expose a person to hatred or contempt on the basis of: race
national or ethnic origin colour religion age sex sexual orientation marital status family status disability conviction for which a pardon has been granted.

Of course, the US version may use different wording, but the concepts are the same in Europe and Britain. I haven't checked Australia.
Violations of the act are subject to the Criminal code. In the US they would be felonies. Heavy s..t. Now you may have some kind of death wish and want to take on a Federal prosecutor but I wouldn't want to spend a year scurrying around corners looking out for Bubba.

It has a warble but that seems to just be fading.

Sometimes all that is left of a distant broadcast station is the carrier.

At 02:04 UTC it is gone. Makes me think it was the carrier of a distant broadcast.

Why are attacks and violence at all-time high if the troops are keeping the Taliban hiding in caves? There's more: some of them have found a new home in Pakistan.

I'm in favour of the war against the Taliban and against the war in Iraq but both operations were done in a half-assed manner.

VE3 - So there is NO 'discrimination' in Canada
- - - Wow - That Boggles the Mind ~ RHF Note - I am sure that the First Peoples will be oh so glad to hear that !

VE3 - Your History Lesson for Americans about their very own US Constitution is that the First Amendment 'allows' Americans to Discriminate and it in American's "Nature" to Discriminate.
- - - Oh Mister High and Mighty - That's a Big One ~ RHF

WHAT DOES - The First Amemdment Really Say . . .
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/First_Amendment
- - - The Concept of "Freedom of Speech" in the USofA
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Freedom_of_speech_in_the_United_States Lets see . . . Freedom of Speech -vice- Hate Speech
The Right To Speak Freely -vice- Limited Speech Imposed by Government Intimidation of Speech.
- - - Well I CHOOSE : Freedom of Speech and The Right To Speak Freely -sorry- If You Hate To Hear That !

VE3 - Clearly 'you' are an exceptional individual who is no mere Canadian -butt- Someone who has reached the Exalted Level of The Order of the American Bashers (OAB) with the ceremonial title of "Sir Can-A-Duh-Ian".
- - - All Hail to VE3 the Ayatollah of Can-A-Dee-Olah !

Peter, in your opinion, what would constitute a decent rig? I don't have on just now, but In the old days, I always used off-the-shelf Cobras and Pearce-Simpsons, usually with a (TUG8) D104 mike attached, even while I lusted after Trams and Brownings. They always worked well for me, but then what did I know? Base antennas were, variously, 1/4 wave GPs, a HyGain Penetrator (super antenna!) and a Wilson 6-element beam (amazing antenna). Mobile antennas were either 1/4-wave whips or HyGain "rabbit ears" on the gutters - also great antennas.

I don't have a base set. Mobiles and HT's, here. Mostly Unidens and Cobras. I have a 148GTL Sideband that I like. Lots of features, including a built in SWL meter for tweaking the antenna when I move it from car to car. This is the classic Cobra, and can be tweaked within an inch of its life, with the right technician's license. It came out before the FCC mandated redesign that precluded certain types of over power tweaks. Upper and lower sideband are good. The clarifier has a pretty narrow range, but if the far end rig is in compliance, it's never a problem.

Sounds good, intelligiblity is quite good, and it works.

Most of the rigs I've seen, today, have more features that don't matter than performance. So, it's kind of a crap shoot there.

Nothing I've seen in a mobile is worth giving up my 148GTL for.

Of the base stations I've seen recently, I've not seen much that strikes my fanny. A couple of Galaxy rigs are pretty tasty, if wholly illegal.

Like most rigs, the real performance will be in the antenna. HyGains are excellent, as you've noted, a good beam will do wonders, but is overkill for the service. I had a buddy, decades ago in St Louis...this was junior high school before the huge CB boom... with a cubical quad that he let me load my Arvin 100mw ht into one afternoon. I wound up jawing with a trucker in North Carolina. The trucker admitted to working a 100w linear into a collinear pair, but I was only working 100mw into that cubical quad.

Fun days. If I'd known what that kind of experience would have led to down the road, I would have burned that HT and started playing with my little brother's Barbie Dolls.

I know that this reply is kinda late (OP was Feb 28), but more recently
I came across an excerpt from the schematic:
http://www.radioscanner.ru/uploader/2006/icfsw30.djvu
As one can see, the MW frontend is quite simple, similar to e.g. the ICF-7601. Possible causes of no AM but everything else working thus could be:
* One wire of the antenna coil L16 (or the center tap) has become disconnected. Should be relatively easy to check.
* No LO output. Use another rx to check for the LO het 450 kHz above nominally received frequency. If this is not present, it's either a problem with the LO or the PLL (for which I don't have a schematic).
* Dead MW mixer. This is not unlikely given the sudden appearance of the problem (which frequently indicates a semiconductor defect) and would be toughest to fix, requiring replacement of the CX20111 (a 24-pin SOP part). It looks like this chip was produced at least until 2000 and is still obtainable.

Against all advice I have created a Yahoo news group devoted the stopping RFI.

<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/stopRFI/>

Posting will not be allowed.

I intend it to be more of a library then an active disscussion group.

I check into this group several times a week, and if anyone posts anything that looks RFI related I will copy the link over the my new group.

Any ideas can be sent to gfreport at hotmail dot com.

If I receive too much spam or abuse I will just kill the group and abandon my Email.

R2000SWLER and others think I am plain nuts to even try this.

The group is nowhere near complete, information will be added as I find it.

A special thanks to W1HIS for allowing me to include his "B-field" noise sniffing antenna, to R2000SWLER for his assistance and to RHF for allowing me to use his circles of noise discription.

If I have posted, or post, anything that anyone feels I have stolen from them, please let me know and I will credit them or remove that information.

That depends on how far from a window your office is;
metal buildings usually filter out A.M.

F.M. waves are smaller, hence actually penetrate buildings better

Take it outside & see how it works then . .

you might try a loop antenna or some such

Winston Churchill had several doubles. He used to send them in harm's

Another botched post from RHF.
You used old references from may 2004 and sep 2005.

All you had to do was look up"Sharia Law" on this website and you would find my post of sept 12, 2005 reporting that the courts of quebec and

The Sony is a pretty good am receiver. Make sure the little slide switch on the left hand side is all the way up for maximum sensitivity, and that the slide switch on the right hand side is set for normal, not synch or ssb. The antenna is quite directional, so you could try rotating the radio for best reception. I doubt if any other radio would do much better. You will have to punch in the am freqencies you want to listen to.

Dear Chris,

In most office buildings it is difficult or impossible to listen to MW (AM) broadcasts. Electrical interference from computers, printers, other electronic components commonly found in offices, and, especially, fluorescent lighting all conspire to defeat AM reception in such a location.

About the only way to minimize the interference is to install an external antenna. I doubt if your company would allow you to actually install a proper outdoor wire antenna and run the leadin to your desk. If you are not too far from a window, you could try a Select-A-Tenna Model M < http://www.ccrane.com/antennas/am-antennas/select-a-tenna-model-m.aspx > which will bring in outside signals to the tunable Select-A-Tenna and thence to your radio. It itself will work by induction - it needs only to be placed within about six inches or less from your ICF=-SW7600GR.

But, frankly, I think your co-workers and/or boss may take a dim view of all this. Plus this antenna is somewhat costly. Best to try to find something on FM or just bring in a music player. Take your '7600GR home with you and enjoy it there. It is one heck of a great receiver.

Best,

Joe

Hi Joe....

At the risk of being flamed....since u are in Boston, wouldn't WTKK 96.9 FM do for what u wanna hear?

Also....if any FM "HD receivers" relay any news-talk AM's for their subchannels, that may be worth your while. Check Radio Shack or other electronics stores for HD Radios. They should be under $200 now, and possibly you are close enough to the main station to where a small set of rabbit ears will do.....

You're right that he put himself in harm's way cuhulin. He also fought during the Second Boer War and at the Battle of Omdurman. But I think that ve3 is also right about him having at least one, and maybe two doubles during WW II. That what a lot of people say. But I don't know it for a fact.
So I think, as far as I know, that you are both correct.
Churchill was a very unique person, I think we all agree about that. I admired him greatly while growing up. I also admired John F. Kennedy when I was a young kid. But I don't have any admiration for his brother, Edward "Ted" Kennedy.
I also liked Margaret Thatcher, and Ronald Reagan.

Well, now that depends on your receiver, your preferred bands, and the nature of your location.

Easy answer is a random length wire worked against a good ground. Or an inverted V.

Then there's the issue of transmission lines from the antenna to the receiver.

There are lots of options. Tell us more about your situation, and you'll be amazed how close we can get to the perfect installation for your objectives.

I currently have a Sony ICF-7600GR, and was wondering, how you try to hear activity on nets that are huge. I know on a shortwave radio that you can basically only really hear one channel at a time and can't scan like VHF/UHF but when I look at networks like the Mystic Star and some other huge ones, it's like how do you see if any channel has activity easily, when you have to basically type in each and every frequency to the radio.

Oops - hit send too soon

After the "A"'s game, yesterday, CBS-owned KIFR, Free FM on 106.9 FM, changed its format to "Classic Hits" (does that sound better than "oldies"? The fact remains that the the time has come for many Beatles fans that "When I'm 64" is too damned close) and started calling itself "KFRC".....well, when they had to give a legal ID, they swallowed the old call. Whether they're actually gonna change call signs I don't know.

Back in the '50's and '60's, KFRC, on 610 kHz, was one of the top 40 stationx associated whose format was designed by Bill Drake (ne Philip Yarbrough). Others include KHJ in Los Angeles, CKLW in Winsdor (across from Detroit), KGB in San Diego, and WRKO in Boston.

Hi Guys
Well, I sorted it out at last, quite simple really, I took it apart and noticed that there is a block connector with about 8 or 9 wires running into it near where the battery live terminal is. It had worked its way loose and was only about half way on the connector at an angle, I simply pushed it on the connector properly and now its working fine.
I found out that these wires from the connector run parralell with the batteries in the same compartmant, they had come away from the sticky tape stuff they use to hold them in place out of the way of the batteries, so over time when I was re-newing the batteries the sides of the batteries were pulling these wires downwards slightly, causing the other end where the block connector is to slowly come of the connector. I put fresh tape on the wires and taped them out of the way of the batteries, Everything is now working perfect. I am glad to say. Its been running now for 18 hours without a glitch :-)) regards
Clive

You mentioned the book "The War Magician" in relation to Winston Churchill.
The only reference i could find to this book was a "Major Jasper Maskelyne" who used his techniques of magic/illusion to defeat the nazis. Nothing was mentioned concerning Winston Churchill.

David - check your math.

CB is 11 meters = ~ 433 inches. Take that whip, mount it on a 6" ball & spring, and you get 1/4 wavelength.

(5/8 wave is up around 22' 4" - check out a typical 5/8 wave ground plane, like a Penetrator or one of the old Avanti Sigma 5/8 (another great antenna)).

Now, what the vehicle, acting as a ground plane, gives you, is anyone's guess - but the radiator is 0.25 wave. I would not want a 22' whip swinging off my rear bumper!

The following taken from The Federal Register / Vol. 72, No. 80 / Thursday, April 26, 2007 / Notices

DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY Coast Guard
[USCG-2007-27656]
High Frequency (HF) Radio Broadcasts of Marine Weather Forecasts and Warnings AGENCY: Coast Guard, DHS.
ACTION: Notice; request for public comments.
SUMMARY: The Coast Guard is soliciting public comment on the need to continue providing high frequency (HF) radio broadcasts of weather forecasts and warnings. Public comment is necessary in order to assess the demand for the HF radio broadcasts of weather forecasts in each of three forms: (1) Radiofacsimile; (2) voice; and, (3) Simplex Teletype Over Radio (SITOR), also known as Narrow Band Direct Printing (NBDP). The infrastructure necessary to provide these services has exceeded its life expectancy; the equipment is no longer manufactured, repairs are difficult to accomplish, and spare parts generally are not available. Because of the very significant costs involved to continue these specific HF radio services, the Coast Guard requires information on the extent to which these services are used by the public and what alternative services are being used or are available to obtain weather forecasts and warnings.
DATES: Comments and related material must reach the Docket Management Facility on or before August 24, 2007.
ADDRESSES: You may submit comments identified by Coast Guard docket number USCG-2007-27656 to the Docket Management Facility at the U.S. Department of Transportation. To avoid duplication, please use only one of the following methods:

(1) Web Site: http://dms.dot.gov
(2) Mail: Docket Management Facility, U.S. Department of Transportation, 400 Seventh Street SW., Washington, DC 20590-0001.
(3) Fax: 202-493-2251.
(4) Delivery: Room PL-401 on the Plaza level of the Nassif Building, 400 Seventh Street SW., Washington, DC, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays. The telephone number is 202-366-9329.
FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: If you have questions on this notice, please contact Mr. Russell S. Levin, Spectrum Management Division (CG-622), U.S. Coast Guard Headquarters, telephone: 202-475-3555, fax: 202-475-3927, or e-mail: Russell.S.Levin@uscg.mil. If you have questions on viewing or submitting material to the docket, call Renee V. Wright, Program Manager, Docket Operations, telephone 202-493-0402.

The Sony ICF-SW7600GR is not a scanner. It is a radio designed for listening to world band broadcasts and ham transmissions. If you try to listen to nets with this radio, you will be frustrated. That said, the best way to check is to tune to the bottom of the frequency band you wish to monitor and, while in the AM Mode "Norm," hold in the inner tuning button [+ ->] and manually scan that band. There will be no "chugging" or "muting" when scanning this way. You will then hear any transmissions available at your location and you can then stop and listen - only to one frequency at a time, however.

You asked how to check easily: there is no way with this radio. It is not designed for that. For what you wish to do, you need a scanner. I hope this is not the main reason you bought this one!

Best,

Joe

If the photo isn't in that book,it is in another book I have here.A photo of a British Ship off the coast of France and Winston Churchill is inspecting some Gun emplacements on shore.There is enemy fire coming in and he was asked to get back inside the bunker where it is safer,but he didn't get back inside.

I am not neat and tidy and orderly.My books and stuff are scattered all over the place in my dusty old house.It would take me more time than I care to spend looking for that photo.Ever since I got internet access and DirecTV, I stay glued to the couch.

I don't see the point of doing this. Most news readers will allow you to search on words in the subject line like RFI.

If you are interested in older articles that rolled off the news server you use then you can use Google news groups to search for any subject.

Why go through the trouble to maintain a Yahoo group to do the same thing that is already available?

Announcing SwezeyDsp Upgrade! Use your PC to filter SWL audio in real time.

I am pleased to announce the first major upgrade to the Swezey Digital Filter Program in several years.

The program filters shortwave audio to remove heterodyne tones and other noise to create a more pleasant listening experience.

Connect the audio "Line Out" on your shortwave receiver to the "Line In" on your computer's sound card.

Then run the program to digitize the input, filter it and play it out through your computer's speakers in real time.

You can find out more about the program and download a free trial version at:

http://www.winternet.com/~swezeyt/dsp.htm

The program can also accept input from prerecorded WAV audio files allowing you to filter sound from virtually any source.

The program can also capture input to WAV audio files either before or after filtering for later use.

I hope you will consider the Swezey Digital Filter Program.

Thanks a lot,
--Tom Swezey

I smoke Zigzag and TOP brand name mentholated non filter cigarette tobacco that I buy four six ounce cardboard cans of the stuff each time I go to the discount tobacco store in Clinton,Mississippi,about five miles West of me.I hand roll my cigarettes.I am going to the discount tobacco store tomorrow afternoon for four more cardboard cans of cigarette tobacco.About $10.00 each cardboard can.Each cardboard can last me about two and a half weeks.

I am going to the Wal Mart food store tomorrow afternoon too for grub and beer.I haven't had a beer in about a week and a half.At the moment though,doggy and I are eating some Nabisco saltine crackers with Jiff peanut butter.Black Rain movie is on tv.Do the double decker buses in the Philippines look like those buses in Japan.They sure are all lit up with those moving electronic billboards moving around all over the outside of those buses,they look like Times Square on wheels.I wish we had buses like that over here.

Something else interesting about Churchill is that the United States made him an Honorary Citizen of the United States of America.
Cuhulin, I have read some of Von Mises works. I believe that he was a great friend of freedom.
Best regards, Cato

Citizen of the United States of America

Declaration of Citizenship Response by President John F. Kennedy and the Response by Winston Churchill

Declaration of Honorary Citizen of United States of America
April 9, 1963

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS Sir Winston Churchill, a son of America though a subject of Britain, has been throughout his life a firm and steadfast friend of the American people and the American nation; and

WHEREAS he has freely offered his hand and his faith in days of adversity as well as triumph; and

WHEREAS his bravery, charity and valor, both in war and in peace, have been a flame of inspiration in freedom's darkest hour; and

WHEREAS his life has shown that no adversary can overcome, and no feat can deter, free men in the defense of their freedom; and

WHEREAS he has by his art as an historian and his judgment as a statesman made the past the servant of the future;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JOHN F. KENNEDY, President of the United States of America, under the authority contained in an Act of the 88th Congress, do hereby declare Sir Winston Churchill an honorary citizen of the United States of America.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this ninth day of April, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eighty-seventh.

JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY

Remarks by President John F. Kennedy at the White House, Washington D.C., April 9, 1963

We meet to honor a man whose honor requires no meeting -- for he is the most honored and honorable man to walk the stage of human history in the time in which we live.

Whenever and wherever tyranny threatened, he has always championed liberty.

Facing firmly toward the future, he has never forgotten the past.

Serving six monarchs of his native Great Britain, he has served all men's freedom and dignity.

In the dark days and darker nights when Britain stood alone -- and most men save Englishmen despaired of England's life -- he mobilized the English language and sent it into battle. The incandescent quality of his words illuminated the courage of his countrymen.

Given unlimited powers by his citizens, he was ever vigilant to protect their rights.

Indifferent himself to danger, he wept over the sorrows of others.

A child of the House of Commons, he became in time its father.

Accustomed to the hardships of battle, he has no distaste for pleasure.

Now his stately Ship of Life, having weathered the severest storms of a troubled century, is anchored in tranquil waters, proof that courage and faith and the zest for freedom are truly indestructible. The record of his triumphant passage will inspire free hearts for all time.

By adding his name to our rolls, we mean to honor him -- but his acceptance honors us far more. For no statement or proclamation can enrich his name -- the name Sir Winston Churchill is already legend.

Sir Winston's response
28 Hyde Park Gate, London, April 6, 1963
As read at the White House by Randolph S. Churchill, April 9, 1963

Mr. President,

I have been informed by Mr. David Bruce that it is your intention to sign a Bill conferring upon me Honorary Citizenship of the United States.

I have received many kindnesses from the United States of America, but the honour which you now accord me is without parallel. I accept it with deep gratitude and affection.

I am also most sensible of the warm-hearted action of the individual States who accorded me the great compliment of their own honorary citizenships as a prelude to this Act of Congress.

It is a remarkable comment on our affairs that the former Prime Minister of a great sovereign state should thus be received as an honorary citizen of another. I say "great sovereign state" with design and emphasis, for I reject the view that Britain and the Commonwealth should now be relegated to a tame and minor role in the world. Our past is the key to our future, which I firmly trust and believe will be no less fertile and glorious. Let no man underrate our energies, our potentialities and our abiding power for good.

I am, as you know, half American by blood, and the story of my association with that mighty and benevolent nation goes back nearly ninety years to the day of my Father's marriage. In this century of storm and tragedy I contemplate with high satisfaction the constant factor of the interwoven and upward progress of our peoples. Our comradeship and our brotherhood in war were unexampled. We stood together, and because of that fact the free world now stands. Nor has our partnership any exclusive nature: the Atlantic community is a dream that can well be fulfilled to the detriment of none and to the enduring benefit and honour of the great democracies.

Mr. President, your action illuminates the theme of unity of the English-speaking peoples, to which I have devoted a large part of my life. I would ask you to accept yourself, and to convey to both Houses of Congress, and through them to the American people, my solemn and heartfelt thanks for this unique distinction, which will always be proudly remembered by my descendants.

Well, I like broadcasts also, but what would you use for nets because I heard there really are no HF scanners due to the fact of how much Random wire. Get some nice 20 g or so insulated wire. Use 10' for a cheap portable; 20-30' for a portable with a 3.5 mm EXT ANT jack:

30-100' for a portable with a proper antenna jack or a desktop. Too much antenna will swamp a cheap radio and cause all kinds of phantom signals due to the overload. Get your wire outdoors, as high as possible, avoiding power lines very carefully, and as far away from metal or reinforced concrete as possible.

Remember, meters times MegaHertz equals 300.

Odd. I have been using fluorescents exclusively since I started paying my own electric bills. They work much better than the coal burning infrared lamps.

KFRC went Top 40 under PD Tom Rounds and consultant Bill Drake after KHJ went Top 40, and KHJ made the switch in 1965.

Rounds, along with Ron Jacobs (KHJ PD), went on to create American Top 40 and the first working syndication barter model in the US.

Drake never did KRUX nor sister Leland Bisbee station KTKT in Tucson.

After KHJ, he mostly did the RKO General stations, including WHBQ in Memphis and WOR-FM in New York, as well as KFRC and WRKO. KGB came before KHJ, after drake built up KYNO in Fresno (where he competed against his LA PD, Ron Jacobs). KAKC was the other direct consulted station, but not owned by RKO;

Nothing but ordinary cigarette tobacco I smoke.On the Zigzag www.zigzag.com card board can it says, Classic American Blend.Fresh - Top Canister.North Atlantic Operating Company,Inc.Louisville,Kentucky.200 Zig - Zag Papers Included.Make Your Own Better Cigarettes.Zig-Zag Classic American Blend cigarette tobacco is a combination of fine quality Burley and Virginia tobaccos,enhanced by the addition of small leaf aromatic tobaccos.It's cut longer and is considerably more moist than the tobacco used in factory made cigarettes to give you smooth tasting,easy drawing and longer lasting cigarettes.Whether you roll your own or use our filtered cigarette making machine and filtered cigarette tubes to make your own,we guarantee that you'll find Zig-Zag Classic American Blend to be of incomparable quality.

I don't see a website for TOP Quality Tobacco Selected and Blended in the U.S.A.Distributed by Republic Tobacco L.P.Glenview,Illinois,but you can look it up.

Another one I smoke is Kite Cigarette Tobacco.Turkish & Blended Cigarette Tobacco.Made In U.S.A. no website on the card board can of that one either.

The discount tobacco store also sells Bugler cigarette tobacco,but I don't like Bugler,it bites my tongue too much.They have many other kinds of cigarette tobacco and all of the factory made brand name cigaettes too.I quit smoking factory made cigarettes many years ago,no flavor,no taste,no nothing and they cost wayyyy to much money too,about five something dollars per pack,I think.The best factory made cigarettes I ever smoked before were Philip Morris non filter cigarettes.I used to buy them in the PX stores for seventeen cents per pack.The cigarette factories do not make any decent cigarettes anymore.

I really enjoy listening to utility stations like the USAF's GHFS and systems I never got traffic yet, like the FBI ALE and Mystic Star network. I asked on another forum, and they said there are no scanners really for hf/shortwave because of how much noise there is, but I heard there are wide band receivers, so I figured I will ask here. I would like to be able scan like I do with my radio scanners, if that is possible.

They were not consulted by Drake, however. Hundreds of stations from England to Peru copied the Drake mechanics... that did not make them Drake's clients.

I don't doubt that you use any of this stuff, I have rolled a hole lot of them myself (Bugler) it just the way you are playing Country Boy. You're a lot more citified then you are letting on. That's what I am getting a kick out of. Remember, I am sitting over here in the corner just watching and I get a kick out of the Country Boy routine your putting forward, that's all I am saying.

You haven't done or said a thing wrong I'm just kidding you about this Country Boy routine.

The ICR-71A is working perfect and has a CW filter (Fox Tango or such) & original box and manual. The radio's power supply was reworked with regulator chip instead of overheated pass transistors. I am looking for a very good TS-830S to trade for.
This will have to be a face to face trade, I'm in the SE Michigan area.
TRADES ONLY. If interested email k b 8 t l at y a h oo d ot

I can supply pictures of the radio for those interested.

Most table top short wave radios have scan functionality.

For example in an interview by PBS he stated: "But as a Christian, biblically, scripture makes very clear that it's an immoral position." Which is either an incorrect interpretation of the bible or utter nonsense depending on your viewpoint. He then goes on in so many words to say that homosexuality is a choice. The guy was a closed-minded bigot who unfortunately managed to attract quite a group of followers.

In celebration of Earth Day my local grocery store had GE CFL's on sale for a buck a piece. Couldn't resist the opportunity so I swapped out most of the bulbs. What a difference - because they are so much more efficient they consume 1/4 the energy for an equivalent amount of light from an incandescent bulb. The color temperature is very close to incandescent too.

And for SWL's concerned about noise, the only time I pick up any noise from one is to move the radio to within 5 inches of the light.

Did you know that even though CFL's contain a very small amount of mercury that they actually release less mercury into the atmosphere than an incandescent. That is possible because much of our power comes from burned coal which releases large amounts of mercury into the air. Indeed if you were to break all of the mercury CFL bulbs the total amount of mercury released including the amount of mercury used in power generation would be far less than that released by incandescent.

You can always have a bulb re-cycling program to collect the mercury.

The CFL's I have seen do not have a incandescent bulb spectrum but like most florescent bulbs tint toward blue. It would cost more money for the inside bulb coating and also reduce the efficiency of the bulb for a CFL to generate a redder spectrum.

What did you pay for the bulbs?

Another question is how did you determine that they only disturb the radio from 5 inches away? The problem with this technology is that the power spectrum they broadcast is diverse with more power on some frequencies. You would need a spectrum analyzer to determine this with any certainty.

Yes I built one. It works but appears to be very dependent upon having a good ground.

At the moment all, and I mean everything including the TV antenna, is down. We are getting a new roof and I don't want the roofers stumbling over my precious antennas.

I have a wire ran out the window laying on top of the hedge, sucky but I have got to have some RF daily.

Yes, I agree and such programs are starting in the USA. An NPR program characterized the amount as something like 5 miligrams...the size of the tip of a ball point pen. The amount of mercury not spewed into the atmosphere by buring coal makes the risk of a few bulbs breaking and the cost of recycling a more than reasonable tradeoff in my mind.

Actually the newer ones are colored slightly warm to come close to incandescent bulbs. The color in degrees kelvin is 2700 for the GE and comparable helical style bulbs. GE and other companies do make cooler bulbs. The older style bulbs were definitely on the cold side giving ones face a corpse-like color!

Don't know how they do it, but the current group of bulbs is right in there with incandescents for color temperature. Indeed I swapped 10 of them out and told my wife I'd improved on the lighting but didn't say how. She couldn't see a difference.

$1.00 a piece at the local grocery on Earth Day. Shop around a bit and you can find them in packages for a cost of $2.50 per bulb.

Tuning around and listening gets me close enough to certainty. If I can't hear it and it doesn't disturb listening them it isn't a problem. The greatest noise was on the AM band and it disappears within 10 inches of the bulb.

However, that mercury is being spewed into the atmosphere in China where the bulbs are apparently all made. Additionally, if one breaks in your home, it can cost up to $2300 to actually clean the place up due to the mercury, this was also I think pointed out on NPR or perhaps another network.

I can imagine that once the bulbs are more commonplace that a real estate sale might just include testing for mercury and cleanup of any possible contamination prior to sale.

Overall, I see it as a no win situation, and plan to stock up on incandescents.

FK you, Al Gore, you mentally ill idiot.

Oh well, the Preakness is about to run. Hopefully my horse Curlin will have a better showing.

WARNING - Got Radio Noise ? Some CFLs produce RFI at 2.65 MHz

Usually about Three-Times (3X) the cost of an old fashion Incandescent Electric Light Bulb even those nice GE "Reveal" Bulbs with the Blue Tint.
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Incandescent_light_bulb

On-the-Plus-Side - CFL's use about 1/4 the Electricity (Power / Energy) as the older Incandescent Light Bulbs.
ENERGY => http://www.lightsofamerica.com/light-cfl.htm

On-the-Plus-Side - CFL's last, and Last and LAST usually

Good-for-the-Planet - CFL's are simply better for the Environment then the older Incandescent Light Bulbs.
Note - Most CFLs are "Energy Star" Rated

Note - The Negative Ions (Anions) in the Air 'vitalize' our body as though we were in a forest, by a waterfall, or at a hot spring.
A Negative Ion is often called "The Air Vitamin", because when we inhale the Negative Ions, they accelerate our metabolism, promote vitality, stabilize the nervous system, help us recover from fatigue and raise our appetite. The volume of Negative Ions per cubic centimeter (cc) in tranquil, refreshing natural areas (such as forests, hot springs, waterfalls, and oceans) amount to about 800- 2000 Ions/cc.

What You Should Know About The Air You Breathe :

1. The average person breathes approximately 3,400 gallons of air each day - unfortunately much of that air is filled with contaminants, pollutants, and impurities you just can't see.

2. According to the Enviromental Protection Agency, the air inside your home can be two-to-five times more polluted than the air outside.

3. Home interior air can contain a variety of contaminants and pollutants including mold spores, pollen, bacteria, dust mites, asbestos, radon decay products, and other particles and impurities.

That problem occurs with any product that requires electricity in it's manfacture in China. On a related note imagine what is happening around their chip fabrication labs.

Not on the NPR program I heard yesterday afternoon.

No more than from the very common long tube flourescent tubes that have been used in kiteches and under counters for decades. Indeed the amount of mercury used in bulbs has been reduced drastically. One very important point to remember is that the total addition of mercury to the ecology is still much less with flourescent bulbs than with incandescent, even if you were to break all those bulbs.

You are ahead in terms of energy consumption and mrecury pollution by switching to flourescent.

When my buddy got out of active duty,U.S.Navy (U.S.S.Ticonderoga) back in the 1960's,he worked for a couple of years in the maintnace department at the G.E.lamp plant that used to be on Highway 80 here in Jackson.The old building is still there,but some small businesses use that building nowadays.I would be over at his home visiting him and his family and sometimes some other friends would be over there.Whenever he talked about working at the old G.E.plant,the stories he told were usually about some funny humorous things that happened,things about bulbs exploding and the mercury machines.Then he went to work delivering the U.S.Mail for the U.S.P.O.More funny humoros stories.

Good on yer,Curlin! With a name almost sort of kind of similar like cuhulin,how can you lose?

Why do some people equate Incandescent Light Bulbs to Coal? America gets most of it's electricity for the grid from coal and nuclear and hydro plants.If you are using flourescent light bulbs,how do you whether or not coal is producing the electricity for those flourescent light bulbs?

Got it from a friend, worked ok but thought i should "clean" it. Sprayed some automotive electrical cleaner into tube sockets and band selector area, let it dry, made absolutely sure tubes were in correct position. Stone dead, maybe a slight hum from the transformer.

I really like this radio and I know it's not worth much, but I'd like to keep it and hopefully fix it. As I said, it worked ok before.

I'd really appreciate any help on this - what should I try first? I know next to nothing about electronics but if you speak slow and don't use big words...

We have replaced most of our lightbulbs with CFLs. Only those few bulbs controlled by a dimmer switch are still incandescents. New Jersey had a program a couple of years back encouraging people to switch to CFLs by offering them for $1.00 apiece, the rest being subsidized by the state. I took advantage of that offer and bought over 12 DOZEN of them, mostly the 15 Watt (60 Watt equivalent) CFLs but also some 7 Watt (30 Watt equivalent) and 11 Watt (40 Watt equivalent). The 7 and 11 Watt bulbs are enclosed so one does not see the "twist." They are good in powder rooms.

All that said, I believe the future will NOT be CFLs. I would recommend that young people here try a few to see if they like them, but do not stock up on them. The reason I say this is because I believe the future will be LED bulbs. These are far more efficient than even the best CFLS and the LEDs will last from 4 to 10 times as long, maybe even longer. Once the price comes down to a reasonable level, I would see no reason for LEDs NOT to become the lighting standard. (I'm older so I do not know if LEDs will become practical in my lifetime.)

Have you tried any of the LED flashlights? I bought several from AES. They sell a model for $9.99 that is machined from aluminum and runs on 3 AAA batteries: "HOUSE OF DEALS 9LED/3AAAFLSLT*" see this listed at:

http://search.cartserver.com/search/search.cgi?bool=AND&cartid=a-6994&category=newprices&maxhits=1200&keywords=house&go.x=21&go.y=11&go=GO%21

It's the third item down. I have to tell you this thing is BRIGHT! AND it's made as well as any MagLight I own. These will give you something of an idea as to what can be done with LEDs. If this can be accomplished with flashlights, I can't wait until they achieve this level of lighting quality with home LED light bulbs.

(I've even seen some LED flashlights in the "Dollar Tree" store. They have only 3 LEDs and are not as bright or as well made as the AES models, but for only a dollar ...)

And, yes, I know all these LED flashlights are, in fact, made in China. Pity.

Best,

Joe

BO,

Before you get all self-righteous, here's what your glorious Fuehrer did for the Taliban:

http://www.robertscheer.com/1_natcolumn/01_columns/052201.htm

The Taliban came about after the Russians left which is a polite way of saying that you are another dumb-ass who hasn't a clue about the history of the region. The Russians were having fun with the Muhadjideen and it is this group that put the Russians to flight. The Taliban came into power after taking it from the Muhadjideen.

You're confusing the Taliban with al-Qaeda. Here's a newsflash for you, dumbo: they aren't one and the same. It's al-Qadea which are the international terrorists. And just to refresh your memory, your Fuehrer did say that going after the leader of al-Qaeda, Osama bin Laden, wasn't a priority.

Your thinking is a perfect example why the war can't be won your way: nice and quick. And who says that having troops over there is a guarantee that there aren't any terrorists over here?

I do not own or use any scanning radios.However, I believe you are incorrect when you state there are no HF scanners, but you'd have to double-check me. There are a number out there that would seem to be suitable for your desires. Unfortunately, of course, they are somewhat expensive. There are several models, made by AOR, Alinco, ICOM, or Yaesu that might be suitable. If you are seriously looking to scan the high frequencies, I suggest telephoning AES and/or Universal Radio and talking with someone there. (AES would probably be more helpful; they have been so, at least in my experience.)

If you wanted a non-scanning radio suitable for utilities, there are two ways to go: the Sangean ATS 909 with an outdoor antenna and an AC power supply is a good one for utilities and hams because it has two bandwidths and good dynamic range. (It is not as good for broadcast reception as the Sony ICF-SW7600GR.) I am hesitant, however, to recommend ANY Sangean product as I have owned/still own four of their products, none of which is truly a good performer or constructed very well. Thus I have a sour taste in my mouth regarding Sangean. Others, of course, will have differing experiences. Note that I have never owned an ATS 909 so you'd want to inquire of people who do own this model for their opinions. The other, and better, way to go, in my opinion, would be the ICOM IC-R75 tabletop receiver, again with a suitable (and significant) antenna. With appropriate (optional) filtration, this radio should almost totally satisfy your needs. It is the least costly tabletop radio suitable for utility/ham reception that is currently being manufactured.

The above is, of course, my opinion only, and you should get other opinions, especially from those who do actively monitor utility broadcasts.

I do wish you the very best of luck. Radio is indeed a great deal of fun, isn't it?

Poll staff filled up Maguindanao ballots

Lente to Comelec: Probe TU's 12-0 wins

2007/05/20

The truth will always come out somehow and the truth about Team Unity's 12-0 victory in Maguindanao, where TU senatorial candidate Luis "Chavit" Singson topped the Senate vote, is that there was no voting in Maguindanao, and worse, the ballots and the summary of votes were filled up by teachers assigned to man the polls and thumbmarked by children even before the scheduled polls.

A participant of the wholesale Maguindano vote fraud who turned whistleblower, exposed this wholesale election fraud yesterday in an interview over radio dzRH, baring that the voting was over even before the precincts were scheduled to open.

ANd at the very least, get with the program so it doesn't look like you are spawning all these off-topic posts.

If you really feel you have to change the subject header, you should be making it clear that you are doing so. So you'd be doing something like <New Topic> was: <old topic>

But it would be a far better newsgroup if you just ignored the off-topic posts,

rec.antiques.radio+phono is the place for that sort of radio.

There are lots of people over there who have done work on the

Greetings Spin:

Have you just joined this thread?? Go back to the beginning and you will see that it was started by someone attacking and making fun of, and insulting Canadians. (Also having nothing to do with shortwave radio.)

Amost everything in this thread since then has been attacks back and forth by Canadians and Americans. Particularily by member "dxAce" insulting Canadians, and calling Canadians and Canada dirty names and other insults.
Nobody in this thread has been discussing shortwave radios, although we are all members of the rec.radio.shortwave group.
If you are interested in ending these type of threads, then perhaps you should do something about people who insult others just because they are a different nationality.
I have spent my time trying to end the name calling back and forth. I certainly didn't start it.
There are people here who seem to have a hatred for Canada and Canadians. Check the thread history. It goes back quite a way now.
You might also think of going after the person who started the insults of Canada and Canadians. It's because of him that this whole thing started.

With respect, Cato

Greetings Spin: Take a look below. You will see how this whole thing started. Nope, right from the start it had nothing to do with shortwave radio. It started back on May 4, so you've missed a lot.
Quite a few people involved in this thread. If you have no interest, you could try and ignore it. That's what I should have probably done.

But being Canadian myself, it was really hard to ignore an insult. "Dumbass Canuck" seems to be the way to refer to Canadians. How would Americans feel if we started insulting the States, and Americans??
But Beerbarrel isn't all that bad. One of the real insulters is dxAce, who seems to have a real hatred of Canada, and Canadians. He tosses out insults and namecalling every time he has a chance.
Nope... nothing to do with shortwave radio.
But I never started it. Yep, I do love shortwave radios. I have a collection of them and love listening. That's why I am here. But I will not let people insult Canadians or Canada without a reply. As long as they are allowed to do that on this list, then myself, and other Canadians here, will stand up in defence of our country and nationality. I would expect Americans to do the same if I was to insult their nationality and their country.

Canadians could not protect themselves if you paid them. What a bunch of pussies!
WINNIPEG, Manitoba (Reuters) -- Canada's postal system has stopped delivering mail to a home in Winnipeg, Manitoba, after a mail carrier was scared away by a "very threatening cat," the Winnipeg Free Press said Friday.
A Canada Post spokeswoman said the agency was concerned about the safety of its carriers, although it hoped for an amicable solution to its dispute with cat-owner John Samborski.
"The letter carrier who delivers mail there ... was brought up on a farm, she is very comfortable with animals," spokeswoman Kathi Neal told the newspaper. "Apparently this is a very threatening cat."
Samborski told the paper that his 8-year-old, declawed, black cat Shadow is docile, and it was "ridiculous" for Canada Post to make him to pick up his mail from a post office instead of delivering it to his door.
Shadow "likes to eat and sleep and cuddle. You could drop a bomb and he'd just open one eye, take a look, then close them and go back to sleep," Samborski, 41, told the newspaper.

Some of the 'Yupiteru' brand scanners will scan the HF bands. These are the so called 'DC to daylight' models like the MVT-7100.

There are lots of radios into which you can program HF frequencies and then have the radio scan through the memory channels. You're not going to get one for chump change, though.

This is not to say you can't enjoy utility station monitoring without a rig that scans a hundred or so memories, because I myself did it for years, the hard way, by wearing out the numeric frequency entry keys on a DX-394. Before that I tried it with a Sangean ATS-803A portable and doggone near drove myself nuts until I got the DX-394 and relegated the Sangean to SWBC listening use.

If you really want to monitor a relatively large group of frequencies that's used for something in particular (Mystic Star, HF-GCS, COTHEN, MARS, or whatever) and not miss anything, you're going beyond casual listening and getting into some pretty serious utility monitoring. The typical inexpensive portable HF receiver simply isn't going to cut it, these radios are consumer-grade items designed with casual SWBC listeners in mind. They're for people who just want to listen to the news on the BBC or hear some German music on Deutsche Welle, and listening to utility stations is a whole different ballgame. Even some of the less expensive tabletop rigs aren't going to cut it. You really are a lot better off with a serious radio to do serious UTE listening.

Some of the radios I know do this are the Yaesu VR-5000, Drake R-8B, the Ten-Tec Argonaut V and RX-340, and the Icom R9500, R-75, even the R-20 if you're after a portable for a specific reason.

Most HF ham transceivers also seem do this, including both of mine (Kenwood TS-50S and TS-450SAT), and the Icom IC-706MKIIG and Yaesu FT-990 rigs the club I belong to has.

ANSWER TO THE "WHERE IN THE WORLD IS DXECCHIO" QUIZ

D.Peter Maus said on May 14 at 6:24 pm:
"History starts at a random point of convenience. Go back one P.M..
The aide to Chretien that called Bush a moron in an official memo has resigned."

VE3 reply May 14 8:21 pm:
" You make a big fuss about "getting your facts right." Why don't you follow your own advice? "Go back one P.M," That would be John Turner. If you are talking about Jean Chretien, that's backTWO P.M.'s.

I was surprised that no Canadian spotted this and that Maus didn't check. Maybe no one reads my stuff except DxEcch, who scans my posts like a vacuum cleaner, sucking up every detail, slavering, hoping to find something to which he can compose one of his four stock insults.
But in this case, his low animal cunning failed him.

The planted error was that Paul Martin was the P.M. before Stephen Harper and you have to go back THREE P.M.'s to get to Jean Chretien.
Well, I guess that's a bit to trivial for an American reader, but Paul Martin was one of the "Three Amgios" along with Bush and Fox who signed the Canada-Mexico-US Greater North America Co-Prosperity Sphere, or whatever it was called. It was well reported in the media.
"Trivial Pursuit" was invented in Canada and we love this stuff.
To get to John Turner, you have to go back FIVE P.M.'s. For the record, they are:

Name Date of taking office
Stephen Harper 2006 02 06
Paul Martin 2003 12 12
Jean Chretien 1993 11 04
Kim Campbell 1993 06 25
Brian Mulroney 1984 - 1993
John Turner 1984 - 1984

The reason I picked John Tuner was that he was the only P.M. I have ever met personally. A sample of his political views is still relevant today:

" Any country that is willing to surrender economic levers inevitably yields levers politically and surrenders a large chunk of its ability to remain a sovereign nation. I don't believe our future depends on yielding those economic levers of sovereignty to become a junior partner in fortress North America to the United States."

John Turner, Oct 12, 1988

It was a close election with the majority of English Canada supporting Turner. The French, however , were determined to secede from Canada at the time, and felt that closer union with the US would help their cause. Their votes defeated the government and brought in Brian Mulroney who proceeded to have his big business friends loot the country. People finally woke up and defeated his government in the 1993 election, but the damage had been done. The Conservatives only won two seats in the greatest turnover in Canadian history.

Here's a question that I have often wondered about....

Let's say you have two of the same radio model... two Sony 7600GRs, two Kaito KA1102s, Eton E5s, Icoms, Kenwoods, etc. or whatever...

How likely is it that they will both have the very same sensitivity, selectivity, scanning sensitivity, (both stopping on the same stations during a scan etc.) etc.??

Or will one of the two always be a bit better then the other? Both a bit different??

Pretty likely they will be different. I've seen huge errors in factory alignment, and performance, in about every radio I've ever compared side by side. Between parts tolerances, and human errors during alignment, it has to happen.

One problem that never seems to totally go away is screws that aren't tightened up. This causes lots of odd problems over time, and sometimes problems thought to be a failed part is actually a bad ground from screws loosening up. I had a scanner once that would squeal at times and I was about to send it to the factory service center, but opened it up and found that all the screws holding one of the PC boards were loose. If I wiggled the board, the radio would squeal once in a while. Tightening the screws up fixed it.

Most of the time though, the differences are slight between two examples. I've seen a few, mostly scanners though, where one radio is seriously deaf compared to another one. Sometimes just turning one of the adjustment trimmers or slugs a tiny bit will fix it, and that was probably just due to being bounced around during shipping. On one of my own radios, the factory settings were so far off it was kind of a joke. One slug had to be turned several revolutions before the radio's sensitivity came up to normal. A few minutes with the other slugs had it really working great. I don't know how it could have made it out the door that way. It's over 20 years old and is still cranking away next to my bed.

Dear Cato,

I own two samples of the Sony ICF-SW7600G (these are currently not in use) and five samples of the ICF-SW7600GR (which are all in current use). In addition, I own five samples of the AN-LP1 antenna, all in current use. I use this antenna almost exclusively in conjunction with my Sony radios, rarely, with these radios, using the whip or any other antenna.

All of the above items are made in Japan.

All (including the 'G models) perform identically. All are totally interchangeable and I can see absolutely no performance differences whatsoever. (The features offered on the 'GR model are superior, hence the "retirement" of the 'G models.)

My radios were purchased over several years - the first 'GR in 2001, two more in 2002, and the final two in 2005. (The 'G models were purchased in 1998 and 2000.) The AN-LP1s were also bought over a period of several years.

I am very impressed with the very high quality of Sony's construction (and performance) with regard to this radio.

(I might also mention also that I own two samples of the Sony ICF-SW35 which we keep in each of our cars. Though made in China, their construction and consistency of performance is also exemplary but please note that the two were bought together and their serial numbers are only 2 numbers apart.)

This represents my personal experience. I own other shortwave radios but only one sample of each.

Best,

Joe

Dear John,

Your reply is spot-on accurate. I had recommended to "RedPenguin," the person who originated this thread, the Sangean ATS 909 as a relatively inexpensive way to go but really I would (and did) recommend the ICOM IC-R75, suitably filtered and with a proper antenna, as the least costly means of monitoring utility transmissions.

Less costly radios, not designed for monitoring utilities, will cause more frustration than pleasure in that regard, at least in my opinion.

Best,

Joe

You are probably right, (actually, ARE right) if the "Googler" knows enough to filter and or interpret the data found.

You are very knowledgeable and would quickly find what you were looking for. Keep in mind when it comes to noise reduction (and by extension, grounding) is a somewhat complex subject. Add to that much of the information out there on noise reduction and grounding is wrong or at least incomplete. Someone who is looking for help often doesn't understand enough to evaluate what is good and what is bad info.

And, if you go to one of the groups with questions, you often innocently start a war on grounding! A while back I asked for help in finding some noise reduction articles I was looking for on another group, I got lots of advice on "just Google it". I had, and was unable to find it. William Fieldstone sent me an email with the information I was looking for plus a lot more helpful things.

So, I applaud him for starting a library of good information that will hopefully filter out the "wheat from the chaff".

I have a fairly extensive planting this year, including grapes, citrus, vegetables of all kinds, AND NOT ONE BEE to pollinate the things. I have been growing home gardens for over 50 years now, and this is the very first year that there are no bees.
I belive that over 35% of our food supply depends on bees for pollination. You are correct on all counts. I'm pissed, my plants all have beautiful flowers, NO BEES.... Only wind pollinated things will set, not dependable.

Also, very few bumblebees and wasps too, almost none to be seen and usually they are pests to contend with.

Henry Kissinger bragged many years ago that by controlling the food supply they will control the world's populations......

I think there are two extremes. For very cheap radios, you may see differences fairly easily. For very complex receivers you may well see differences. I believe Rob Sherwood once said that the Icom R9000 was so complex, that most samples he saw had at least some minor issue or other.

Greetings;

I just went to WHRI's guestbook and complained about their very unchristian jamming of CHU, a station which has been on 7335 KHz for more than 80 years. I pointed out that the WHRI engineers wouldn't like it if a secular station walked all over their signals so why do that to CHU?

According to Glenn Hauser, WHRI engineers aren't listening to CHU staff and shortwave listeners. I suggest we go to their page and complain in their guestbook about this intolerable situation. If enough people clog their guestbook with complaints, maybe they'll get it. When they send out junk mail, send back complaints about their jamming in the strongest possible terms.

There is no excuse for this hypocritical behaviour on the part of WHRI. It justifies the belief of non-Christians that such stations don't care about the Golden Rule. In fact they seem only to want the gold and they won't submit to God's rule.

Sincerely,

Everything made, no matter how hard we try will have small differences, no 2 resistors will have exactly the same value, thats why they have a rating like 20%, 10%, 5% tolerance they are within, say 10% of the rated resistance (a 100 ohm resistor may be 90 ohms or 110). With that in mind, and the number of resistors in a radio, there can be 1,000's or millions of combination. And every component in the radio is the same way (capacitors, transistors, wire, coils, diodes, etc)

So no 2 radios will EVER be exactly alike, they will be (like their components) within 20% or 10% of a rated 'projected' radio design. More expensive radios use closer tolerence components so they will have much closer performance, but cheap-o's using 20% tolerence parts, you may be lucky if they are even similar :D

For just AM/FM, I would highly-recommend the Sony ICFS10MK2 - it is handsome, rugged, and a great DX'er:

http://www.radiointel.com/review-sonys10mk2.htm

It can be had off SonyStyle.com, J&Rmusic.com, or Amazon.com for about $10, including shipping:

Most consumers gave it great reviews on Amazon.

Sigmira is a Windows application program for decoding various "Ham" radio signals. Its features include:

-Selectable demodulation of PSK31, RTTY, and CW "digital" modes.
-"Waterfall" spectrographic display.
-Point and click signal selection/tuning.
-'Live' input from a shortwave receiver to a standard PC sound interface or canned input from saved .wav files.
-16 bit sampling. 8 k-sample/s sampling rate.
-Signal strength meter.
-Adjustable squelch.
-Clock display with UTC and local time.

The distribution package includes examples of PSK31, RTTY, and CW signals in .wav files.

And it's free.

Greetings: I certainly appreciate everyones opinion on my question about the similarity or difference in reception of two radios of the same manufacturer and model number.
It appears from the reply so far, that if one was to sit down with any two such radios, and did a side by side comparison, it should come as no surprise if there are small differences in reception sensitivity, selectivity etc., and we should just accept that fact and live with it.
But in most cases, as price and quality of components go up, variations in reception between two radios of the same manufacturer and model number should become less.
If any one else has any comments on this topic, I will certainly be interested in reading them.

Respect for life? You mean selfish, self-serving life dont you?

Again, the pregnancy is a human life. The DNA shows that to be a fact. I

If youre going to call them "gods children", you then must asume that God exists to even give wisdom. And if God does exist to give wisdom, then you have to admit that the wisdom He would bestow would be exactly what He does bestow, that of which is to give life, not death. You cant claim that God isnt there, then use Him to claim that He gave a DIFFERENT wisdom than what He actually gave us.

1206. External Antenna with insulated wire?

I have a fairly large amount of insulated copper wire, that is solid. My Sony ICF-7600GR, has an external antenna jack that is just basically a headphone jack with it's connector. Isn't it possibly just to put this insulated wire on a 1/8 jack and make fairly ok antenna? I guess you can't just use any end, I used one from an old pair of headphones that broke for the heck of it to test and it barely got any signal in. Am I wrong about using copper wire like this?

I used to think the multi-LED flashlights were bright (and, indeed, compared to a small incandescent flashlight, they are... but much more difuse). The ones that are REALLY bright are the Luxeon® type LED lights. These are the ones most likely to eventually make it into meaningful home lighting. I have some 32 LED lamps that I use in various places. They are about the same brightness level as the little 7 1/2 watt sign bulbs (but of course use less than one watt). The Luxeon is many times brighter, and with just a single light source. These are quite a bit more expensive for the higher power ones, but the 1 watt and 3 watt versions are coming down in price rapidly.

For just AM/FM, I would highly-recommend the Sony ICFS10MK2 - it is handsome, rugged, and a great DX'er:

http://www.radiointel.com/review-sonys10mk2.htm

It can be had off SonyStyle.com, J&Rmusic.com, or Amazon.com for about $10, including shipping:

Most consumers gave it great reviews on Amazon.

Even if the radio are the same, or nearly so, another challenge is how to make the measurements accurately. If you are scanning the band to see what one picks up vs. another, unless the radios are on the same antenna, and scanning frequencies at exactly the same time there will be observed differences. This is just because any fading of any signal being revived can affect the results. In comparing radios for real world results, you will have trouble because the real world is constantly changing.

If you use lab equipment to make the measurements then you have a much better chance at seeing differences in radios. At least your measurements will be more consistent. However, then you would need to relate the lab measurements to real world application.

I wouldn't be overly concerned about componenet tolerances. A good designer would understand the component variations and either specify proper components or design the circuit so that it is not that sensitive to component variations. On many circuits the variations of components are not that critical. (A few are, but many are not.) So generic comments about component variation are not important. What is important is looking at those component values that really do matter.

Alignment can matter significantly, especially in front end circuits. I've seen lots of performance variation in AM radios because the tracking between antenna, RF, and oscillator tuning was bad. If you look at the circuits in many modern radios, you'll find designs that also minimize the need for critical alignment.

All of the digital AM/FM radios are ugly - plus, the Sony ICF-S10MK2 is analog-tuned an narrowed filtered, so it blocks out some of the IBOC/IBLOC/IBUZZ on AM. My $25 cheap digital PLL radio is too wide filtered and picks up too much IBOC/IBLOC/IBUZZ. With nighttime IBOC/IBLOC/IBUZZ coming, I wouldn't spend too much on a radio, until the affects of skywave IBOC/IBLOC/IBUZZ are known.

The Grundig Mini 300 PE sucks on AM:

Yes but it needs to be a mono jack with two conductors tip and barrel.

Connect the wire to the jack tip for a single wire antenna.

If you want something better use two wires, one to the barrel and the other to the tip. Stretch the wires in opposite directions and you have a dipole. Make sure they don't short to each other inside the jack.

The expatiation is they would perform the same. Generally, the more expensive the radio the less likely you would see a difference between individual units. The Japanese have better quality control so it would be less likely that you would see a difference between those units.
There are exceptions of course but they should be rare.

Oh, Oh, never call a Scot, "Scotch" He isn't Scotch. Scotch is a

Canada will have nothing to do with the illegitimate invasion of Iraq.
If the US defies world opinion, it will have to face the consequences alone.

Pity that he doesn't have them in his head where they might do some Officially, you are correct. However... unofficially..... sometimes other things happen behind the picture that we are presented with......

In the past few years, there have been times when perhaps between thirty to forty Canadian troops have been in Iraq, assigned to British and U.S. forces as part of a military exchange program.

And yes, they apparently have been involved in combat in Iraq when accompanying these units. Thirty to forty troops at a time is a very small number, however, it does set a precedent. But that is not generally known, and is not official as far as I know. The issue has been raised in Parliament and argued about quite strongly by the opposition on more then one occasion.

As far as Afghanistan goes, yes, Canadian troops actively go after the Taliban and Al Queda insrugents that keep using hit and run tactics, and blowing up I.E.D.s and using suicide bombers. There have been quite a number of battles, paricularily around Kandahar, to the east and west of the city, and a number of other areas. They also do the stabilization thing with schools, water supplies, hosptals, and handing out food, bottles water and radios to the people. And they are also training Afghan milita and police.

Can you just buy those ends anywhere? I never heard of a tip and barrel, but I guess I can maybe find them at Radio Shack.

If it ever gets a short, it will not damage the radio, at least permanently right? I mean since it's not like electricity going through or something, right?

I have given you the wrong idea. The tip and barrel are descriptors of the same plug. The stereo head phone jack you used is a barrel contact, a ring, then a tip. Examine the stereo headphone jack you have and you will see that there are three contacts (metal areas) separated by two insulators. You only need two contacts, a tip and barrel. The plug you need will be the same size but only have the two contacts missing the small ring contact.

The antenna jack is meant to power a small external antenna that Sony sells so you do not want to short the two contacts of the jack. Use insulated wire.

If you have a virus you should reschedule your exam session. There's enough STD's in the amateur radio community.

Also, does connecting the tip and barrel connections together cause a short resulting in damage or only something temporary?

mighty smart dog as well. You've got yourself one great dog there

It's only urban legend if you want to believe it is... Area school had a

Isn't it true that if there is noise, that a better antenna will only make it worse? Odd thing I have been noticing with the dipole antenna is, on 6000/6180 RHC, I can hear the music and news fairly clearer then the whip all the way up and a fair amount louder but on a local MW station, that always seems to come in clear on any AM radio, actually seems to get quieter and appears to have more noise to it. Also, do I need to worry about the length of the wires? I read a couple websites on dipoles and they say it's to be 1/4 of the wavelength that you want for the meter band, but I don't want a specific meter band, I want to do just general SW listening, and I have stations all over the place.

100pe is hard to tune, esp on bike. Have had some good rides listening to sw, but I think the bad reviews of the am section are correct. It's not digital either.

If anyone finds any articles or links that they consider flawed or in error, please email me at gfreport at hotmail dot com and provide correct information, a link would be very nice.

In the RFI world there are often contradictory ways that achieve the same or very similar levels of reduction.

While I intend the stopRFI group to mainly deal with SW, 1.8MHz through 30MHz, RFI reduction techniques for LW, MW or even VHF/UHF are appreciated and will be included.

I hope to add a folder on non obvious "RFI" issues like front end over load and "out of band" interference such as MW or even FM BCB issues. I found the R2000 does much better at LF, 100KHz through 500KHz, with the addition of a "Low Pass, MW reject filter", such as the one offered by Kiwa.

For my purposes I consider any interference to be RFI and I hope to include links to sites that detail how to deal with all of them. For instance the Betts Preselector can really help a receiver like the R2000 in crowded band conditions.

I disagree, and most obstetricians would too. A pregnancy is a state for a woman. There will be a fetus within the woman's uterus during a pregnancy, but a pregnancy is most assuredly not equivalent to a fetus.

> The DNA shows that to be a fact.

DNA testing would show that the fetus has DNA. DNA is the coding or instructions used during development of an immature or incomplete organism like a fetus. Immature organisms have the potential to become independent living organisms but they are not at that stage.
DNA also carries instructions for the functioning or operation of living organisms.

Not bad for the price, but the downsides include a tiny analog dial and AM coverage that only goes to 1650khz on the test model. Digital tuning with a tuning lock would be far more useful for the purpose described by the original poster.

So you've got a "group" that is only accessible if you join up. Yet the content is coming from elsewhere.

That is not a good thing.

It's bad enough when I do websearches on my email addresses and find a page where a post of mine about an old receiver appears, nobody every told me that they were going to do that, but the subject header has been garbled because the person who put it there things I'm saying something I didn't say (I was correcting someone's notion here that a certain older receiver used the Wadley loop, yet on that website the subject header has been changed to suggest that I am reinforcing the notion, or something like that, I forget).

There is a big difference between the google archive where newsgroup postings are kept in context, and someone taking posts and sticking them on webpages out of context. I think it's fair, and completely useful, to link to relevant messages in the google archive, but I take a dim view of messages being placed on websites out of that context.

But instead of making up a webpage to do all this, you've taken the easy way, use yahoo, but the cost is that it's not available to all. You have to sign up to see the links, to see the files. That information is lost to the many.

When Mark Holden went off and created a yahoo group for discussing synchronous detectors, I took issue with that because it balkanizes things even further. And unlike setting up a new newsgroup to discuss the topic, it's way off somewhere else, with little to connect the two. Sure, the public can read the messages without signing up, but the files and links are unavailable. Note, this is because the commercial entity known as yahoo wants to use that content to lure readership to their ads, and they want the minimal sign up information in order to help sculpt the ads that the readers see. Newcomers may not think anything is wrong with that, but those of us who have been around the internet for long enough realize the whole point was to let information loose, and that is contradicted by the notion of little places on the internet where you have to sign up.

So not only did Mark Holden take away to some extent discussion of synchronous detectors, not only did he not offer something up to the whole world by making a simple webpage with the contents instead of locking it behind some corporate signup, but after some initial flurry of activity, that yahoo group is dead. A sympton, methinks, of a too specific topic.

Over the many,many years,I have accidently dropped and broken a few incandescent light bulbs before. (heck,who hasen't?) But,I never worried about it.I simply sweeped up the broken pieces and put them in a garbage bag for the garbage truck to pick up.Otherwise,what was I supposed to do? If I ever accidently drop and break another one,I will do same same.Hark! call the Knacker! call hazmat!

The only posts or threads form news groups are those that r2000swler was a participant and he has mainly copied his comments only keeping the comments of others as needed to keep the meaning clear. In the near future he will redo these few posts as stand alone text that he will have completed.

The links are an attempt to avoid geting anything out of context.

The files are complete and should not be ambigious or hopefully will not take anything out of context. All are either public domain, or "fair use" being non comercial with a link to the origianl file.

If you, or anyone for that matte, finds anything that has been taken "out of context", or presented in a way that you consider unfair, please let me know and I will consider removing the link or the file. Clearly if someone is offended by anything in the public domain, like the "US NAVY AC Mains RFI Study", that is simply too bad.

For the most I have the permission of the creator of the that are posted.

Dallas Lankford sent me the files of his that I have posted.

W1HIS granted me permission to publish some stuff he emailed to r2000swler.

Any requests for removal , or good links can be made in this group, or by sending me an email at gfreport at hotmail. dot com.

I did not start the stopRFI group to irrate anyone. I wanted to make a single clearing house with RFI info that people I trust feel is useful. But the contents are my choice. I haven't rejected anything yet, I have removed some links after reviewing them and decciding they do not fit the "mission profile".

I think the clearinghouse approach is a good idea. In a perfect world Yahoo would be free of spammers and trolls. Unfortunately the real world is that an open Yahoo group can work only if the forum leader patrols the posts constantly.

international frequency conventions? Acting like the communist Chinese

I would love to be abel to build a web page, but I simply don't have the skills to master HTML, and I preferr to spend my free time listening to my SW!

Somehow I have less free time now that I have retired.

If anyone is interested in building a web page I will check with Dallas,
W1HIS and r2000swler about migrating the information there.

The Yahoo group isn't perfect, but you can create a "fake" id to access the groups. After all, I hope everyone undersgtands gfreport has nothing to do with my real identity.

I've inherited a beaten up old Magnavox D2935 that I want to restore to some degree. My first challenge with the project- getting the darn thing open- is proving to be a problem. Does anyone know of hiding screws or tabs somewhere that must be released? I can't see anything holding to together except 3 screws and, with those removed, the set refuses to budge except in the lower right corner (facing the rear).

Any advice would be great! Thanks!

I don't know, but often consumer electronic equipment uses both screws and plastic latches. The latches often aren't aparent, until you actually get it open, at which point they are obvious, though a tad too late.

Also, they often have screws under labels (which sometimes even say the warranty is void if the sticker is removed) or in the battery compartment.

The fifth screw is behind the pivoting bar of that little plastic support stand jus below top center.
Squeeze this pivoting bar at both ends where it joins to the cabinet, and pull the piece out. The fifth screw will now be exposed.
I almost destroyed the thing looking for it, too :-)

I used to think the multi-LED flashlights were bright (and, indeed, compared to a small incandescent flashlight, they are... but much more difuse). The ones that are REALLY bright are the Luxeon® type LED lights. These are the ones most likely to eventually make it into meaningful home lighting. I have some 32 LED lamps that I use in various places. They are about the same brightness level as the little 7 1/2 watt sign bulbs (but of course use less than one watt). The Luxeon is many times brighter, and with just a single light source. These are quite a bit more expensive for the higher power ones, but the 1 watt and 3 watt versions are coming down in price rapidly.

I agree with Joe and Brenda about LEDs, and I cannot believe that the powers that be have not jumped onto the bandwagon with these things. Their potential is enormous. They are fairly cheap, last nearly forever (maybe that's why?) and use a shred of the energy used by any other viable light source.

Actually, they are, in a way, getting in on the LED wagon. Here in The Windy, as well as in a good number of venues I've visited in Wisconsin, the traffic lights have been changed from incandescent, to LED arrays. They're very harsh to look at without the original color filters used with the incandescents because the colors are pure, and the viewing angle is narrow...putting the output of nearly 100 high output LED's into a narrow beam. Small matter. Slap the filter over the LED's and you've got a mellower color output with no diminution in brightness.]

They'll last. Lower maintenance costs. Total energy for the traffic system is reduced, but not by as much as you might think. But they depending on installation and operating parameters, produce a hellaceous amount of RF noise. The LED arrays in my area cast RFI shadows as far inland as my house.

It can be overcome. Whether it will is a matter of some debate.

LED's are particularly well suited for this application because the color purity is high, and consistent.

Most applications for white LED's have limited applicable product due to the generally more blue nature of white LED light.

LED's are also finding their way into the marker, tail and brake lights of many models of car. With varying results depending on the purity of the voltage applied. Also easily overcome. And manufacturers are motivated.

All of the flashlights in my house, my flight bag, tool and remote kits, and vehicle glove boxes are multi LED models.

Varying color temperature makes some better than others.

There are some track lighting systems that are retrofittable to LED projectors. For more than $40 a pop. With dramatic long term savings. Casual lighting, like table lamps are still not practical for LED lighting, and the color temperatures of many white LED's are still too blue to be practical for most applications.

But there is a lot of development going on. With progress in color and lumen output being made at a good rate.

Nearly every wholesaler of light bulbs for general lighting, now, offers some LED product for home and business lighting applications.

The red ones are killer for astronomy at night, and can be varied in brightness to suit.

To my knowledge Gore hasn't claimed to have purchased any carbon credits. He has claimed to have purched carbon offsets. These are completely different.

Carbon offsets, are basically a contract entered into with another company to engange in activities that will reduce carbon emissions, or sequester the carbon emissions equivalent to some component of your carbon emissions. In Gore's case, the emissions resulting from his home energy use.

Oh, and Gore wasn't paying 20,000 a month to electify his home. Where did you get that nonsense number?

And his Home isn't a home either, it includes 3 offices, his own, one for his wife, the secret service, and of course rooms for guests, employees and those secret service agents as well. And he has occupied it for less than a year.

No, you've been mislaid by the concept that "it's too complicated".
I suspect that realistically you've never even looked at what's involved, and have listened to others who say it's difficult.

This why we see the rise of commercial entities like yahoo and myspace and all that branded nonsense, people who think things are beyond them so they let commercial entities take over. The only reason yahoo "gives" you anything is because you've let them take things in the first place.

You could learn to make a webpage in a day, not even that. But until you actually want to explore the concept, you'll never see how easy it is.

The issue is that your perception of the internet is something different from what it used to be. You'd need to log in to get your internet access, but after that much of everything was free to access. Having to sign up with something, just because you think it's an easier way to do things, is just more clutter to our lives, one more password to remember.

You've got 100 elements putting out as much light as a single incandescent. One two, or ten superbright LED's will save you a lot of energy. 100...not so much.

But still, there's less heating, there IS an energy saving, and there's far less maintenance involved.

That, alone, is worth the investment.

Hell, it's the reason I've pulled all the incandescents out of my stereo hardware and dropped in LED's. Someunits, like my Mac C-26 look different, because of the face was created for incandescent light, with it's higher red output, to provide both the green filters and the red with output using the same bulbs...but it's a small difference.

Units using incandescents for the warmth of the parchment look on meters don't do as well with LED's, but as manufacturers warm up the output on their devices, that will change.

Most units, however, like my McKay Dymek AM-5 with, what 8 lamps...when converted to LED's (and drop-in replacements, at that) Look pretty nice.

No more burning of plastic diffusers. No more opening the damned things up ever few months to replace incandescents.

Depends on the power source. I've noticed it more on AC/DC LED drop-ins than DC LED's alone. But even that can be abated with a bit of capacitance across the junction, and across the diodes of the power source.

Not likely. At least not at this stage. There simply isn't enough lumen output in LED technology, yet.

Likely, they're discharge lamps. Higher efficiency, and bluer than incandescents.

Not without considerable loss in output. A filter can only subtract from the input. Low red output is problem. A filter can only decrease the higher frequencies to bring the red back into balance. With as little red as there is in the output of a white LED, a you'd be defeating your own purpose by attempting to correct color balance with filtration.

But, again, manufacturers are working on this. The last shipment of LED flashlights I got were a lot warmer than the previous, so it's not like it can't happen, in time. This is still new technology for general application. A little patience, and there will be some serious improvements in the pipeline.

I check about once a month for new purveyors of LED drop-ins.
More every time. SuperbrightLEDs.com is a good source for some types.
Digi-key is carrying more LED products for general use.

Do a general websearch. Be amazed.

It IS, indeed, excellent news.

I have been listening to the Voice of Russia, but lately it seems it's being jammed. There's an annoying chirp sound right on top of the frequency. Is it the U.S. jamming them? Or is it just propagation? The chirping sound makes it hard to listen to them. Thanks. Jacob Wolfowitz is a single pustule in a bad case of achne. In any civilized nation he would be unemployeble since he is incapable of learning from his past mistakes and since he is completely corrupt.

I wouldn't hire Wolfowitz to flip burgers since I can not trust him to avoid

In 1972 it made the NBC, ABC and CBS evening news.

And it made radio news as well. Even the BBC was talking about it on the World Service.

This was quite a big story. And yes, it came from the scientific community.

Heck, shortwave is always fun. Women come, and women go. Shortwave radio hardly ever complains and is relatively easy on the wallet.

- - - Financed by US Tax Dollars -and-

VD - So are you the un-official apologist for Al Gore ?
Or actually a Paid Agent of the Democrat Party of the USA ?

VD - Most likely a Paid-in-Fool Agent of the Democrat Party of the USA ? -cause-

1 - The Liberal {Northern} Democrats always like to Spell the Words 'America' and 'American' with the Capital Letters "KKK" instead of a 'c' as you have done "AmeriKKKan".

2 - "KKKonservative" form of Race Baiting Coded Spelling

VD - Like the use of the word "NAZI" in a Debate the Letters "KKK" have the same import for Americans.

You were right, one of the five screws is under a sticker in the battery compartment. The one under the stand was actually the fourth one I found; number five was in the battery compartment. No latches, and I'm relieved about that. it went back together just fine.

This radio must have a good case design- the outside looks like hell,

No. There different types of antennas with different characteristics.

Noise levels generally go up the lower in frequency you go so an antenna that is less susceptible to local noise is going to work better. Most AM radios use a ferrite loop antenna that is better at not picking up local noise sources.

A larger loop antenna than the one in a AMBCB radio would probably work better than the dipole on ~ 6 MHz for RHC.

A dipole is a balanced antenna that can resonate at some frequency based on it's electrical length, which is directly related to its physical length. A dipole will perform better near the frequency it is resonate at but it will work well enough at most other frequencies other than even harmonics of the fundamental frequency for which it is cut.

In my book, anybody that lowers themselves to the level of sewer scum by using filthy dusgusting language like Vendicar Decarian does, has already lost any argument. Decarian obviously has a very limited and disgusting vocabulary. This is an example of extremely low level of limited intelligence. People of intelligence have no need of such sick filth used in debate. I can just picture Vendicar Decarian with his mouth hanging open and stinky watery diarrhea with little chunky bits spewing out of his mouth. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, pretty funny!!

Decarian is really showing a neanderthal level of intelligence with his mouth spewing his diarrhea at anyone he disagrees with. Total inability to carry on an intelligent and civilized debate with those he disagrees with, without filth coming out of his mouth. Vendicar Decarian is a real mentally sick example of a human being.
I can't wait to see how he responds.....

Religious leaders urge action on warming

- May 22,2007 -

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - Christian, Jewish and Muslim leaders are urging President George W. Bush and Congress to take action against global warming, declaring that the changing climate is a "moral and spiritual issue."

In an open letter to be published on Tuesday, more than 20 religious groups urged U.S. leaders to limit greenhouse gas emissions and invest in renewable energy sources.

"Global warming is real, it is human-induced and we have the responsibility to act," says the letter, which will run in Roll Call and the Politico, two Capitol Hill newspapers.

"We are mobilizing a religious force that will persuade our legislators to take immediate action to curb greenhouse gases," it says.

The letter is signed by top officials of the National Council of Churches, the Islamic Society of North America and the political arm of the Reform branch of Judaism.

Top officials from several mainline Christian denominations, including the Episcopal Church, United Methodist Church, Presbyterian Church, African Methodist Episcopal Church and Alliance of Baptists also signed the letter, along with leaders of regional organizations and individual churches. Rev. Joel Hunter, a board member of the National Association of Evangelicals, also signed the letter, though that group has not officially taken a stance on global warming due to opposition from some of its more conservative members.

Thanks for all replies. I'm thinking of the Sangean DT200VX or the Sangean DT 120. Thanks Ron & Harvey for the suggestions. I like the idea of TV reception sometimes so maybe the DT200 will win. The DT120 looks like a nice unit too so who knows maybe both if I run into some money. I've been using the DE1107 to travel but without winter coat with big pockets it just doesn't work out on the bike.

Well, thankyou Decarian for calling me Libertarian. Because, yes, that's just what I am. I believe in individual freedom, personal responsibility, small government.

You, obviously believe in the opposite.
People are to serve the government.
Government calls all the shots. Do what you are told. Keep your mouth shut. Don't criticise the Great Leader. Fail in this, and you will go to a re-education camp, or an extermination camp.
Big powerful government is the solution to all problems.
Only the socialists/communists have the correct information and answers.

Guess what Decarian. I actually have lots of books. Drives my wife up the wall. Primarily history, but also politics, geography, astronomy. economics. I even have a few good books by Ludwig Von Mises. Like his book "Socialism" for example. You should try to find it and read it. You might also want to make an attempt to read Alexandr Solzhenitsyn's "Gulag Archipelago". But I seriously doubt that you have what it takes to get through a great work like either of those two books.
So how about trying a smaller, simpler but still a good book, "The Law" written by Frederic Bastiat (1801-1850). You can actually find this one free to read online at... http://bastiat.org/en/the_law.html

In the West - "Such a tilt of freedom in the direction of evil has come about gradually but it was evidently born primarily out of a humanistic and benevolent concept according to which there is no evil inherent to human nature; the world belongs to mankind and all the defects of life are caused by wrong social systems which must be corrected. Strangely enough, though the best social conditions have been achieved in the West, there still is criminality and there even is considerably more of it than in the pauper and lawless Soviet society." - Alexander Solzhenitsyn

In the West - "Destructive and irresponsible freedom has been granted boundless space. Society appears to have little defense against the abyss of human decadence, such as, for example, misuse of liberty for moral violence against young people, motion pictures full of pornography, crime and horror." - Alexander Solzhenitsyn

Meanwhile the U.S. dollar has lost another 5% of it's purchasing power over the last 4 months, and over 40% since the Bush Traitor wormed his way into office.

Killing RepubliKKKans will soon be a national sport.

Since the year 2000, inflation has reduced the value of the U.S. dollar to 82.6% of it's current internal value. The current 13000 figure is equivalent to 10739 in constant 2000 dollars.

On Jan 14,2000 the DOW closed at 11722.98.

So with this tremendous record high, (ahahahahahahah) the DOW has only lost 8.4 percent of it's value during the Bush Administration's last 7 years.

In addition the U.S. dollar has fallen about 40% in value over that period.
thereby reducing the value of the DOW by about 45% over the last 7 years.

Quite an accomplishment if you ask me.

Ahahahahahahahahahaahha

Religious leaders urge action on warming

- May 22,2007 -

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - Christian, Jewish and Muslim leaders are urging President George W. Bush and Congress to take action against global warming, declaring that the changing climate is a "moral and spiritual issue."

In an open letter to be published on Tuesday, more than 20 religious groups urged U.S. leaders to limit greenhouse gas emissions and invest in renewable energy sources.

"Global warming is real, it is human-induced and we have the responsibility to act," says the letter, which will run in Roll Call and the Politico, two Capitol Hill newspapers.

"We are mobilizing a religious force that will persuade our legislators to take immediate action to curb greenhouse gases," it says.

The letter is signed by top officials of the National Council of Churches, the Islamic Society of North America and the political arm of the Reform branch of Judaism.

Top officials from several mainline Christian denominations, including the Episcopal Church, United Methodist Church, Presbyterian Church, African Methodist Episcopal Church and Alliance of Baptists also signed the letter, along with leaders of regional organizations and individual churches. Rev. Joel Hunter, a board member of the National Association of Evangelicals, also signed the letter, though that group has not officially taken a stance on global warming due to opposition from some of its more conservative members.

I hope they turn on the reverb like they use to use on the announcer's

32 ultra bright LED lamps in a single bulb draw about a watt, perhaps 1 1/4 watts. I suspect the traffic lights may draw as much as 5 watts with the number of lamps therein. These are replacing standard 67 1/2 watt incandescents normally used in traffic lights.

 Welcome to rec.radio.info! ***

Welcome to rec.radio.info, a group that aims to provide a noise-free source of information and news for the entire rec.radio hierarchy.

Two introductory articles about rec.radio.info are posted to the group every month. You are now reading the first article, which explains what rec.radio.info is, and answers some Frequently Asked Questions. The second article is titled Posting Guidelines, and you only need to read it if you want to submit an article to rec.radio.info.

You can skip to the next section of this article by searching for the next
" -- " string. The sections available are:
- What is the purpose of rec.radio.info?
- Why are messages almost always cross posted to rec.radio.info?
- What is a 'follow-up', and what does 'moderated' mean?
- OK, so now I know what 'moderated' means. Tell me more.
- What type of material is considered inappropriate?
- I do not have access to news, how can I get the information posted to rec.radio.info?
- Will the material appearing in rec.radio.info be archived somewhere?
- I have a regular posting with timely information, is there a way to speed up it's delivery, or automate for more convenience?

-- What is the purpose of rec.radio.info?

The purpose or charter of rec.radio.info is to provide the Usenet community with a resource for information, news, and facts about any and all things radio.

All the other rec.radio groups are intended for discussions and general chit chat about radio. Rec.radio.info will contain informational, factual articles only. Follow-ups are redirected to an appropriate other group, and further discussion (if any) will not take place in rec.radio.info.

In order to ensure that rec.radio.info contains only appropriate articles, it was decided to create the group as a moderated newsgroup.

-- Why are messages almost always cross posted to rec.radio.info?

It provides a "tag" for each article to be assembled into a filtered presentation in rec.radio.info (even with cross-posting, only one message, with a unique Message-ID, is propagated across the net). This tag also facilitates a pre-existing method of dropping or canceling the articles locally within the discussion groups if you don't want to see them. This accommodates individuals who want to separate the bulletins from the discussions, discussions from the bulletins, as well as those who are adamant about not reading another newsgroup and wanted to see everything all in one basket.

With the total size of Usenet (in number of newsgroups and total traffic) doubling every year or so, this is no insignificant contribution to reducing information noise and chaos. Making the discussion groups a catch-all, and making extra newsgroups filters on that catch-all, is also the most realistic way to implement such a scheme (It's not intuitively obvious what the charter, contents, and general appropriate topics for each and every newsgroup are. Seeing FAQ's and charter/intro postings in the home newsgroup is beneficial for new readers).

By cross-posting one only is adding a few tens of bytes to each bulletin (to specify the extra group on the Newsgroups line), but are adding the capability for very powerful filtering features available on most news servers, listservers and readers. Your local news guru could probably explain these features in more detail.

In rn, for example, according to Leanne Phillips in her rn kill-file FAQ, add a line of the form:

/Newsgroups:.*[,]rec\.radio\.info/h:j

either in ~/News/KILL (if you don't want to see rec.radio.info articles anywhere) or ~/News/rec/radio/amateur/misc/KILL (if you don't want to see them just in rec.radio.amateur.misc). The latter method means your kill file will only be consulted during rec.radio.amateur.misc (and hence runs more efficiently), and will probably work for most people.

In nn, according to Bill Wohler in his nn FAQ, add a line of the form:

rec.radio.info:!s/:^

in ~/.nn/kill (if you don't want to see rec.radio.info articles anywhere), or put the following lines:

sequence
rec.radio.info
rec.radio.

at the end of ~/.nn/init in order to see all the rec.radio.info bulletins first, then read the remaining rec.radio.* without the bulletins.

-- What is a 'follow-up', and what does 'moderated' mean?

If you are new to Usenet and are not familiar with the terminology, you might want to read the general introductory articles found in the newsgroup news.announce.newusers. Doing so will make your life on the net much easier, and will probably save you from making silly beginner's mistakes.

If you think that at this moment you are reading an echo, a conference, or a bulletin board, I'd also strongly suggest a trip over to news.announce.newusers.

For the rest of this article, we will assume you have a basic knowledge of Usenet terminology and mechanics.

A moderated group means that any article that needs to be posted to the group has to be accepted by the moderator of the group. Since we need to ensure that followups to an article (discussion) do not show up in the rec.radio.info newsgroup, the `Followup-To:' header line contains a newsgroup that is appropriate for discussions about the specific article.

-- OK, so now I know what 'moderated' means. Tell me more.

Rec.radio.info is a moderated newsgroup, which means that all articles submitted to the group will have to be approved by the moderator first.

The current moderator of the group is the rec.radio.amateur.moderated Moderation Team. Submissions to rec.radio.info can be posted, or e-mailed to:

rec-radio-info@panix.com

Comments, criticisms, suggestions or questions about the group can be e-mailed to:

rec-radio-info-request@panix.com

But before you do so, please be sure to check out the "Posting Guidelines" article.

The influence of the moderator should be minimal and of an administrative nature, consisting chiefly of weeding out obviously inappropriate articles, while making sure correct headers etc. are used for the appropriate ones.

-- What type of material is considered inappropriate?

There are three broad categories of articles which will be rejected by the moderator:

1) Requests for information: rec.radio.info is strictly a one-way street. We receive information in our mailbox; we then post it to rec.radio.info. Requests for specific information belong in the normal discussion newsgroups. If your request gets answered, you might consider passing the answer on to rec.radio.info, though. Especially if you can edit it into a informational, rather than a discussion, format.

2) Obvious discussion articles, or articles that appear unsubstantiated.

3) Commercial stuff: a relatively unbiased test of a radio product would be accepted, but any hint of for-profit might be reason for rejection. For three reasons: This is not the purpose of the list, for-profit is a controversial topic, and this list may be passed onto Amateur Packet Radio (where for-profit is prohibited except under certain provisos).

rec.radio.swap may be more deserving of the posting in any matter.

Similarly, copyrighted material generally cannot be used. If it's TRULY worthwhile to the net, We would recommend obtaining permission from the copyright holder. Please note the source, and if permission was given. We reserve the right to make the final decision concerning appropriateness in all situations. In most cases, a brief summary of, or pointer to, the copyrighted information may be all we can allow.

-- I do not have access to news, how can I get the information posted to rec.radio.info?

Google has an excellent web interface to Usenet newsgroups. It is available at:

http://groups.google.com

It supports both reading and posting.

-- Will the material appearing in rec.radio.info be archived somewhere?

Yes. See Google Groups above.

Effectively this means that anything you post to rec.radio.info will be permanently stored, so your work will not be lost.

-- I have a regular posting with timely information, is there a way to speed up it's delivery, or automate for more convenience?

Yes, there is! It may take a bit of chatter with the moderator, but we are willing to take responsible people and provide them the means of posting the articles directly from their site. We will try everything we can as we fully realize that DX (distant signal) and astronomical data can be somewhat transitory. We are also willing to allow regular posters of information the same courtesy, even if the information is not as time critical.

We refer to this as self-moderation, which is partly based on the model for rec.answers/news.answers. This requires co-operation and goodwill to be beneficial to the community in the rec.radio hierarchy.

Please direct any comments, questions, or criticisms about this article to rec-radio-info-request@panix.com.

 rec.radio.info - Posting Guidelines and Etiquette ***

Two introductory articles about rec.radio.info are posted to this group and to rec.answers/news.answers every month. You are now reading the second article, which explains how to submit something to rec.radio.info, and which answers some Frequently Asked Questions about the submission process. The first article is titled "Welcome to rec.radio.info", and it might be a good idea to check it out as well.

-- How do I submit something to rec.radio.info?

Two possibilities. You can use your newsreading software to just post the article to rec.radio.info, as you would do with any other newsgroup. The difference is that the software recognizes the special status of rec.radio.info as a moderated group, and will e-mail your article to us, the moderation team, instead of posting it to the group.

Alternatively, you can mail your article directly to us at the following address:

rec-radio-info@panix.com

Mailing us directly is probably (a wee bit) faster, but using the transparency offered by the newsreading software is probably more convenient.

If you have any questions, or wish to deal with some administrivia with the moderation team, we suggest mailing to the following address:

rec-radio-info-request@panix.com

-- How soon will I see my article appear?

It depends on how busy we are. Your article reaches us as mail, we have to read it first, give it the stamp of approval, and finally send it on to the group. We will attempt to read and decide on all submissions within 72 hours at the very least, though we will probably be able to process submissions much faster in actual practice.

The site from which we moderate this newsgroup, "Public Access Internet and Unix, NYC" (Panix), is directly connected to the Internet, and articles posted at that site should appear at most major news sites, including Google Groups, the same day. The principal delay, therefore, will be the wait in the moderator's submission queue.

If you post a periodic article, and have shown to be trustworthy, we may allow you to post directly if the article is of a timely nature. See the section below on direct posting.

-- Should my article be in a specific format?

No. If it is not totally illegible, we will accept it, and if it does not have a correct subject-line we will correct it with your permission -- that's what a moderator is for.

However.

You could do us a big favor by making sure your article conforms to these simple requirements:

1) The article must present information, not discussion or requests, We will reject the article or require you to change the wording if it is worth it.
2) A good, descriptive Subject line.
3) Always mention what source you got the information from.
4) Don't forget to include a Followup-To header, at least if you don't want further discussion to automatically be forwarded to you, the poster, which is the default if the article is only posted to rec.radio.info.

As we said: if your article is appropriate we will post it even if you don't follow these guidelines, but then don't blame us for not processing it immediately. 'Perfect' articles we can send on with a couple of keystrokes. Stuff that needs minor editing is going to have to wait until we have time to do so.

Please do not waste both our and your time by posting requests, as this is an information only news group.

-- What about crossposting?

If you send something to rec.radio.info, just name any group you'd like to cross-post to in the Newsgroups field. Then, when we approve the article for rec.radio.info it will get automatically cross-posted to any other groups mentioned. This will also override the default Followup-To: poster, replacing it with the groups you cross posted to.

We would prefer if the group be cross-posted to the various discussion groups in the rec.radio.* hierarchy that are appropriate:

rec.radio.amateur.misc Amateur (ham) radio and related matters rec.radio.amateur.packet Amateur Packet Radio discussions rec.radio.amateur.policy Amateur Radio practices, rules, etc.
rec.radio.noncomm Non commercial radio discussions rec.radio.shortwave International broadcasting on the 'HF' bands rec.radio.cb Citizens Band (27 MHz) discussion rec.radio.scanner Scanner discussions (unsupported group) or in one of the moderated groups:

rec.radio.amateur.moderated Amateur radio practices, rules, etc.
rec.radio.broadcasting Discussion of domestic radio broadcasting

We will leave it up to the poster to decide which group(s) are appropriate, but reserve the right to add groups if we feel it has broader interest. We will consult with the poster first.

Notes on crossposting:

- rec.radio.broadcasting is also a moderated group. The rec.radio.broadcasting moderator prefers to review all articles himself before posting. Placing rec.radio.broadcasting before rec.radio.info on the Newsgroups line should accomplish this. We will typically abide by the rec.radio.broadcasting moderator's decision whether the article is appropriate for rec.radio.info.

- rec.radio.amateur.moderated is also a moderated group. As the rec.radio.amateur.moderated Moderation Team manages both rec.radio.amateur.moderated and rec.radio.info, we can manage crossposting and approvals for both newsgroups. The rec.radio.amateur.moderated group does not allow crossposting to other discussion newsgroups, whether moderated or unmoderated. However, we would like to manage rec.radio.info as consistently as possible with how it was done by previous moderators, including the grandfathering of existing regular postings. Therefore, the submitter can choose rec.radio.amateur.moderated or the other unmoderated rec.radio.amateur.* discussion newsgroups for crossposting, but not both.

- Any FAQ or informational posting approved by the rec.answers/news.answers moderation team that is also crossposted to any rec.radio.* newsgroup (besides just rec.radio.info) is also automatically pre-approved for rec.radio.info. See below for more information.

If you post to another moderated group, it may be better to make special arrangements with both moderators before posting by contacting us at our administrivia addresses.

In addition, cross-posts do not take up extra space; modern newsreaders can be configured to show you cross-posted articles only once anyway; not everybody reads rec.radio.info; and rec.radio.info was never meant to reduce the volume of the regular discussion newsgroups. But keep in mind that some of the mail gateways may filter out the informational postings (at request of the subscribers) to keep the load down.

You decide.

-- I have a regular posting with timely information, can I make arrangements to help speed up delivery by posting directly from my site?

Yes, there is! It may take a bit of chatter with the moderator, but we are willing to take responsible people and provide them the means of posting the articles directly from their site. We will try everything we can as we fully realize that DX (distant signal) and astronomical data can be somewhat transitory. We are also willing to allow regular posters of information the same courtesy, even if the information is not as timely.

We refer to this as self-moderation, which is partly based on the model for rec.answers/news.answers. This requires cooperation and good will to be beneficial to the community in the rec.radio.* hierarchy.

If you are currently maintaining (or plan to maintain) a radio-related periodic information posting, you may wish to consider crossposting it to rec.answers/news.answers. Postings that are approved by the rec.answers/news.answers moderators for this treatment are automatically pre-approved for crossposting to rec.radio.info (as the news.answers requirements are far more rigorous than the requirements this newsgroup ever plans to use). For more information about this option, consult the appropriate information articles and posting guidelines in rec.answers/news.answers.

Realize also, that even if your post is not approved for rec.answers/news.answers, it can still be approved for rec.radio.info. The intention is not so much to get every last bit of radio-related information on rec.answers/news.answers, but rather to provide an alternative avenue of approval (as well as grandfather existing maintainers of radio-related information and spare them additional bureaucratic hurdles). Again, crossposting to either rec.radio.info or rec.answers/news.answers, both, or neither, is at the discretion of the poster (subject to the approval of the moderators). You decide what is most appropriate for your article.

Please remember that as an information maintainer, you are not alone. There are many others on the net who maintain and post periodic information postings, using various intermediate-to-advanced features of Usenet (usually via automated tools). Various degrees of technical support and general hand-holding are available from many Usenet veterans. Send us some E-mail describing your needs to our administrative address below, and we'll try to help, or at least refer you to the right knowledgeable individual(s).

-- And Follow-ups?

If the only newsgroup you have specified is rec.radio.info, then the Followup-To: field will always be set to poster. If you do not want this, you must supply a Followup-To line of your own, and we will honor that one, as long as it is a subset of the original Newsgroups line.

If you specify newsgroups to cross-post to, then the Followup-To field will be set to include all the cross-posted groups, excepting rec.radio.info itself. Again, if you do not wish this behavior, supply your own Followup-To line.

We maintain other standards on the various RFC-1036 (news transport) header lines. For example, if the article is appropriate for passing into the Packet Radio Information Network, we encapsulate the Packet Bulletin Identifier (BID) in the Message-ID: news header line indicating the machine of origin as the ampr.org domain:

Message-ID: <$opa.55.1994@ampr.org>

where the Packet Radio BID, in this example, is `$OPA.55', and it was posted in the year 1994, because some of the Bid numbers are cycled yearly. Hopefully, this can be used as a key to re-introduce the articles for the Packet Radio network. Also, if the article is a repost of an already existing information article in the rec.radio heirarchy, we ensure that the References: header line is linked to that previously posted article. This also helps to tag articles, and may be used for additional filtering if needed.

Since the articles are archived, please use the Summary and Keywords header lines to help one search for your article.

-- Why have I received no reply from you?

We never reject anything in silence, and we make a point of it to answer all our mail. However, E-mail, like a brain cell, can and does get lost, every now and again.

So, if you send us something, and you don't see it appear it rec.radio.info, and you still have not heard from us in reply after say, five days, you can be pretty sure that either your mail never reached us, or that our answer has never reached you. In that case, please try again (We will filter out duplicates).

Please direct any comments, questions, or criticisms about this article to rec-radio-info-request@panix.com.

Figures I've seen for the arrays put them at just under 40 watts in service.

That would be the extreme LED's built for commercial purposes. About 100 of them in the array. As a point source, each one will knock you back a step. In an array within 6 feet they'll leave you glare blind.

One thing that I remember from my college days as a student marxist/socialist activist, was that we were taught that calling people names, swearing, using filthy language etc. could be effective in shocking people into losing their grasp of an argument. It could also result in the opposition becoming angry to the point of losing their cool, and that would have the same result with the possibility that a fight would break out. We were told that we could swear, and name call the opposition all we want, but let one of them throw the first punch if a fight was going to start. Then we could fight back, and if the cops came, we could claim that we just fought back in self defence. Sadly, we did get into a number of violent fights. I am only glad that when I was involved, it didn't go beyond fists, except on two occasions. We won some. But we also lost some. We gave beatings, but took some beatings also. When I look back to those young years from my older age, I know now that it was not worth it. The "reactionaries" started the violence. Always make the other side react first. But it was us that goaded them into it.

I was a young idealistic, believing in a socialist utopia that we could build here on earth. It took quite some time to realize that such a utopia is an impossibility. We can not create "Heaven on Earth". It can NEVER happen. Human nature will never allow it.

Of course, now at my age, and being much wiser, I realized quite a number of years ago that socialism of any kind, totalitarianism of any kind, extremism of any kind, is badly mistaken. Being a Libertarian, for me, is best. Freedom, true Liberty, is worth defending.
But I do remember the lessons of the past. And I know the punishment that I took for being a traitor to the marxist/ socialist cause back then.
What I see here, with Vendicar Decarian, and a few other people, is typical dirty socialist tactics. But they are going even a bit further then we went. They are no better then the lower form of animals.

I'll do you one better. I'm going to guess that he is a muslim extremist working internet goups to turn people against each other with hate, and swearing and personal insults.
If I were the Taliban, or Al Queda, or one of their friends, I would certainly assign a few hundred or maybe a thousand followers around the world to do just that. Having them pose as someone that they are not. Stir up division and hatred on the internet. There are lots of muslims in Europe, Canada and the United States. How many of them get preached to by radical Imams or other muslim speakers from radical extremist muslim organizations?
Even a slim possibility that that could be happening?

DT {Boomer},

For a 'basic' Shortwave Listening (SWL) Indoor Antenna to use with most 'portable' AM/FM Shortwave Radios :
I would Recommend the Sony AN-LP1 Shortwave Active Antenna placed on a Window near the Radio. ~ RHF

The Sony AN-LP1 Active Shortwave Loop Antenna is by-design designed specifically for the "Metered" Shortwave Bands { Tune a Shortwave Band and Set It and Forget It ! - Simple ;-} SONY AN-LP1 ANTENNA => http://www.rnw.nl/realradio/lp1.html

http://www.owdjim.gen.nz/chris/radio/an_lp1_service_manual.pdf
TUNING => http://www.universal-radio.com/catalog/sw_ant/3676pre.jpg With One Shortwave (SW) Band per setting for :
SW Band and Knob Setting
75m = 4 MHz
60m = 5 MHz
49m = 6 MHz
41m = 7 MHz
31m = 10 MHz
25m = 12 MHz
22m = 14 MHz
Then Two Shortwave (SW) Bands per setting for :
19m & 16m = 16 MHz
15m & 13m = 20 MHz
As noted the Sony AN-LP1 Active Shortwave Loop Antenna performs very well between the 75 to 22 Metered Shortwave Listening (SWL) Bands with some fall-off in performance between the 19 to 13 Shortwave Listening (SWL) Meters Bands.
NOTE - The Sony AN-LP1 'portable' Active Shortwave Antenna is for the Shortwave Bands "Only" and covers 3.85 MHz to 21.95 MHz. [NOT the AM/MW and FM Radio Bands]

RedPenguin,

Longwire {Random Wire} to a Sony ICF-SW7600GR
Radio's {Input} External Antenna 1/8" Mono-Plug

Use a 1/8" Mono Phone Plug RadioShack Catalog # 274-286
http://www.radioshack.com/product/index.jsp?productId=2062452 Wire the Plug with the :
* Rear Barrel is for the Ground Wire
* Front Tip is for the Antenna Wire

Or use the "TVJT300" Mini-TV Antenna Adapter on this webpage to change 300 Ohm Longwire Antenna Input to a 75 Ohm 1/8" Phone Plug.
http://buyreliant.com/pfan/splitters_switches_baluns.htm Ground Wire to one Terminal and Antenna Wire to the other Terminal
- - - No Soldering Required and the Plus the Matching Transformer will help with Static Discharge build-up from 'outside' Longwire Antennas.

hope this helps - iane ~ RHF {pomkia}

Telamon,

FWIW - The Sony AN-LP1 Active Shortwave Loop Antenna requires it's own built-in {Set-of-Batteries} Battery Power to Opperate. The Sony ICF-SW7600GR Radio simply supplies a small 'sensing' Voltage to only "Switch" the AN-LP1
On-and-Off; and nothing more.

NOTE - This Switching {On-and-Off} Voltage from the Radio does NOT Supply the needed Power to actually Power the Sony AN-LP1 Active Shortwave Loop Antenna.

The Sony ICF-SW7600GR Radio has built-in 'protection' for this small Switching Voltage : When a normal 1/8" Mono Phone Plug is used with an Antenna Wire and Ground Wire.
http://www.universal-radio.com/catalog/portable/0360.html

The Sony ICF-SW7600GR Radio can be run on (via) an AC-to-DC Adapter {Wall Wart} while the Sony AN-LP1 Active Shortwave Loop Antenna can be Powered with (via) Two (2) "AA" Batteries = 3 VDC.

hope this helps - iane ~ RHF
